ROMMEL OPENS NEW PUSH ON U.S. BASE IN ALGERIA

Drives on Flank of British 1st Army.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SPEAKS.

Against a background of fresh American reverses in Africa, President Roosevelt in a Washington's birthday radio address last night told the nation "The Americans of Washington's day faced defeat on many occasions. We faced, and still face, reverses and misfortunes." Details on Page 2.

Josef Stalin, in an order of the day to the Red army, declared Russia was bearing the entire weight of the war on Hitler. Story on page 5.

ALLIED HDQ., NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 22 (AP).—Tank supported German infantry stabbed anew thru Kasserine pass late today toward the American base of Tebessa in Algeria. Another arm of Marshal Erwin Rommel's armored forces had advanced 16 miles to within 4 miles of Thala, an important road junction on the right flank of the British 1st army. A third column was menacing Sbiba, where a French communique disclosed thrusts six miles to the east of the town had been parried. Sbiba is 30 miles northeast of Kasserine and 25 miles due east of Thala.

Rommel was throwing most of his armor into the three-headed drive west of Kasserine pass with menacing results in a swift effort to exploit his gains of last week in which he overran 4,000 square miles of semi-desert between Faid pass, Gafsa, and the proximity of the Algerian frontier.

Show Signs of Exhaustion.

American and French infantry guarding the approaches to Tebessa, 35 miles northwest of Kasserine, successfully countered the first stanza of the renewed drive. They had beaten back one earlier thrust in which at least 14 axis tanks were smashed.

Of the Thala region, an allied spokesman said: "The Germans are now about four miles from Thala but they are showing signs of exhaustion."

Field reports tonight showed that the Kasserine gap was being "very heavily held by the Germans," who were bringing up heavier guns.

Whole Southern Line Periled.

The allies were faced with a difficult defensive task to prevent their whole southern line being shattered after the serious blow that resulted in the loss of Kasserine pass.

Reports from field headquarters said the Germans had hurled 40 tanks toward Thala, an Arab town of about 50 white clay buildings; 20 toward Tebessa, and 14 at Sbiba.

[A German broadcast last night claimed that two British columns sent to reënforce American troops in the Sbiba and Kasserine areas had been beaten back with heavy losses, one after being ambushed, and that "in the mountains on the Algerian frontier the German attack is making headway despite British harassing attempts." One column from the British 1st army, composed of an infantry brigade, was "badly beaten" by motorized German detachments near Sbiba," Capt. Sertorius, German military correspondent, said in the broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.]

Gateway to Historic Plateau.

Thala stands on the great Kremensa plateau. The town is situated 18 miles east of the Algerian frontier and 35 miles northeast of Tebessa.

Thala is the gateway to the plateau which has been a battleground in various wars for a thousand years. Should Rommel smash the allied forces, he would be able to send his columns out in a dozen directions over perfect tank country for 100 square miles.

Axis attacks 75 miles to the north of the main fighting arena—about Mejez-el-Bab in northern Tunisia—had been repulsed.

Rommel was gambling desperately in an effort to score a knockout blow against the British 1st army before the British 8th army could neutralize his Mareth line and push into the central Tunisian theater.

The British 8th army was said in unofficial reports from Cairo to be going forward northwestward toward the town of Mareth, having overrun Medinine along the outer works of the fortified Mareth line in southeastern Tunisia.

FOUR KILLED; 16 RESCUED FROM RIVER AT LISBON

Four Women Among Those Saved.

LISBON, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Yankee Clipper flying boat, arriving here on a flight from the United States, crashed in landing on the Tagus river today. Four were killed and 20 missing of the 40 persons aboard.

The remaining 16 passengers and crew members were brought ashore, but many were injured. The score of persons missing were believed buried at the bottom of the river. Four women passengers aboard were saved.

One of them was Jean Froman, radio singer, who was injured and whose husband was reported missing. Ignoring her own pain, she wanted to return to the Tagus and try to find him.

[Radio and entertainment circles speculated that "Jean" Froman might be Jane Froman, radio singer. In New York Donald Ross, husband of Jane Froman, said he had received confirmation that his wife was in the crash, but the statement in the Lisbon dispatch that "Jean" Froman's husband was missing was not clarified.]

The trans-Atlantic flying boat was under command of Capt. R. O. D. Sullivan of Sanford, N. C., and had come here by way of the Azores. It carried 27 passengers and 13 crew members.

Captain Is Injured.

The Clipper is the same one which inaugurated Pan-American Airways' New York to Lisbon line.

Capt. Sullivan, an experienced senior pilot, is among the injured in the hospital. He was unable to explain the cause of the disaster. He has made 150 trans-Atlantic and 55 trans-Pacific flights.

Others hospitalized include the first officer [unnamed], John Bouner, 25, fourth pilot; W. H. Manning, second engineer; Oster Huot, 25, navigator; David Sanders, 36, and Robert John Rouvan, 22, wireless operators, and Clifford Heldon and Spicle Lee, passengers.

William Butterworth, first secretary of the American legation, managed to walk from the rescuing boat to an ambulance and helped the other injured persons. Yvet Silver, least seriously injured of the women, was carried ashore with her clothing in tatters, but clutched tightly in her hand was a lipstick which she used as soon as she was placed on a stretcher.

Port officials said storm clouds hung low over the Tagus as the ship arrived.

"There was little wind or rain, but the air was heavily loaded with electricity," they related. "They kept talking to us from the ship and all seemed well aboard.

"The last words were, 'We are now turning right to land.'. The plane must have fallen in an unusually low air pocket—the right wing touched the water. Flames began coming out and the ship sank in a few seconds."

Line's First Accident.

New York, Feb. 22 (AP).—Pan-American Airways said tonight the crash of its trans-oceanic flying boat at Lisbon was the first accident on its trans-Atlantic service, established May 20, 1939.

Names of the passengers aboard the flying boat were not made public.

In a statement, Pan-American said that since its trans-Atlantic service was established "1,225 flights have been made to and from Europe, and more than 44,000 passengers and 2,500,000 pounds of mail have been carried without incident." This amounted, the company added, to an accumulated total of 6,600,000 flight miles.

Capt. Sullivan, a lieutenant commander in the United States navy reserve, is a former chief aviation pilot for the navy. He has been employed by Pan-American Airways since May, 1929.

SUBS SINK 2 U. S. SHIPS; 850 LOST

Most Victims Members of Military Forces.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—More than 850 persons were lost in the north Atlantic early this month, the navy announced today, when enemy submarines torpedoed two American passenger-cargo ships taking military personnel and civilian war workers overseas.

This twin blow constituted the worst disaster, measured in loss of life, suffered by the United States in the battle of the Atlantic.

Most of the 850 casualties were army and navy officers and men or members of the marine corps and coast guard.

They were listed by the navy as "known dead or missing" but there was little hope that many of the missing could have survived the wintry gales and violent seas of the north Atlantic at this season.

Subs Attack At Night.

The two ships were sunk in a four-day period. The submarines attacked under cover of the night. The torpedoes hit with deadly accuracy and each ship went down within 30 minutes.

The condition of the weather at the time was not reported but storms may have hindered the successful launching of lifeboats and this, coupled with the swiftness with which the vessels sank, may have accounted, at least in part, for the heavy loss of life.

The first ship attacked had more than 900 persons aboard, including the crew. More than 600 were lost—either killed by the torpedo explosion or otherwise, or considered officially to be missing.

There were about 500 persons aboard the second ship. More than 250 of these also are dead or missing.

Navy Lacks Details.

The navy spokesman said he lacked any amplifying detail as to the loss of the vessels. He was unable to say whether they were traveling in convoy or alone. The names of the ships were not made public.

The spokesman said the vessels were not navy or army transports, at least in a technical sense. They were privately-operated passenger-cargo ships not under the direct control of either of the military services. Thus it was not possible to say accurately, without further details, how these losses affect the navy's boast, made particularly with reference to World War I. operations, that no troopships had been lost while under the protection of American naval escort.

The British and some other allied nations have suffered heavy casualties from U-boat attacks in the Atlantic but losses of life aboard American merchant ships have been invariably small in relation to the number of troops and civilian war workers transported by ship.

88 Lost Off East Coast.

One sinking which American naval officers recall is that of a medium-sized merchant vessel which went down off the east coast last June and in which 88 persons were lost.

The navy's record with regard to transport losses has been similarly marked by low personnel casualties.

Choose Mayoral Candidates Today; Light Vote Expected

All experts agreed last night that the total vote cast in the Chicago mayoral primaries today will be extraordinarily light. It may be around 800,000, which would be less than half of the total registration of 1,784,324.

In the face of this prospect predictions were strengthened that the two regular organization candidates, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Democrat, and George B. McKibbin, Republican, would be nominated easily.

Many Voters in Army and Navy.

In the last mayoral primary, that of 1939, there were 1,236,456 votes cast. It is estimated that about 250,000 voters have gone into the army and navy and associated war activities. Another 200,000, it was estimated, will fail to go to the polls because there has been no stirring local issue raised in either party and because what campaigning has been done has been almost entirely limited to the radio, to which the war minded public has turned a deaf ear.

Four of the six candidates wound up their activities on the radio last night. They are Mayor Kelly, McKibbin, Arthur F. Albert, Republican, and Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], Democrat. Two other contestants, John H. Lyle, Republican, and Bill Patts, Democrat, were still in the race but not much was heard from them.

At Ministers' Meeting.

The last public appearance for most of the sextet was a joint appearance at a Union Ministers' meeting under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation at 19 South La Salle street. This was a morning affair and all the aspirants except Patts were present.

"I have made no commitments to anybody," said McKibbin, whose forceful way of speaking impressed his audience. "I am bound by no strings. I am in this fight to win. The sweep is on to break up the big Democratic machines in northern cities.

"Pendergast is out in Kansas City. Hague, in Jersey, and Tammany, in New York, have been cleaned out. Now it is time to clean out the Kelly-Nash machine."

Kelly, following a line of thought he has driven home thruout the campaign, said that Chicago is in fine condition. He praised its fire fighting record, its financial standing, and its fight against juvenile delinquency. He said he had tried to be a "potent" mayor because he had found that was the best way to get things done.

"If it were not for my candidacy," said Arthur Albert, "there would be no primary contest tomorrow. Republicans would be voting for Roger Faherty. I offer the only ray of hope for a complete change in Chicago administration."

Boyle Cites Record.

Ald. Boyle, a former assistant state's attorney, said that as a prosecutor he broke up an arson ring and convicted many vote thieves and murderers.

Lyle said, in reference to an editorial in THE TRIBUNE, that he noticed he had been classified as belonging to a past decade.

"But I remember winning a gold watch once in a Bernarr MacFadden endurance contest and I'm still in this race."

Those citizens who voted in the primary of one party last April cannot switch to another party today. Twenty-three months must elapse before such changes are permitted. The voter, however, may participate in the nonpartisan aldermanic election today without declaring his party and he will be free to change parties in the national and state primaries next year.

SET NEW PRICE CEILINGS; FOOD MEN FEAR FAMINE

Reveal Point Values of Dried Beans and Peas.

RATION DECLARATION FORM.

Turn to page 7 for a reproduction of the official consumer declaration form on which housewives must list their stocks of canned goods in registering this week for ration book No. 2.

Highlights yesterday in the new point rationing system for canned goods, fruits, and vegetables were:

1. Rationing registration in Chicago and the metropolitan area will start today. Officials expect to complete the task by Friday night. More than 3½ million persons in Chicago and 1,600,000 in the rest of the metropolitan area, including all of Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties in Illinois, and Lake county, Indiana, will be registered.

New Vegetable Ceilings.

2. The OPA announced the point values of dried peas, beans, and lentils, and dried and dehydrated soups. [Details on page 6.]

3. The government last night clamped emergency price ceilings at present levels over five of the country's major fresh vegetables—tomatoes, green and waxed snap beans, carrots, cabbage, and peas. Effective today no distributor of those vegetables may sell at a higher price than he did in the five days between last Thursday and Monday of this week, Feb. 18 to 22. The price action applied to all dealers except the grower.

4. City dwellers hoping to add to their rationed share of vegetables from war gardens besieged seed stores and garden tool makers. [Details on page 6.]

Dealers Lack Meat.

5. Illegal markets on a nationwide scale, flourishing under the policies of the office of price administration, threaten the entire civilian market for meats, members of the National Association of Meat Retailers said yesterday. Legitimate dealers are getting only 40 to 50 per cent of their normal 1941 supplies of beef and pork [some only 20 per cent], altho the OPA repeatedly has said that 70 per cent is available. [Details on page 7.]

Schedule for Registry.

The alphabetical schedule for ration book registry for Chicago proper follows:

This morning	A thru B
This afternoon	C thru E
Tomorrow morning	F thru H
Tomorrow afternoon	I thru L
Thursday morning	M thru N
Thursday afternoon	O thru R
Friday morning	S
Friday afternoon	T thru Z

The rules for the registration require that the official consumer declaration form for each family list supplies of coffee and canned goods on hand. One form is sufficient for all persons living in one household and related by blood, marriage, or adoption.

Must Take No. 1 Book.

The completed declaration form and a war ration book No. 1 [sugar book] for each member of the family should be taken to the nearest school. Any adult member [18 years or older] may apply for the entire family.

The registrar will check the identifying information in the No. 1 ration book, fill out the No. 2 book, remove coupons for excess stocks of coffee and canned goods, circle the age on the No. 1 book to indicate registration has been completed, and return the No. 1 book with the new one.

War ration book No. 2 will be used in the rationing of processed fruits and vegetables starting March 1, and of meats after April 1.

Not to be rationed are peanut butter, candied fruits, fruit cakes, and frozen fruits and vegetables packed in containers weighing more than 10 pounds, or fruit and vegetable juices in containers of more than one gallon. Officials explained containers of this size are rare in the retail trade and are used mostly in the wholesale trade.

Shortages Are Most Critical in U. S. History.

Eat Peanuts!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—When one "expert" in the government's food distribution administration was asked today what people were expected to eat now that they couldn't obtain canned foods or navy beans, and their chances for obtaining fresh foods appear slim, he seriously proposed that they eat peanuts. He said peanuts contain a great many of the food elements required for a balanced diet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Food industry officials said the nation tonight faced one of the most critical food situations in its history. They went so far as to predict that not only famine, but food rioting is in the offing.

With sale of canned, dried, and frozen foods halted until March 1 and civilian supplies under rationing slashed severely, food experts predicted that the impact on the fresh fruit and vegetable market would be "terrific."

While no official comment on the situation could be had, aids to war time Food Administrator Claude R. Wickard admitted they "just don't know what people are going to eat." One, however, seriously suggested that they eat peanuts.

"It Is Plenty Serious."

They were reluctant to admit that the food situation is as critical as "the food industry would have you believe," but said, nevertheless, that "it is plenty serious."

They said people will have to rely heavily on bread, cereals, milk and eggs, which they reported were in fair to good supply. They said fair amounts of cheese, potatoes, and citrus fruits are available now, but would not predict what canned goods rationing may do to these supplies.

Wickard's aids also reported poultry was in good supply and should be substituted for other meats as much as possible. They said rice was in short supply, but could still be obtained in most stores. Meat supplies are short. The black markets are becoming increasingly serious and meat, too, will soon be rationed, they added.

Administration Blamed.

William Garfitt, executive vice president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association, representing major producers and distributors thruout the nation and the largest organization of its kind in the world, said administration policies on the price and man power questions are causing a complete breakdown in fresh fruit and vegetable distribution and creating critical shortages in supplies.

"Our industry faces a very, very serious situation," Garfitt said. "I believe that we not only are going to have a famine in this country, but I look for food rioting.

"Even before canned goods ration-

F. D. R. INVOKES WASHINGTON AS EXAMPLE IN WAR

Urges U. S. to Follow Precepts of Charity.

Fourth Term Boom

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 22 (AP).—Gov. Matthew M. Neely, a Democrat, predicted a fourth term for President Roosevelt, in a speech tonight to 300 party leaders at a George Washington dinner. He made his forecast in proposing a toast to the nation's past commanders in chief, naming Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, and Wilson. Referring to Roosevelt Neely asserted he "never sold the truth to serve the hour," and added, "May this great man continue to live and rule and confuse his country's foes." He said the President had kept the government "out of the hands of the lobbyists, the chambers of commerce, and the racketeers, and in the heads and hearts and the home of the American people."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—In the midst of the trials and tragedies and discouragements of the greatest war that has engulfed our country, President Roosevelt tonight invoked the example of George Washington to give hope and confidence that the ends for which we strive shall be achieved.

The President broadcast his speech from the White House to the nation at large, tho the occasion of his making it was to address Democratic party dinners in Washington and 30-odd other cities at which government office holders and other Democrats paid from $25 to $100 a plate toward liquidating the Democratic national committee's $100,000 deficit.

Recalls Revolution Setbacks.

Against the background of North Africa, where American forces have been routed by the Germans with tragic losses and the war prolonged, the President reminded the country that "the Americans of Washington's day faced defeat on many occasions. We faced, and still face, reverses and misfortunes."

Just as the Colonists thought the Revolutionary war was over when Burgoyne was defeated at Saratoga and they could get back to normal, thousands of people today, said Mr. Roosevelt, have been led by the Russian successes to think victory is just around the corner.

Urges Precepts of Charity.

It is not enough that we have faith and hope, the President averred. There is a third need—charity, of which Washington was the exemplification. "Would that all of us," he went on, "could live our lives and direct our thoughts and control our tongues" as Washington did in seeking to follow the precepts of Paul on charity.

Most of us, the President said, seek to live up to Paul's conception of charity, but there are some who have forgotten them, some whose "words and writings are trumpeted by our enemies to persuade the disintegrating people of Germany and Italy and their captives that America is disunited—that America will be guilty of faithlessness in this war and will thus enable the axis powers to control the earth."

Fails to Make Groups Clear.

What groups the President had in mind he did not make clear, tho they might easily include those who favor a negotiated peace, those who have given aid and comfort to the enemy by assailing the American policy of expediency in North Africa, and those who, like Henry Luce of the Time-Life-Fortune magazine axis, utter threats that America will pull out of the war unless Britain frees India.

In Washington's time there were those who did not believe in the capacity of men for self-government and freedom, said Mr. Roosevelt, just as "today there are many Americans who sneer at the determination to attain freedom from want and freedom from fear on the ground that these are ideals which can never be realized."

The revolution would have failed had it not been for Washington's faith that overcame bickerings and confusion and doubts produced by the skeptics and cynics, he said.

The text of the President's address follows:

"Today this nation, which George Washington helped so greatly to create, is fighting all over this earth in order to maintain for ourselves and for our children the freedom which George Washington helped so greatly to achieve.

"As we celebrate Washington's birthday, let us remember how he conducted himself in the midst of great adversities. We are inclined, because of the total sum of his accomplishments, to forget his days of trial.

"Thruout the revolution, Washington commanded an army whose very existence as an army was never a certainty from one week to another. Some of his soldiers and even whole regiments could not or would not move outside of the borders of their own states.

"Sometimes, at critical moments, they would decide to return to their individual homes to get the plowing done or the crops harvested. Large numbers of the people of the colonies were either against independence or at least unwilling to make great personal sacrifice toward its attainment.

"And there were many in every colony who were willing to coöperate with Washington only if the coöperation was based on their own terms.

"Some Americans during the War of the Revolution sneered at the very principles of the Declaration of Independence. It was impractical, they said—it was 'idealistic'—to claim that 'all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights.'

Cites Skeptics of Revolution.

"The skeptics, the cynics, of Washington's day did not believe that ordinary men and women have the capacity for freedom and self-government. They said that liberty and equality were idle dreams that could not come true—just as today there are many Americans who sneer at the determination to attain freedom from want and freedom from fear on the ground that these are ideals which can never be realized. They say that it is ordained that we must always have poverty and that we must always have war.

"They are like the people who carp at the Ten Commandments because some people are in the habit of breaking one or more of them.

"We Americans of today know that there would have been no successful outcome to the revolution, which gave us liberty, had it not been for George Washington's faith and the fact that that faith overcame the bickerings and confusion and the doubts which the skeptics and cynics provoked.

Simple Faith Described.

"When kind history books tell us of Benedict Arnold, they omit dozens of other Americans who, beyond peradventure of a doubt, were also guilty of treason.

"We know that it was Washington's simple, steadfast faith that kept him to the essential principles of first things first. His sturdy sense of proportion brought to him and his followers the ability to discount the smaller difficulties and concentrate on the larger objectives. And the objectives of the American revolution were so large—so unlimited—that today they are among the primary objectives of the entire civilized world.

"It was Washington's faith—and, with it, his hope and his charity—which was responsible for the stamina of Valley Forge—and the prayer at Valley Forge.

Parallel Difficulties Faced.

"The Americans of Washington's day were at war. We Americans of today are at war.

"The Americans of Washington's day faced defeat on many occasions. We faced, and still face, reverses and misfortunes.

"In 1777, the victory over Gen. Burgoyne's army at Saratoga led thousands of Americans to throw their hats in the air, proclaiming that the war was practically won and that they could go back to their peace time occupations—and 'normalcies.'

"Today, the great successes on the Russian front have led thousands of Americans to throw their hats in the air and proclaim that victory is just around the corner.

"No Joshua in Our Midst."

"Others among us still believe in the age of miracles. They forget that there is no Joshua in our midst. We cannot count on great walls crumbling and falling when the trumpets blow and the peoples shout.

"It is not enough that we have faith and that we have hope. Washington himself was the exemplification of the other great need.

"Would that all of us could live our lives and direct our thoughts and control our tongues as did the father of our country in seeking day by day to follow those great verses:

"'Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

"'Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil,

"'Rejoiceth not in iniquity but rejoiceth in the truth.'

"Most of us Americans seek to live up to those precepts. But there are some among us who have forgotten them. There are Americans whose words and writings are trumpeted by our enemies to persuade the disintegrating people of Germany and Italy and their captives that America is disunited—that America will be guilty of faithlessness in this war and will thus enable the axis powers to control the earth.

"It is perhaps fitting that on this day I should read a few more words spoken many years ago—words which helped to shape the character and the career of George Washington:

"'Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

"'Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

"Blessed Are the Meek."

"'Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

"'Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

"'Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

"'Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

"'Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

"'Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

"'Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

"'Rejoice, and be exceedingly glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.'

"Those are the truths which are the eternal heritage of our civilization. I repeat them to give heart and comfort to all men and women everywhere who fight for freedom.

"Those truths inspired Washington and the men and women of the 13 colonies.

"Today, thru the darkness that has descended upon our nation and our world, those truths are a guiding light to all.

"We shall follow that light, as our forefathers did, to the fulfilment of our hopes for victory, for freedom, and for peace."

152 Seek Aldermanic Seats; Five Sure of Election Today

BY HAROLD SMITH.

One hundred fifty-two candidates for 50 aldermanic posts will be voted on in today's election. Because there are eight vacancies and two of the sitting aldermen are retiring, there are bound to be at least 10 new faces in the next council.

Five of the aldermen are without contests—Abraham H. Cohen [4th], Fred Fischman [24th], Alexander J. Sobota [26th], George D. Kells [28th], and Edward J. Upton [30th].

Two Candidates in 13 Wards.

In 13 other wards there are only two candidates each, which means that these contests will be decided today. Where there are three or more candidates, there is the possibility that one may not poll a clear majority, in which event the two high candidates will fight it out in a run-off April 6, when the next mayor is elected.

The wards with two-way races are the 1st, 8th, 9th, 11th, 17th, 25th, 27th, 31st, 32d, 34th, 37th, 48th, and 49th. Sixteen wards have three candidates each, nine have four each, six have five each, and one—the 43d—has seven.

Six Wards Stage Battles.

Among the hot fights this year are those in the 1st, 5th, 40th, 43d, 47th and 50th.

The 1st ward scrap is a struggle for the council representation that has for the last half century been furnished by either the late John J. [The Bath] Coughlin, or Ald. Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna. Kenna is retiring because of his advanced years, and has given his blessing to a henchman, John Budinger; but the Business Men's committee, which arose a few months ago as the first serious challenger of 1st ward corruption in years, is behind James McVittie, owner of an electroplating business, and the McKenna camp is said to be worried.

In the 5th, the voters have four candidates, chief among them Horace G. Lindheimer, Walter Johnson, and Bertram B. Moss. Moss originally received the Kelly-Nash indorsement, but it was switched to Lindheimer, reportedly in return for a large campaign contribution. Johnson is backed by the Paul H. Douglas organization.

Triangular Race in 40th.

The 40th ward race is three-sided. The principals are Samuel P. Gurman, the Democrats' choice; Lawrence Spuller, regular G. O. P. entry, and George Ibsen, president of the minority G. O. P. organization of Ald. Joseph C. Ross, retiring because of ill health after 14 years in the council.

Ald. Mathias J. [Paddy] Bauler [43d] is again being challenged by former Ald. James B. Waller, whom he defeated with difficulty four years ago. In the 47th, Ald. Frank O. Hilburn, dumped this year by the Democrats who helped elect him in 1939, has two strong opponents: Frank J. Nenning, Democrat, and Franklin C. E. Lundquist, Republican. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] is being hard pressed by a Republican, Jens M. Jensen, who came within a few hundred votes of winning four years ago.

Altho the aldermanic elections have been technically nonpartisan since 1920, the candidates being listed on the ballot without party labels, they usually have a strong partisan flavor and in most cases are straight tests of party organization strength.

HERO OF GUADALCANAL SAYS YANKS WILL KEEP ON BEATING THE JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Democrats who had $100 to spend for dinner heard Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandergrift explode the theory of Japanese military supremacy tonight after President Roosevelt had addressed the Washington's birthday Democratic dinners by radio thruout the nation.

The $100 a plate dinner, intended to pay off the mortgage on the party's old homestead with help from other dinners at lower prices, was held in the flag draped Grand ballroom of the Mayflower hotel.

There Gen. Vandergrift, who commanded the marines at Guadalcanal, told 1,100 diners:

"There has been built up a story of Japanese invincibility. But we have defeated them in the air, on the sea, and on the land. We will continue beating them."

The fighting marine general praised three marvels of the modern age that have made this war more humane than the last: Blood plasma, the sulpha drugs and facilities for immediate evacuation of seriously wounded by plane.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace told the diners that the American fighters in North Africa are fighting mad and that they will not be satisfied until they have driven out the Nazis.

Wallace injected a political note when he assailed "one of our leading statesmen who is now a member of loyal opposition" for having once urged "that we send our allies in Europe food and munitions, but that we avoid dislocating our civilian life at home by sending men."

This was interpreted as a jibe at former President Herbert Hoover who recently said that "if we attempt too much on the military side, we may commit the fatal error of overstrain on the home front and thus damage our effectiveness in ultimate victory."

Wallace said, "I am sure the American public will have little patience with any political party which puts partisan advantage above the national welfare. That places upon the Democratic majority in our government the responsibility for pushing on to victory in the war, and for abstaining from bitter attacks on partisan opponents."

RICKENBACKER URGES UNIONS TO END DUES IN WAR

Denounces Burocrats for Fourth Term Talk.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 [Special].—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker urged tonight in an invitational address before a joint session of the New York legislature that union dues and initiation fees be dispensed with for the duration of the war or the money be used to buy war bonds for union memberships.

"You cannot demand," declared the American ace who recently was rescued after 21 days adrift in the Pacific, "that the mass of common folk think only of winning the war if the aristocracy of labor unionism is thinking only of more dues and more power—and the inner clique of burocracy is thinking only of a fourth term."

Speaks Despite Protests.

The Washington day address was delivered despite numerous protests from labor groups as a result of Rickenbacker's repeated attacks on labor absenteeism and racketeering. Following the suggestion of the New York CIO, an American labor party assemblyman had said he would introduce a resolution to have the legislature make a declaration that Rickenbacker's appearance should not be construed as an indorsement of what he construed as "anti-labor" views.

The invitation to Rickenbacker to speak before the assembly was extended on the basis of an unanimously adopted resolution offered by Edward J. Coughlin, Brooklyn Democrat. Coughlin, repeatedly indorsed by the State Federation of Labor, expressed amazement at labor's attitude toward the war ace.

Legislative leaders indicated that the houses would not vote any statement regarding Rickenbacker's appearance and pointed out that he was invited to speak to—not for—the legislature.

Offers 3 Point Program.

Rickenbacker, ace of two World wars, urged that congress pass in behalf of American fighting men legislation providing the following:

1. Upon their release or discharge they can be employed by any employer without having to join any organized labor unions.
2. Upon their employment they shall have equal voting rights with any other employés in any union and any employé and management plan of the employer.
3. Their seniority in relation to other employés of draft age shall date as of the day he enlisted or was inducted into this country's service.

Attacks Exorbitant Fees.

"What better bonus could we give our service men than the elimination of their having to buy the right to work in their own country on their release or discharge from the service?" the war veteran asked.

"Why should they have to pay exorbitant membership fees demanded by those unions working under a closed shop agreement? And what better bonus could we give them than to eliminate their having to pay dues for the privilege of keeping their jobs?

"Briefly, why shouldn't a man's honorable discharge or release from the service of his country be all he would henceforth need as a union card when he returns to work for himself and his family after having worked for all of us so willingly and risked his life in our behalf?"

Urges Incentive Plan.

He pleaded that we "give the millions of young men inducted into the uniform of the great United States an opportunity on their return to again join the union of Americanism."

His suggestion that labor leaders omit dues and initiation fees for the duration, "particularly in view of the fact that they have millions in their coffers," or use the fees to buy war bonds for the membership was made in advocating establishment of the "incentive" plan.

"Let our labor leaders become leaders in fact as well as in name," he said, "and take advantage of the great opportunity that is theirs and ask congress to repeal, for the duration only, that section covering the weekly hours of the wage and hour law but use the present hourly rate as a basis for pay or wages. . . .

Cites Industry Experience.

"Experience has proven that manufacturers in many industries who are operating on the 'incentive' plan are showing a conservative increase in production per man power hour of at least 33 1-3 per cent over those operating under the wage and hour law.

"This would give us an increase of 5,500,000 extra workers among the 16,500,000 now employed in manufacturing on a 48 hour week without overtime. This increase in productive man power hours would not only take care of the estimated 2,100,000 employés that will be needed to take care of increased war production, but would leave free 3,400,000 men, now on the pay rolls in manufacturing, for farms or other needed essential services.

"If 12 men work 10 hours a day instead of eight they gain 24 hours, a day and a night. If 12,000,000 men work on the same basis, they gain one million days and nights. Assuming 300 work days to a year, the total gain of those men in one day is 3,333 work years—the equivalent of 3,333 men working 24 hours a day for a year, or 10,000 men working eight hours a day for a year.

Time Essence of Victory.

"Those figures seem unbelievable, but they are true. Figure it out for yourself. Let the men who are walking out of war production plants at the end of eight hours of work figure it out."

Declaring that time is the essence of our victory, Rickenbacker said that "men who destroy time by refusing to work are equally as effective in their result as a completely successful air raid by the enemy."

"The hideous part of our time destruction," he said, "is that it is being done by men who call themselves loyal Americans. They do not seem to realize that by their very acts they are putting themselves, their families, their liberty, and their freedom in peril. . . .

"Give us back that old fashioned American incentive and love of country and we will produce enough war weapons to turn heaven and hell upside down on the heads of Mussolini, Hitler, and Tojo."

Repeats Overtime Opposition.

Rickenbacker reiterated that he is opposed to overtime pay for a 48 hour week with present high wages "except for those men in the fox holes, swamps, jungles, deserts, and the frozen north of the Aleutians and Iceland, for they are the men making the supreme sacrifices."

"And to the labor leaders who are so prone to criticize so feebly," he declared, "I say petition your government for the privilege of flying to the hell holes of the Pacific and the battlefields of North Africa and see for yourselves as I have. Then, and then alone, will I listen to you for I have earned my right to citizenship.

"And to those few scumunistic, synthetic Communists in labor, commerce, and government, who are so prone to smear, I say—go back to Russia where you will find millions of men and women willing to die and starve for their country in turning Hitler's hordes from their land. There you will find how transparent you are.

Or Better Yet, Join Up.

"Or better yet, those of military age, get into Uncle Sam's uniform and pay your share of the obligation for the privileges you are enjoying. Go into the hell holes of the Pacific or the battlefields of North Africa and learn to use bayonets on the Germans, Italians, and the Japs, where your smearings will do some good."

Discussing the nation's war program and the need for similar qualities on both the battle and home fronts, Rickenbacker said:

"We have in the last several years spent billions of dollars to destroy self-reliance, initiative, imagination, and individuality, trying to plan the lives of 130,000,000 people by a superior law. Now we are spending billions to re-create self-reliance, initiative, imagination, and individuality.

"For, bear in mind, that when this war is over—pray God it will be soon—there will be more rugged individualists come back to America from the four corners of the world than we ever had at any one time in our history—and I thank God for that."

In a Bloody Crusade.

Far from oposing organized labor, the flyer told legislators, he speaks in "behalf of the millions of honest men and women in unions who want their unions to stand clean and respected before the bar of American public opinion." But he warned that the attack on him may be indicative of a trend.

"We are in a great and bloody crusade to export four freedoms, one of which is the freedom of speech," he said. "Yet freedom of speech at home is rapidly diminishing. It is not being forbidden by law; it is not being crushed out by a Gestapo. No, it is being subjected to much more subtle restraints and pressures.

"The Nazis and the Fascists long ago showed us the way to discourage unwelcome free speech. Strangle it by wrapping it in the flag. Smear it to death by crying aloud that it is an attack on the Fuehrer, that it gives aid and comfort to the enemy, that it promotes disunity. That is the modern technique for getting rid of troublesome free speech.

Not Foe of Labor.

"Because I have protested against the abuses of a minority of the labor movement, it is charged that I am against organized labor. No charge could be more false. My whole life record refutes it. The thousands of letters of thanks that I am receiving from men and women in the rank and file of the unions would be an overwhelming answer—if any answer were needed.

"I am not attacking unions. I am attacking a cancerous condition in our body politic—the attempt to impose one code of conduct on the mass of Americans, and a different special code for the benefit of the privileged few.

"The demand for real sacrifice is from the inarticulate mass of American fathers, mothers, and daughters, while special privileges and licenses are granted to the labor racketeer, the labor profiteer, the labor loafer.

Real Friend of Worker.

"I claim that I am a real friend of labor, and that the men who are attacking me are labor's enemies. They are enemies of labor in the same way that a little clique of selfish men were the enemies of the New York Stock exchange, or the utilities. The number of crooks in Wall street was small but the vengeance of the outraged people did not discriminate.

"The many who were honest were destroyed along with the dishonest few. And New York City has lost its great financial business. New York City's population is shrinking, its stores and offices are vacant, hundreds of thousands of its people are out of work, all because honest business has been penalized in punishment of the wicked few.

"The offenders among the utilities were comparatively few. Yet billions of dollars of the savings of thrifty middle class Americans have been wiped out of utility bonds and preferred stocks because the sins of the privileged few were visited on the unoffending multitude.

Finds Public Rising.

"What has happened to the stock exchange and the utilities is going to happen to the unions. The storm of public resentment is rising. If you want a measure of how fast it is rising just listen to the cries of pain and anger that come from the self appointed labor leaders in reply to my public remarks.

"They cry because they know that what I say is true. They know that millions of Americans are aroused, and when the long suffering, patient American public is fully aroused, woe to the men or the cause that has called forth its anger."

He observed that "the racketeer is not something that just happens; he grows out of a rotten condition in public life" and that "Al Capone was not the cause, he was a result, he grew out of the greed and lust for power of a corrupt political machine" and never would have been "if there had not been protection from the politicians of the city of Chicago and the state of Illinois."

"There would be no union profiteers, no union abuses," he declared, "if it had not been made clear by our public authorities and there is today one standard of justice and public decency for the common man and another standard for the union few. . . .

Government Example Needed.

"Any administration that demands unity must begin by setting an example of unity. Any administration that talks of 'equality of sacrifice must honestly mean sacrifice by all, not sacrifice by the many for the financial and political advantage of the few.' . . .

"I say you cannot have national unity unless the leadership of the nation sets an example of unity, and that leadership should include industry, labor, and government."

In conclusion, he reiterated his plea for legislation against "the men who are living in the laps of luxury at the expense of the sweat and toil of millions of honest men and women," adding:

"And to congress I say again—face the facts and show the traditional American intestinal fortitude by legislating this cancerous element from our midst."

Bond Rally for a New Cruiser

A Busy Day

The father of his country would have been proud of Chicago's war time observance of his 211th birthday anniversary yesterday. Public and parochial elementary and secondary schools were closed, but most of Chicago's universities reported "classes as usual." Students in De Paul university liberal arts and at Central Y. M. C. A. college had the holiday. War plants were busy as usual.

There was a war bond rally at a loop store, including a broadcast interview of Chief Pharmacist's Mate Edward Chapman of the aircraft carrier Hornet. Four WAVES staffed information desks at the store, and a check of sales in the five booths yesterday showed one bond purchase of $10,000, one of $2,000, and several of $1,000 each.

British Women 31 to 40 Now Subject to Draft

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Three million more British women between the ages of 31 and 40 came under the war time authority of Labor Minister Ernest Bevin today, subject to draft if they have no children under 14. A majority of the new group have never before done outside work. One of every three war workers in Great Britain now is a woman.

GANDHI WEAKER AFTER RALLY ON THIRTEENTH DAY

Crisis in Fasting Leaves Heart Weaker.

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 22 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi became "progressively weaker" tonight on the 13th day of his fast, after living thru a sharp crisis yesterday that left his heart feebler. Late dispatches from Poona said, however, that he passed a quiet day and slept several hours.

To many it became increasingly evident that the Hindu spiritual leader of millions might die if he did not break the 21 day fast undertaken to force the British to release him from his luxurious prison in the Aga Khan's palace at Poona.

A government bulletin signed by six doctors said Gandhi had a crisis at 4 p. m. Sunday in which "he was seized with severe nausea and almost fainted, and his pulse became nearly imperceptible." He rallied and sipped water and lime juice and then slept well into the night.

Gandhi observed his weekly day of silence today as usual, except that he was too feeble to scribble conversation on a scrap of paper as he ordinarily does. A small circle of relatives and close friends visited him.

British Accuse Gandhi.

Chakravarthi Rajagopalachari, a Congress leader, visited William Phillips, President Roosevelt's envoy in India, but no announcement was made. Members of the opposition Progressive party in Bombay walked out of the state legislature in "protest against the policy of the government."

As the crisis deepened, the government of India published an 86 page white book which amounted to a prosecution brief to fix the blame for an outbreak of violence which started after Gandhi had initiated a "non-violence" campaign to force the British to grant India immediate independence. Gandhi was arrested Aug. 9.

The white book offered Gandhi's own writings to support its contention that the 73 year old leader and his All-India Congress political party intended and expected violence to result from its movement at a time when the Japanese army had overrun Burma.

Women Break Under Strain.

POONA, India, Feb. 22 (AP).—Three faithful women who have nursed and encouraged Mohandas K. Ghandi thru his previous hunger strikes, including his wife, Kasturbai, with whom he has lived under a vow of celibacy since he was 37, have broken under the strain of his fast.

A fourth woman follower, Dr. Sushila Nayar, is one of seven physicians who are watching over the aged Indian leader.

Miraben Slade, daughter of a British admiral, and the Indian poetess Sarojini Naidu, who tended Gandhi in some of his previous fasts, are incapable of active help. Mrs. Naidu manages to cook an occasional dish of Indian food for Gandhi's imprisoned followers.

Gandhi's 71 year old wife cries frequently and seems barely able to care for herself, let alone her husband. She once endured the agony of seeing Gandhi fast on her account because she forgot to turn in an 8 cent contribution to her husband's fund for India's "untouchables."

She agreed with her husband that the life of celibacy caused marriage to "soar to a new spiritual level."

LONDON HINTS YANK TROOPS MAY QUELL RIOTS IF GANDHI DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Latest reports from India indicate that Mohandas K. Gandhi is expected to die as a result of his self-imposed fast. Gandhi has said that he wishes to die and become a martyr.

Repercussions of Gandhi's death are expected to be felt not only in India but in England among members of the Labor party. Members of parliament have already sent telegrams to the Indian government demanding the release of Gandhi.

It is feared that Gandhi's death will be a signal for riots on a scale heretofore unknown. There has been some speculation regarding how far American troops in India might be needed to maintain public order, and encouragement in some quarters has been derived from American announcements that Washington regards the military situation as paramount and the Indian fight for independence as subordinate.

Sunken British Training Ship Raised for Scrap

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP).—The naval training ship, Caledonia, formerly the Cunard liner Majestic, has been raised from a Firth of Forth grave to furnish nearly 40,000 tons of steel scrap for Britain's war effort. She sank after a fire in 1939.

TUNISIAN BATTLE DESCRIBED BY TRIBUNE WRITER

Witnesses Action from Mountain Peak.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. ARMY ON TUNISIAN FRONT, Feb. 21 [Delayed]—[Passed by military censor].—From a mountain peak overlooking Kasserine valley, whose southernmost pass was taken yesterday by Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis forces, I watched today while American tanks and artillers laid down an accurate fire against the oncoming tanks and armored infantry and pounded the enemy's artillery positions across the valley at its southern end.

My vantage point was at the southeastern end of the valley, commanding the road to Tebessa, one of several strategic roads leading from this valley. It was a position which gave me a beautiful ringside seat.

Nonetheless, it had its limitations when eight Nazi dive bombers roared close overhead to drop their deadly loads at the base of the mountain on a gun battery and close to another group of correspondents.

Tanks Battle into the Night.

The tank battle, which began late this afternoon and was continuing tonight, was the second setback for the German panzers [tanks] since their drive opened a week ago today at Faid pass. It was administered by the same armored team commanded by a doughty little general whom I saw this afternoon in a jeep driving east thru the pass onto the plain to see at first hand how the battle was going.

His command had another ace-led medium tank battalion under Lt. Col. Henry E. Gardiner, Chicago attorney of 20 North Wacker drive.

Today's counterattack, for that is what it was, was coördinated with a British attack by armored units down the east side of the valley. The British used Crusader and Valentine tanks. The same teamwork was evident farther east where the joint command was also reported fighting another panzer drive from Sbeitla into the pass leading to Sbiba.

New Style of Warfare.

We had motored part way down the road on the east edge of the valley watching the British tanks rumbling forward into position. Then we drove back to an ancient Roman town on the Algerian-Tunisian border and down again thru mud-bogged roads past the American units, and thence across the northern end of the valley along an unbroken plain into the pass of the road leading to Tebessa, an American base 12 miles inside Algeria.

There at the top of the mountain this correspondent looked down on modern battle lines, which are not lines, but basic positions controlled by artillery and from which tanks and infantry advance.

Late in the afternoon our batteries opened fire, dropping shells on top of the target, an array of armored half-tracks carrying infantry which were concealed. Black smoke indicated several hits.

Sees 52 Ton Mark VI. Tank.

Then dive bombers interrupted the scene and as soon as they had gone, chased by our Spitfires, my binoculars picked up enemy half-tracks advancing across the plain at a fast clip and flanked by tanks. One object I was watching was one of Germany's latest 52 ton Mark VI. tanks.

Holding his ground until the tanks were in close range, the American tank commander then moved his tanks out of the gullies in which they were hidden. In the first few minutes his guns and those of our artillery stopped five enemy tanks and several half-tracks.

That was the start of a German withdrawal, which took them back to positions at the southernmost pass.

REVEALS WORK OF RANGERS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. ARMY IN TUNISIA, Feb. 17 [Delayed]—[Passed by military censor].—From a limestone dugout on the piny slopes of strategic Barnaia pass I watched today thru field glasses the enemy's armored cars and tanks reconnoitering the broad plain before the entrenched American positions in the high hills 35 miles southeast of Tebessa.

It was no demoralized army digging in about me or farther back along our long front. Nor were these soldiers green troops.

They had met the enemy under most unfavorable circumstances, fighting vastly superior tank forces with driblets of our own armor. They had stayed and fought. They had taken severe losses and battered the crack Nazi panzer [armored] units. They had repelled an enemy tank attack by night and without confusion they had accomplished the most difficult of all military maneuvers, a successful withdrawal, under enemy pressure.

The American Rangers.

About me in the underbrush were some of these men. True, these were not the tank crews who had been fighting for nearly four days. But these men had fought, too, like the infantry and artillery and all they wanted was another crack at the enemy.

I am talking of our toughest ground raiders, what the English would call Commandos, men of America's Rangers, who knocked out important coastal batteries in the landing near Oran and who recently had cut to pieces Italian troops near Gafsa before that town was given up.

These throat-cutting tough guys, who prefer night fighting, are part of the American front line elements who, with the French, are holding the new line.

Did their boss, Lt. Col. John Darby of Fort Smith, Ark., consider his troops merely a screening force?

"Hell, no!" replied the head tough guy. "They'll have to blast us out of here!"

At that moment another shell landed along the slope. Eight times during the day German batteries had tried searching the pass with shell fire.

About two days before the withdrawal from Gafsa, Darby led some of his Rangers on a night sortie northeast of the town where the Italians held a hill north of the railroad station at Sened. They lay out all night and the next day watching the Italians.

The following night they worked in close—their favorite method which they hope the enemy will give them a chance to try again—and then attacked, catching almost all of the Italians asleep. It was Indian warfare at its bloodiest, for, while the Rangers use rifles, machine guns, mortars, and hand grenades, they prefer long bladed knives for close work.

Quick Finish of an Italian.

One burly knife wielder was working on the crew of an anti-tank gun when an Italian jumped on his back. With one hand the American swung the Italian over his shoulder and killed him with his gun butt.

That sounds bloody and brutal, but these men are out to kill as many of the enemy as possible. Their bag for the night's work was about 100 killed. It was a typical Ranger action—only 12 prisoners were taken. Their own casualties were one man killed and about a dozen wounded, almost all of whom were walking cases.

Three middle westerners who took part in the raid were Capt. Max Schneider of Shenandoah, Ia., who led a group which silenced a gun; Sergt. Lamar H. Launer of 232 Milton street, South Bend, Ind., and Technical Sergt. Richard W. Porter of Jefferson, Ia.

The enemy never knew where the Rangers came from, for they withdrew just as silently as they attacked. In fact the enemy guns that night shelled a position that the Rangers had never held and which was also dive bombed the next day.

CHICAGO NEWSREEL CAMERA MAN HURT IN TUNISIAN BATTLE

WITH U. S. FORCES IN TUNISIA, Feb. 21 [Delayed] (AP).—Eight German stukas [dive bombers] came over and straddled an American artillery position with bombs today.

Jack Barnett.

"You must observe, you must fire, and you must fight for your lives," Lt. Col. George E. Wrockoff, of Lake Geneva, Wis., ordered his men. They carried out the order.

A dozen American, British, and Australian newspaper men were near as the position was attacked. All escaped unhurt except Jack Barnett, Movietone Newsreel camera man of 6035 South California avenue, Chicago, who suffered a slight knee injury. He continued to photograph the battle. Pvt. Harold Niemitala of Kaleva, Mich., was in the group.

1 DIES AS QUAKE WRECKS A HOUSE IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22 (AP).—One person was killed today in Mexico City's strongest earthquake in two years. The victim died in the collapse of a rooming house. Four others, at first reported fatally injured, were later found alive. Pavement cracked in some parts of the city.

The quake followed reports of renewed activity by a volcano known as the "rock oven" in the state of Morelos, south of here, which was said to be emitting smoke. Preparations were being made to remove 3,000 persons from a town near the volcano in case of a lava outbreak. The newspaper La Presna said several persons were killed and others injured in the town.

"What! Cash-and-Carry Coal?"

No, fortunately this is not necessary in Chicago. But, day by day, the manpower problem becomes more serious. Particularly is this true of the men who wheel and carry coal.

We are proud that more and more of our men are going into the service as well as into armament factories. But, as a consequence, members of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association are finding it difficult to maintain the same excellent delivery service they have been in the habit of providing.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED

We ask the co-operation of all Chicago coal users to help us maintain adequate deliveries with a minimum of inconvenience to themselves. Please order before your bin is empty so that we have time to plan deliveries. Give your coal merchant at least a week's notice, and do not specify the exact time of delivery—he will do his best to co-operate and telephone you what day you may expect your coal. Order load lots, if at all possible and try to be home, or leave the key to avoid "turnbacks" which waste precious man-hours, rubber and gasoline.

AMPLE COAL IS AVAILABLE

Even though this winter's grip of snow and ice and near-zero temperatures is one of the longest on record, enough coal is available to Chicago's coal users —yes, and to supply those citizens who may revert to burning coal instead of oil. But, all industry is feeling the pinch of labor shortages and Association Members are gladly complying with the government's request to reduce truck mileage by 25% per ton of coal delivered, to save gasoline and rubber. So they ask your indulgence and say, "Please be reasonably patient."

RUSSIAN TROOPS 25 MILES FROM BLACK SEA PORT

Novorossisk Menaced by New Red Advance.

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Red army troops have driven to within 25 miles of Novorossisk by the capture of Akhtirskaya, the Russian midnight communique as recorded by the soviet monitor announced tonight.

This meant an advance of 37 miles southwest of Krasnodar in a relatively slow drive against the Germans at Novorossisk, a Black sea port.

Akhtirskaya is 25 miles northeast of that last German Caucasian stronghold, where the Nazis have been backed up to the Kerch straits. It lies along the main railroad from Krasnodar to Novorossisk.

The war bulletin said a soviet column seized the town of Trostyanets, 50 miles northwest of Kharkov. The town's fall meant the Russians were advancing deep into territory between Kharkov and Kursk, which is about 125 miles north of Kharkov.

Reds "Envelope" More Towns.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22 (AP).—The Russian steam roller moved on to the west today, front line dispatches said. The Red army enveloped numerous towns on the yielding 500 mile front from Orel to Krasnodar and smashed violent German counter-attacks mounted by reserves. Orel is about 200 miles north of Kharkov and Krasnodar is in the Caucasus.

The Germans reacted strongly in the Donetz basin south of Voroshilovgrad and in the area about 100 miles west of Rostov in an effort to save their armies threatened with encirclement. However, the Russians said these counter-strokes were absorbed.

In the Krasnoarmeisk sector, northwest of Rostov, German tanks penetrated a Russian position but artillery wrecked 12 and the remaining tanks and troops fell into an ambush which exacted severe casualties before the survivors escaped.

Take Towns West of Rostov.

The noon communique said two towns were captured west of Rostov. Several others fell southwest of Voroshilovgrad, and north of Kursk.

The Russians who advanced in the Ukraine west of Krasnograd and Pavlograd to within 34 miles of the German base of Dnepropetrovsk and Poltava were fighting against time as well as the Germans to reach the Dnieper river before the ice becomes too thin to bear mechanized equipment.

MASTERING TASK: NAZIS.

A Berlin broadcast yesterday said the soviet winter offensive "has presumably passed its climax" and "there has been no further expansion of the success of the attacks made hitherto."

ALLIED BOMBERS ATTACK FIVE JAP BASES IN PACIFIC

ALLIED HDQ., Australia, Feb. 23 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Allied war planes, in a wide sweep of New Guinea and New Britain, dropped bombs on five Japanese centers yesterday, the allied high command reported today. The communique listed Lae, Buin, Rabaul, Gasmata, and Lorengau as hit by the bombers.

The raid on the Buin-Faisi area was described as small scale night operations by medium bombers. The airdromes at Kahili and Ballale were hit again. Lorengau, in the Admiralty Islands, was attacked by a heavy reconnaissance unit. The airdrome and surface craft in the harbor were bombed.

Bombers over Rabaul unloaded their missiles on Lakunai airdrome and shore installations. The airdrome at Gasmata, New Britain, also was pounded.

Leader of Italian Air Force in Russia Killed

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Enrico Pezzi, commander in chief of the Italian air force in Russia, has been killed in action during a flight over enemy territory, the Rome radio announced today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

CONSUL REVEALS BRITAIN LOSES 2,759 BOMBERS

Britain has lost 2,759 bombers in flights over Germany alone, Wilfred Hansford Gallienne, new British consul general in Chicago, told a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. He said his information had come thru official channels and he had been granted permission to release the figures which include losses up to Jan. 1, 1943.

Wilfred H. Gallienne.

Gallienne, who returned to this country from England by plane last October, used the figure to emphasize both the air power the British now have, the determination of the English worker to make large numbers of planes, and of the English pilots to fly them where they will do the most good.

Control Is Underground.

"All of England is an airport," he said. "Under every tree is a plane, and under more hills than you would imagine are underground cities that are the control centers for planes. The things that thrilled me most last fall were some of the secret devices used in these underground headquarters—and, of course, I can't tell you about them more than that.

"I watched some flights with hundreds of planes taking off, and in the night you could see the red glow of their exhausts streaking down the runways. About 4 o'clock the next morning they would return, most of them, and the pilots would climb out, haggard, tired, and dirty.

Strive for Accuracy.

"First they would rest for a few minutes and have a cup of tea. Then they would be examined thoroly by the intelligence men. They were not asked easy questions, but were made to explain carefully and in exact detail just what they actually saw—a plane really falling or a plane that looked like it was falling. This accounts for what I believe is the extreme accuracy of British war news."

Gallienne said that people were working 60 to 80 hours a week in England, and that even his mother, a woman 72 years old, had a job as a cook. He said that his mother also tended a vegetable garden—once bombed—and that she gave a pint of blood for the blood bank. He noted her case as typical of the spirit in England.

The new consul general has held similar posts in Marseilles, Algiers, and other cities. He previously was acting consul general here under Lewis Bernays, and also served as vice consul here for several years in the late '20s.

HEART ATTACK FATAL.

Mrs. Anna Sax, 85 years old, mother of Harry Sax, manager of the Piccadilly theater, died of a heart attack yesterday in her home at 1435 East 60th street.

BRITISH PLANES DROP 100 TWO TON BOMBS ON PORT OF BREMEN

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP).—British bombers rained more than 100 two-ton bombs last night on Bremen, second largest German port and an important production center for submarines and Focke-Wulf bombers.

Then every one of the large force streaked back across Holland and the North sea to base without a loss. The Germans apparently were surprised, the air ministry said, because not a gun opened fire until the first bomb exploded.

It was the R. A. F.'s third raid in four nights on northwest Germany, but the first assault on Bremen since Oct. 20. In all, the great inland port has felt the weight of British bombs 102 times.

The German radio said the damage was slight.

RED ARMY ALONE BEARS WEIGHT OF THE WAR: STALIN

Cites Absence of Second Front in Europe.

LONDON, Feb. 23 [Tuesday] (AP).—Premier Josef Stalin today asserted the "Red army alone is bearing the whole weight" of the war in the "absence of a second front in Europe." Nevertheless, he said his army had inflicted 9,000,000 casualties on the Germans—4,000,000 of them killed—and that time now is running against Germany.

The start of "the massed drive of the enemy from soviet lands has begun," Stalin declared in an order of the day commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Red army.

But, he warned, Germany is "not yet conquered" and the soviet victories over the Nazi army "do not yet mean that it cannot recover."

A "Defender of Peace."

"The Red army is an army defending the peace and friendship between the peoples of all countries," Stalin said.

"It was not created for the purpose of conquest of foreign countries, but to defend the frontiers of soviet land. The Red army has always respected the rights and independence of all peoples.

"But in June, 1941, Hitlerite Germany perfidiously attacked our country, rudely and foully violating the nonaggression agreement, and the Red army found itself compelled to launch a campaign to defend its native land against the German invader and to drive him from the borders of our country.

"Since that time the Red army has become an army of deadly struggle against the Hitlerite troops, an army of avengers of the violation and debasement perpetrated by the German Fascist scoundrels against our brothers and sisters in the occupied districts of our native land.

Says Reds Menace Nazis.

"In view of the absence of a second front in Europe the Red army alone is bearing the whole weight of the war.

"Nevertheless the Red army has not only stood firm against the onslaught of the German Fascist hordes but has also in the course of the war become a menace to the Fascist army.

"During the hard battles in the summer and autumn of 1942 the Red army barred the way to Fascist hopes. Our people will remember for all time the heroic defense of Sevastopol and Odessa, the stubborn battles before Moscow and in the foothills of the Caucasus, in the Rzhev area and before Leningrad, and the most magnificent warriors in history who fought at the walls of Stalingrad.

"In these great battles our valiant Red army men, commanders, and political workers covered the military banners of the Red army with eternal glory and laid firm the foundation for victory over the German Fascist army.

Tells of Red Offensive.

"Three months ago troops of the Red army began the offensive on the approaches to Stalingrad. Since then the initiative in military operations has remained in our hands.

"Today the Red army, in difficult winter conditions, is advancing over the front extending 900 miles and almost everywhere is achieving successes."

After announcing that in three months soviet troops have "liberated from the enemy" 11 territories and "almost the whole of the Rostov, Kharkov, and Kursk regions," Stalin said:

"In three months of the offensive of the Red army in the winter of 1942-'43 alone the Germans lost over 7,000 tanks, 4,000 planes, 17,000 guns, and large quantities of other war material.

"Of course the Germans are endeavoring to cover these losses, but this will not be so easy to do as no little time would be required for the enemy to be in a position to make up for these enormous losses in war material. Meanwhile time will not wait.

"Hitlerite Germany began the war against the U. S. S. R. having a numerical superiority of troops mobilized and ready for battle as compared with the Red army. It was here that she had the advantage.

4,000,000 Foes Killed—Stalin.

"In 20 months, however, the situation has changed in this respect also. In defensive and offensive battle, the Red army since the beginning of the war has put out of commission about 9,000,000 German Fascist officers and men, of which no less than 4,000,000 were killed on the field of battle.

"The Rumanian, Italian and Hungarian armies which Hitler had thrown on to the soviet-German frontier have been completely defeated.

"In the last three months alone, 112 enemy divisions have been routed by the Red army, 700,000 men have been killed and over 300,000 have been taken prisoner.

"Of course the German command will adopt all measures to cover this colossal loss. But firstly the weak spot in the German army is the shortage of man power reserve, in view of which it is unknown from what sources this loss will be made up.

"Time Will Not Wait."

"Secondly, even supposing the Germans scraped together by hook and by crook the necessary number of men, it would require no short period of time to get them together and train them. And time will not wait.

"In the course of the war the Red army has become a seasoned army.

"The Germans' strategy is defective, since as a general rule it underestimates the strength and possibilities of the enemy and overestimates its own strength.

"The enemy has suffered defeat but he is not yet conquered. The German Fascist army is experiencing a crisis because of the blows it has received from the Red army but this does not yet mean that it cannot recover.

"The Red army has before it a severe struggle against the cunning, cruel and as yet strong enemy. This struggle will require time and sacrifices, exertion on the part of our forces and mobilization of all our possibilities.

"There can be no place in our ranks for complacency, carefree attitude, or swank.

"Men, commanders, and political workers should firmly remember the behest of our teacher, Lenin, that 'the first thing is not to be carried away by victory or to swagger, the second thing is to consolidate victories, the third thing to defeat the enemy completely.'

Stalin's Order to Army.

"For the sake of liberation of our country from the hated enemy, for the sake of finer victory over the German Fascist invaders I order:

"One, continually to perfect military training and strengthen discipline, order and organization thruout the Red army and navy.

"Two, strengthen the blows on the enemy troops constantly and stubbornly and give him no chance to consolidate a defense line, to give him no rest by day or by night, to cut enemy communications, to surround enemy troops and annihiliate them if they refuse to lay down their arms.

"Three, to fan more extensively the flames of guerrilla warfare in the rear of the enemy, to destroy enemy communications, to blow up railway bridges, to hamper the transport of enemy troops; the transport of arms and ammunition, to blow up and set fire to army stores, to raid enemy garrisons, to prevent the retreating enemy from burning down our villages and towns, to help the advancing Red army in all ways and by all means.

"In this lies the guarantee of our victory."

The soviet premier concluded with this phrase: "Death to the German invaders!" He signed the order of the day Supreme Commander in Chief J. Stalin."

RUSSIAN AND POLISH RELATIONS STRAINED, BRITISH WRITER SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Signs of dissension between some of the provisional allied governments in London and the Russian government are beginning to be a source of considerable concern, the diplomatic correspondent of the News Chronicle wrote today.

Within the last week, he revealed, there have been unfortunate developments in the relations of the Russian government with both the Polish and Jugo-Slavian governments.

The cause of the Polish misunderstanding is understood to be the Russian attitude toward the Poles who inhabited the area between the old Polish-Russian frontier and the line of demarcation agreed upon between Russia and Germany in 1939 following the German conquest and occupation of the eastern part of Poland by Russian troops.

The source of the friction in Soviet-Jugo-Slav relations is said to be the divergence of view concerning the rôle which Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, leader of the Jugo-Slav patriots, is playing in the Balkans.

The Russian government apparently claims to have proof of Mihailovitch's scheming with the axis and is said to have sent a note to the Jugo-Slav government on the subject.

F. D. R. EXPRESSES 'OUR ADMIRATION' FOR RED ARMY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt expressed to Josef Stalin tonight, on behalf of the American people, "Our profound admiration" for the Red army's "magnificent achievements, unsurpassed in all history." The President's message was sent on the occasion of the Red army's 25th anniversary tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt said that "the Red army and the Russian people have surely started the Hitler forces on the road to ultimate defeat and have earned the lasting admiration of the people of the United States."

The President said the Red army's achievements "can only be accomplished by an army that has skilful leadership, sound organization, adequate training, and above all, the determination to defeat the enemy, no matter what the cost in self-sacrifice."

SEED STAMPEDE IS STARTED BY FOOD RATIONING

Sales Records Broken by Amateur Gardeners.

Chicago is going back to the soil. Yesterday hundreds of city dwellers who have eaten out of cans but always yearned for a little cottage in the country besieged seed stores and garden tool dealers. They are going to make war gardens this year.

The overnight "back to the soil" movement sprouted after newspapers published the point values for processed fruits and vegetables to be rationed starting March 1. The charts showed that only three or four cans of popular fruits and vegetables will be rationed each consumer each month.

"This is the biggest day we've had in our history," the manager of a large seed store asserted. "Our store has been jammed with customers wanting to buy tomato, onion, lettuce, carrot, and bean seeds. Our phones have been busy with orders and our mail bags are beginning to reflect the response. And the garden season hasn't even started!

Seed Sales Break Records.

"We have done more business this February than in any two months of the garden season since we've been in existence. Most of the customers are rank amateurs. They don't know what they're buying and probably don't know what to do with the seeds after they get them."

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the Chicago park district and director of the war garden section of the office of civilian defense for the Chicago metropolitan area, said that the 57 per cent curtailment in canned food allotments would prompt the planting of more than 75,000 gardens in the area this year, covering more than 120 million square feet.

"The public interest in gardening probably will rise to the highest pitch since the World war," Donoghue predicted. "I expect gardens in this area to triple."

12,600 Gardens in City Last Year.

Last year 26,526 gardens, covering 41,174,554 square feet, were planted in the metropolitan area, according to registrations filed with the OCD garden division, he said. In Chicago alone there were 12,600 gardens with 12,710,934 square feet. Eight thousand families had gardens in vacant lots.

Reflecting the concern of seed stores over the tremendous influx of "greenhorns" into gardening this year, Donoghue cautioned novice gardeners to study simple instructions before planting.

[Guidance for gardeners is being offered in a new department, How to Grow a War Garden, which appears three times a week in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

"Amateur gardeners should plan their garden before buying seeds and they should be certain that their plot of ground is suitable," Donoghue said. "The best seeds and care will be fruitless if the garden is not going to have all the benefits of sunlight."

Simple Requirements Set Forth.

A few dollars, a few simple tools, and some hard work are the only requirements for a good garden, the park district official said. A 30x50 foot plot will provide adequate fresh vegetables for a family of four, he explained.

The park district will help Chicago school children plant and cultivate 30,000 gardens on park soil, Donoghue said. Each plot will be approximately 5 by 12 feet. In addition the park district will plow community garden plots with equipment furnished by the International Harvester company.

FOOD INDUSTRY SEES THREAT OF FAMINE AND RIOT

Wickard Aids Stumped on What to Eat.

ing was ordered and put a terrific burden on our industry, the large fruit and vegetable growers from all over the country were writing me that there is 'not a chance to keep ahead of military, lend-lease, and civilian requirements unless some action is taken to relieve the farm labor situation'.

Face 'Complete Breakdown.'

"The rise in the costs of producing, packaging, and transporting fruits and vegetables to the markets has been continuous. It is getting so that we are going to be faced with a complete breakdown in our distribution machinery.

"With the price ceilings, farm labor shortages, and the absence of any provisions in the man power orders for providing workers in the food distribution industry, I look for the production and distribution of fresh foods to be very, very materially reduced.

"It is the concensus among members of the food for war industry committee that we are actually on the verge of suffering," Garfitt declared.

Bruce Church, farmer and shipper of Salinas, Cal., one of the biggest head lettuce and vegetable producing sections of the country, testified before a senate agricultural committee subcommittee today that "the impact of the canned goods ration upon fruit and vegetable growers is going to be terrific." He claimed that "the resulting demand for fresh fruits and vegetables will be hard to fill unless we get more man power."

Japs Demand Comforts.

W. R. Ogg, secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, testifying before the same committee, asserted canned goods rationing would awaken the country to the fact that "social reforms, regulations on hours and wages, housing and menus for farm workers are interfering with the ability of farmers to produce food needed at home and abroad."

E. S. Harper, Twin Falls, Idaho, grower and marketing agent, told the committee how growers "had to guarantee" Jap laborers from a reclamation center "a bath every night" and other "ridiculous" requirements in order to save their crops last fall. Harper and all the other witnesses declared farmers would "take the risk" of man power problems if they had "reasonable ceiling prices" in order to provide for the higher labor costs.

"Looks Extremely Silly."

Some Democratic members of congress expressed extreme displeasure over the canned goods rationing program. Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.] said:

"Naturally there is a shortage of canned goods. The government would not let canneries operate to capacity. We are going to have bungling like this as long as we have burocrats issuing foolish edicts. I suggest we put into the government people who know how to produce food."

Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] observed that the canned goods rationing program "looks extremely silly." He said it appeared OPA "has started a system of rationing just to ration."

Lentils Included

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—The office of price administration tonight announced the point value of dried beans, peas and lentils, and dried and dehydrated soups. The values, which will be included in the 48 points for March, follow:

Dried beans [all types], peas and lentils: Up to 2 ounces, 1 point; 2 to 4 ounces, 2 points; 4 to 6 ounces, 3 points; 6 to 8 ounces, 4 points; 8 to 10 ounces, 5 points; 10 to 14 ounces, 7 points; 14 to 16 ounces, 8 points; 1 lb., 8 points.

Dried and dehydrated soups: up to 2 ounces, 2 points; 2 to 4 ounces, 4 points; 4 to 6 ounces, 6 points; 6 to 8 ounces, 8 points; 8 to 10 ounces, 10 points; 10 to 14 ounces, 13 points; 14 to 16 ounces, 16 points; 1 lb., 16 points.

A package of dehydrated soup weighing 2½ ounces and costing 4 points is sufficient to serve 4 to 6 people.

Sales of all these rationed foods have been suspended until next Monday. In the meantime, consumers are registering for ration book No. 2.

Minnesota's Governor to Address Rotarians

Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota will speak before the Rotary club in the Hotel Sherman today on "The Challenge of the Days Ahead."

EVANSTON BEGINS REGISTRY; BOOKS DENIED 17 CATS

Evanston began its rationing registration yesterday, a day ahead of Chicago.

In all, 11,152 persons out of an anticipated total of 70,000 signed up on the first day. An excess of 21,000 cans of food and 683 pounds of coffee was declared and points removed from the owners' ration books. One registrant reported 553 cans of food in storage.

At the Haven school in Evanston, Miss Helen Sanford, principal, said one well dressed woman requested that her 17 cats be registered for canned cat food and appeared annoyed when she was informed that book No. 2 will be issued only to humans.

Ira Rosenberg, chairman of Evanston's rationing boards, requested registrants to fill in the forms clipped from THE TRIBUNE to facilitate the work of badly rushed teachers who are acting as clerks.

OUTLOOK IS DARK ON FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Florida Freeze Hurts Several Crops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—With the nation almost entirely reliant upon fresh fruit and vegetables to meet their nutritional requirements, William A. Garfitt, executive vice president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association, said the immediate outlook is gloomy. Here is how he summed up the supply situation:

POTATOES: Supplies are running extremely low, with the situation expected to become critical about May 1. The Florida early crop, which was expected to ease the situation, was cut in half by a freeze last week.

ONIONS: Situation not as bad as potato, but supplies are being consumed rapidly and new stocks will be small until mid-April.

GREEN BEANS: Entire early crop from Florida has been wiped out by freeze last week. Supplies will be short at least until April.

GREEN PEAS: Peas will be in better supply than beans but none too plentiful in face of the vastly expanded demand expected.

CARROTS: Available supplies appear plentiful and a heavy acreage is being planted.

TOMATOES: Entire Florida early crop wiped out by freeze. A few tomatoes are being imported from Cuba and Mexico but supplies will be short.

LETTUCE: Head lettuce is expected to be in good supply.

CITRUS FRUITS: Florida crop cut 40 per cent by freeze. Rio Grande crop suffered about 20 per cent damage. California navel orange crop suffered minor damage.

CELERY: Florida crop suffered considerable damage. Supplies will be limited.

Three Wartime Reasons to CANCEL RESERVATIONS PROMPTLY

1. SAVE HIS PRECIOUS HOURS OF LEAVE... Holding a reservation until the last minute may make some soldier on leave wait hours for a later train.

2. AVOID DELAYING VITAL BUSINESS. A reservation you don't need... if cancelled in time... may enable some key war production executive to keep a distant appointment.

3. RAILROAD MILEAGE IS "PERISHABLE" Every mile traveled by an uncancelled berth or seat wastes forever a scarce and vital wartime commodity... transportation.

Even today, many a "sold out" train leaves the station with vacant accommodations aboard.

Each of those vacant berths or seats was reserved by someone whose plans changed, but who didn't cancel his space soon enough for it to be used by another passenger.

Each of these uncancelled reservations represents a vital unit of America's wartime transportation, gone to waste beyond recall.

Other travelers... perhaps you, yourself... would have been glad to have that unused space, if it had been given up in time.

For these days... with railroads shouldering load after load laid down by other forms of transport... and with more Americans depending on trains than ever before... there's need for every available seat or berth.

If you find you won't be using a reservation, remember, it takes only a moment to cancel. Just phone and give the number of your space and ticket.

But please... do so the minute your plans change. The more time you allow, the more certain that space is to benefit someone else.

It's one of the things you can do to increase efficiency on the transportation front... and shorten the schedule to Victory.

TOMATOES GIVEN MENU PRIORITY BY MARY MEADE

Essential for Cooking and for Vitamins.

HOW TO CONSERVE RATION POINTS.

Budget your points. Divide your family's total monthly allowance [48 points each] by four and don't spend more than that fourth each week. Compare point values before you go to market and buy in large cans when you can do so economically.

Spend your points for the biggest value in minerals and vitamins [tomatoes, for example].

"Stretch" prunes [20 points a pound!] by cutting them up and using them parsimoniously in your breakfast cereals. Use other dried fruit with lower point values in place of them.

Grow and can your own fruits and vegetables, if possible, this year.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Chicago Tribune Cooking Editor.]

Tomatoes, both canned and fresh, are the homemaker's standby. Cooking without tomatoes would be almost as bad as being deprived of onions. Tomatoes go into many soups, sauces, scalloped dishes, meat and vegetable combinations. The cereal pastes, such as spaghetti and macaroni, almost cry aloud for an accompaniment of tomatoes.

Tomatoes also furnish us with liberal supplies of vitamin C, vitamin A and niacin. What are homemakers going to do, other than plan to raise tomatoes in the back yard this year?

It is possible to save a few points by buying tomatoes in the largest cans you can use with economy. Heat and air are destructive to vitamin C, so one should use only what part of the can is necessary for one meal, and store the remainder of the tomatoes, in a glass jar with a tight lid, in the refrigerator. Never heat an entire can of tomatoes, if you aren't planning to eat all of it at one time.

Raw Cabbage for Vitamin C.

Fresh raw cabbage and the citrus fruits can be depended upon for vitamin C, if we can't have all the tomatoes we want. Many other vegetables will supply as much vitamin A: salad greens, and the green and yellow vegetables, for example. There's more niacin in green and yellow vegetables, too. The problem is not to duplicate food values, but to find some substitute for the flavor of tomatoes, if we can.

I don't know that we can. We can stretch flavor, perhaps, by cutting the amount of tomatoes we use in preparing sauces, soups and combination dishes. A very fine sauce for spaghetti may be made with little or no tomatoes. Plenty of onions, chopped meat, meat or vegetable stock, and careful spicing will do the trick.

If you have an oversupply of canned tomatoes on hand, do not open the cans and reprocess them in glass jars before you register for war ration book No. 2. A number of women have asked me if this reprocessing isn't a good idea.

Danger of Losing Vitamins.

No, for several reasons. First, you'll lose the vitamin value of your tomatoes [or juice] if you do this, for it will require recooking the fruit. Remember how much damage heat and air can do!

Secondly, this is not a very patriotic procedure. It is nothing more or less than dodging, by unfair means, the penalties imposed by rationing regulations. It is wiser to declare these excess stocks and to sacrifice an 8 point stamp for each can.

At that, you're ahead of the person who has no excess stocks of tomatoes. She will have to pay 16 to 20 points a can, not the mere 8 you are losing. This is probably unfair and unreasonable, but there are many problems yet to be ironed out in this complicated system of points rationing.

My department will be glad to talk over rationing and menu planning problems with readers and to report any common difficulties to authorities in the office of price administration. In tomorrow's TRIBUNE, I shall discuss solutions to several rationing problems that readers already have brought to my attention.

CIGARET RATIONS UNNEEDED NOW, SAYS WPB UNIT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Smokers who have heard rumors of cigaret rationing got good news from the government today.

"No restrictions on the manufacture or distribution of cigarets are necessary at present," the war production board's beverages and tobacco division reported.

Domestic consumption of cigarets totaled 236 billion in 1942, an increase of 29 billion over 1941, the previous high, but the division said stocks of cigaret leaf tobacco in the hands of dealers and manufacturers were adequate for the time being.

British Children's Health Unchanged by Vitamins

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The vitamin capsule feeding tests for school children carried out at the request of Health Minister Ernest Brown have disclosed that those who did not take the pills were just as healthy afterward as those who did, it was announced today. The tests, carried out on 600 London elementary school children between 7 and 14 years old, were continued for seven months. The vitamins had no appreciable effect, it was said.

CHARGE ENTIRE CIVILIAN MEAT SUPPLY IN PERIL

Retailers Blame Illegal Market on OPA.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Illegal markets on a nation-wide scale, flourishing under the policies of the office of price administration, threaten the entire civilian market for meats, members of the National Association of Meat Retailers asserted yesterday. The association is holding a two day meeting, at which a program for reform in meat distribution is to be outlined, in the La Salle hotel.

Edwin F. Janssen.

Among the specific charges against OPA, made by Edwin F. Janssen of St. Paul, Minn., the organization's president, are:

1. Legitimate dealers are getting only 40 to 50 per cent of their normal 1941 supplies of beef and pork [some only 20 per cent], altho the OPA repeatedly has said that 70 per cent is available.

Increased Animal Production.

2. By its own statistics OPA has shown that army, navy, and lend-lease shipments are taking only a fraction of the meat that has disappeared in a time of increased production of meat animals.

3. There are huge hoards of beef, pork, and veal in privately owned refrigeration plants that lease lockers to individuals; estimates on the total in the lockers ran from one to three weeks' supply for the entire civilian population.

"The OPA in Washington has bungled badly," Janssen said. "The huge supplies in the country should take care of all meat consumers. Shortages of supply cannot all be blamed on the increased purchasing power of consumers. If the OPA figures are true there must be great waste in the food for those in military service or huge supplies piled up in warehouses."

Cites Federal Figures.

To buttress the case of the independent retailers whose customers are besieging them for meat, Janssen quoted federal figures. The figures stated, he said, that these percentages of certain products go to lend-lease: Only one out of every 500 pounds of fresh meat produced in the United States, 1 per cent of canned and smoked meats, 1 per cent of canned vegetables, 7 per cent of fish, 23 per cent of cheese and other dairy products, 3.5 per cent of fluid milk, 1 per cent of butter [to Russia], and 10 per cent of the country's egg production.

"Then they tell us that Britain is feeding our soldiers in Australia and New Zealand 25 million pounds of meat a year," Janssen averred. "Considering this and the increased output of the farms and ranches in 1942, there should be in any circumstances ample supplies for home consumption, if we remember that the big meat eaters are in the military service. Why is it that retailers all over the country report they get only 20 to 60 per cent of the 1941 normal, when the quota is 70 per cent?"

Blames OPA Theorists.

He said that classroom theorists in the OPA were responsible and that their amateurish control caused the present chaos in meat.

"We recommend that this control be taken from the bunglers and handed over to experienced men in the department of agriculture," Janssen concluded.

Elmer Langan, head of the packers-retailers relations committee in Cincinnati, O., said that huge supplies of meat had been hoarded in cold storage plants because the OPA was forcing big packers to operate at a loss.

"They are killing far less than their quotas," he said, "and more and more meat is getting into illegal channels. The cold storage lockers all over the country are loaded to capacity."

John J. Tunzer of the Retail Meat Dealers' association of Chicago said that some of his members reported that salesmen and even officials of some small packing houses had started to demand graft from retailers; that one dealer asserted he had been promised "all the meat he wanted in any week" for a side payment of $300. It was turned down because, the retailer said, he couldn't make any profit without violating retail price ceilings.

Attending the meeting are representatives of 20,000 dealers in 79 cities.

ILLINOIS LIVE STOCK SETS 24 YEAR RECORD; VALUE IS 514 MILLION

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP).—Live stock on Illinois farms at the start of 1943 broke all comparable records since 1919, the annual inventory of the Illinois and United States departments of agriculture showed today.

Including chickens and turkeys, which increased 13 per cent over 1942, the total value of all live stock was $514,551,000, an increase of $147,749,000, or 40 per cent, over a year earlier and the highest since 1919.

The report said cattle were valued at $259,032,000 and hogs at $172,046,000.

The number of cattle reached 3,212,000 head, the largest on record, and 2 per cent above the previous high of Jan. 1, 1942. Milk cows totaled $1,168,000, or 1 per cent over a year earlier. Their value advanced during the year to a record high average of $112 per head. This compares with $86 in 1942.

U.S. Condemns 'Nylon Hose Deals' to Sell War Bonds

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—The office of price administration and the treasury department joined today in condemning what they termed "a growing practice" of selling merchandise, particularly nylon hosiery, on the condition that purchasers buy war bonds. Combination transactions of this type, the OPA declared, violate price regulations.

FREE PLAY SHOE TYPES FROM OPA RATIONING LISTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 [Special].—The office of price administration today announced that a limited group of "play" shoes and certain other types not ordinarily worn and which are in the hands of dealers or in process of manufacture will be released from ration control starting Thursday.

OPA also announced revision of its definition of "infants'" shoes to put in the nonrationed class all baby shoes up to size four, whether hard or soft soled. Originally only soft soled infant shoes were unrationed. Sizes above four continue subject to rationing whether soles are hard or soft.

Releases Fabric Types.

Today's ruling specifically excludes from rationing existing stocks of ski shoes, skate shoes, rubber soled shoes with fabric uppers, locker sandals, bathing slippers and a variety of other play shoes with uppers made of fabric or types of leather not on the critical list.

The exemption is limited to shoes now in the hands of retailers, wholesalers or manufacturers or which are to be manufactured before April 16. Any made after that date—and OPA is requiring manufacturers to mark them—return to the rationed list. Also in the exempt list are all imported Mexican huaraches released by collectors of customs before June 1.

For the benefit of the shoe trade, which must use the few days before the effective date to rearrange store stocks, OPA listed the following definitions of nonrationed play shoes:

1. Shoes with a platform and with a heel height of 1⅝ inch or less whose upper is made wholly of fabric, imitation leather, sheepskin, cape or a combination of these materials.

2. Shoes with a platform and an open back, and with a heel height of 1⅝ inch or less, whose upper is made of kipskin or kipsides, wholly or in combination with fabric, imitation leather, sheepskin, or cape;

Patent Leathers Exempt.

3. Shoes with a wedge heel of 1⅝ inches or less in height whose upper is made wholly of patent leather, and which have a platform and open back;

4. Shoes with a heel height of 1⅝ inches or less whose upper is made wholly of imitation leather;

5. Shoes [sandals] with a heel height of 1⅝ inches or less, with an open back, whose upper is made wholly of fabric, imitation leather, sheepskin, cape or a combination of these materials.

TOMATOES GIVEN MENU PRIORITY BY MARY MEADE

Essential for Cooking and for Vitamins.

HOW TO CONSERVE RATION POINTS.

Budget your points. Divide your family's total monthly allowance [48 points each] by four and don't spend more than that fourth each week. Compare point values before you go to market and buy in large cans when you can do so economically.

Spend your points for the biggest value in minerals and vitamins [tomatoes, for example].

"Stretch" prunes [20 points a pound!] by cutting them up and using them parsimoniously in your breakfast cereals. Use other dried fruit with lower point values in place of them.

Grow and can your own fruits and vegetables, if possible, this year.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Chicago Tribune Cooking Editor.]

Tomatoes, both canned and fresh, are the homemaker's standby. Cooking without tomatoes would be almost as bad as being deprived of onions. Tomatoes go into many soups, sauces, scalloped dishes, meat and vegetable combinations. The cereal pastes, such as spaghetti and macaroni, almost cry aloud for an accompaniment of tomatoes.

Tomatoes also furnish us with liberal supplies of vitamin C, vitamin A and niacin. What are homemakers going to do, other than plan to raise tomatoes in the back yard this year?

It is possible to save a few points by buying tomatoes in the largest cans you can use with economy. Heat and air are destructive to vitamin C, so one should use only what part of the can is necessary for one meal, and store the remainder of the tomatoes, in a glass jar with a tight lid, in the refrigerator. Never heat an entire can of tomatoes, if you aren't planning to eat all of it at one time.

Raw Cabbage for Vitamin C.

Fresh raw cabbage and the citrus fruits can be depended upon for vitamin C, if we can't have all the tomatoes we want. Many other vegetables will supply as much vitamin A: salad greens, and the green and yellow vegetables, for example. There's more niacin in green and yellow vegetables, too. The problem is not to duplicate food values, but to find some substitute for the flavor of tomatoes, if we can.

I don't know that we can. We can stretch flavor, perhaps, by cutting the amount of tomatoes we use in preparing sauces, soups and combination dishes. A very fine sauce for spaghetti may be made with little or no tomatoes. Plenty of onions, chopped meat, meat or vegetable stock, and careful spicing will do the trick.

If you have an oversupply of canned tomatoes on hand, do not open the cans and reprocess them in glass jars before you register for war ration book No. 2. A number of women have asked me if this reprocessing isn't a good idea.

Danger of Losing Vitamins.

No, for several reasons. First, you'll lose the vitamin value of your tomatoes [or juice] if you do this, for it will require recooking the fruit. Remember how much damage heat and air can do!

Secondly, this is not a very patriotic procedure. It is nothing more or less than dodging, by unfair means, the penalties imposed by rationing regulations. It is wiser to declare these excess stocks and to sacrifice an 8 point stamp for each can.

At that, you're ahead of the person who has no excess stocks of tomatoes. She will have to pay 16 to 20 points a can, not the mere 8 you are losing. This is probably unfair and unreasonable, but there are many problems yet to be ironed out in this complicated system of points rationing.

My department will be glad to talk over rationing and menu planning problems with readers and to report any common difficulties to authorities in the office of price administration. In tomorrow's TRIBUNE, I shall discuss solutions to several rationing problems that readers already have brought to my attention.

CIGARET RATIONS UNNEEDED NOW, SAYS WPB UNIT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Smokers who have heard rumors of cigaret rationing got good news from the government today.

"No restrictions on the manufacture or distribution of cigarets are necessary at present," the war production board's beverages and tobacco division reported.

Domestic consumption of cigarets totaled 236 billion in 1942, an increase of 29 billion over 1941, the previous high, but the division said stocks of cigaret leaf tobacco in the hands of dealers and manufacturers were adequate for the time being.

British Children's Health Unchanged by Vitamins

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The vitamin capsule feeding tests for school children carried out at the request of Health Minister Ernest Brown have disclosed that those who did not take the pills were just as healthy afterward as those who did, it was announced today. The tests, carried out on 600 London elementary school children between 7 and 14 years old, were continued for seven months. The vitamins had no appreciable effect, it was said.

CHARGE ENTIRE CIVILIAN MEAT SUPPLY IN PERIL

Retailers Blame Illegal Market on OPA.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Edwin F. Janssen.

Illegal markets on a nation-wide scale, flourishing under the policies of the office of price administration, threaten the entire civilian market for meats, members of the National Association of Meat Retailers asserted yesterday. The association is holding a two day meeting, at which a program for reform in meat distribution is to be outlined, in the La Salle hotel.

Among the specific charges against OPA, made by Edwin F. Janssen of St. Paul, Minn., the organization's president, are:

1. Legitimate dealers are getting only 40 to 50 per cent of their normal 1941 supplies of beef and pork [some only 20 per cent], altho the OPA repeatedly has said that 70 per cent is available.

Increased Animal Production.

2. By its own statistics OPA has shown that army, navy, and lend-lease shipments are taking only a fraction of the meat that has disappeared in a time of increased production of meat animals.

3. There are huge hoards of beef, pork, and veal in privately owned refrigeration plants that lease lockers to individuals; estimates on the total in the lockers ran from one to three weeks' supply for the entire civilian population.

"The OPA in Washington has bungled badly," Janssen said. "The huge supplies in the country should take care of all meat consumers. Shortages of supply cannot all be blamed on the increased purchasing power of consumers. If the OPA figures are true there must be great waste in the food for those in military service or huge supplies piled up in warehouses."

Cites Federal Figures.

To buttress the case of the independent retailers whose customers are besieging them for meat, Janssen quoted federal figures. The figures stated, he said, that these percentages of certain products go to lend-lease: Only one out of every 500 pounds of fresh meat produced in the United States, 1 per cent of canned and smoked meats, 1 per cent of canned vegetables, 7 per cent of fish, 23 per cent of cheese and other dairy products, 3.5 per cent of fluid milk, 1 per cent of butter [to Russia], and 10 per cent of the country's egg production.

"Then they tell us that Britain is feeding our soldiers in Australia and New Zealand 25 million pounds of meat a year," Janssen averred. "Considering this and the increased output of the farms and ranches in 1942, there should be in any circumstances ample supplies for home consumption, if we remember that the big meat eaters are in the military service. Why is it that retailers all over the country report they get only 20 to 60 per cent of the 1941 normal, when the quota is 70 per cent?"

Blames OPA Theorists.

He said that classroom theorists in the OPA were responsible and that their amateurish control caused the present chaos in meat.

"We recommend that this control be taken from the bunglers and handed over to experienced men in the department of agriculture," Janssen concluded.

Elmer Langan, head of the packers-retailers relations committee in Cincinnati, O., said that huge supplies of meat had been hoarded in cold storage plants because the OPA was forcing big packers to operate at a loss.

"They are killing far less than their quotas," he said, "and more and more meat is getting into illegal channels. The cold storage lockers all over the country are loaded to capacity."

John J. ILLINOIS LIVE STOCK SETS 24 YEAR RECORD; VALUE IS 514 MILLION

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP).—Live stock on Illinois farms at the start of 1943 broke all comparable records since 1919, the annual inventory of the Illinois and United States departments of agriculture showed today.

The report said cattle were valued at $259,032,000 and hogs at $172,046,000.

The number of cattle reached 3,212,000 head, the largest on record, and 2 per cent above the previous high of Jan. 1, 1942. Milk cows totaled $1,168,000, or 1 per cent over a year earlier. Their value advanced during the year to a record high average of $112 per head. This compares with $86 in 1942.

GROWER CHARGES FIELD ORGIES BY U. S. FARM HANDS

Carousing Ties Up Work, Senators Told.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—A Florida food producer declared today that orgies with whisky and loose women have taken the place of work among some of the farm laborers government agencies have provided for growers.

L. L. Chandler of Gould, Fla., a fruit and vegetable grower, said the orgies were carried on in the fields by workers provided southern planters under contract with the farm security administration.

Chandler, who testified before a senate agriculture subcommittee investigating food production, said the workers mostly were "riffraff" whites and Negroes.

He said they are "petted, pampered, and spoiled" under FSA policies "dripping with social reform."

Recruited by Job Agency.

The workers are recruited by the United States employment service and placed under FSA contracts with farmers.

"The Negroes make up a pool of money among themselves and send for a case of whisky," Chandler asserted. "They get drunk in the fields and gamble. Loose women follow them into the fields. They have regular orgies."

He said he had a "tragic experience" with a group recruited in Natchez, Miss.

He said the FSA moved them to tents when "they found one toilet on my place they didn't like." They "thumbed their noses at me," he added, asserting all they wanted was "more money and less work."

Ridicules Student Plan.

Chandler ridiculed the idea that school children and members of women's clubs can be recruited to save crops.

"We are dealing with perishable crops," he said. "If something has to be done this morning, you can't wait to come over Sunday. And you can't take a nice, sweet old lady and have her put her hands in manure."

Chandler said importation of labor from the Bahamas would solve the problem of Florida producers, but that efforts to obtain permission from Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission, to import 18,000 "competent, willing laborers across the Gulf stream" have been unavailing.

He said McNutt took the position the domestic supply of labor must be exhausted first.

Rep. Pat Cannon [D., Fla.] backed Chandler's contentions, asserting the farm labor policies have been "unworkable, untenable, and of a socialistic nature."

AURORA VOTERS REJECT AIRPORT BOND ISSUE PLAN

Aurora voters unexpectedly upset plans yesterday for the $2,000,000 municipal-military airport when they rejected a $150,000 bond proposal for the acquisition of the airport site. The vote was 4,773 to 3,958, or approximately one-third of the city's registered voters.

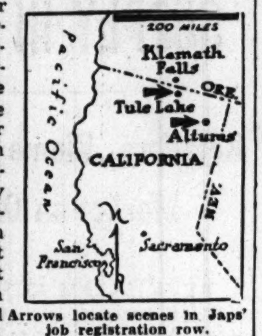
The airport was to have been used by the army or navy during the war. More or less completed plans drawn up by the civil aeronautics authority called for the expenditure of $1,921,000 by the government. Blueprints called for runways 5,100 to 7,300 feet long. Aurora's expense was to have been $150,000 to buy the land.

Rejection of the bond issue was attributed in large part to the opposition of Mayor Andrew J. Carter, a veteran railroader. He contended Aurora didn't have the money to spend, that the $150,000 would be only the beginning of large municipal outlays, and that if the government really wanted an Aurora airport it would go ahead and build it. Yesterday's vote may now throw the airport to Gary, Ind., it was said.

Walter O'Malley was reëlected for a third term as city judge of Aurora.

27 WEST COAST JAPS ARRESTED AS JOB SHIRKERS

Klamath Falls, Ore., Feb. 22 (AP).—Several days of agitation over registration for job clearance and selective service at the Tule Lake [Cal.] war relocation center ended today with 27 Japanese from the project in jail at Klamath Falls, and Alturas, Cal. All 27 had protested at registering.



Arrows locate scenes in Japs' job registration row.

Coverley said there was no violence. The men were removed from the project by the project internal security force.

Coverley said that loyal evacuees on the project were "greatly disturbed" by the occurrences of yesterday and fear it will jeopardize their opportunities to take advantage of the work clearance program.

'PLANNED CHAOS' IS CONDEMNED BY REP. EUGENE COX

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 22 [Special].—Planned confusion, created by burocrats in government, was condemned by Rep. Eugene E. Cox, [D., Ga.] in a talk today before the Georgia Bankers' association.

"There are too many," he asserted, "who are trying to win the war with one hand and overthrow the system of free enterprise and democracy with the other. There is too much testing of theories and sociological experimentation.

"The inexpressible despicable fashion of the burocrats is to brand as unpatriotic those who oppose needless regulation and who want to know what is being done with the people's money. Congress is engaged now in the mission of curbing this dangerous trend toward government by man and away from government by law."

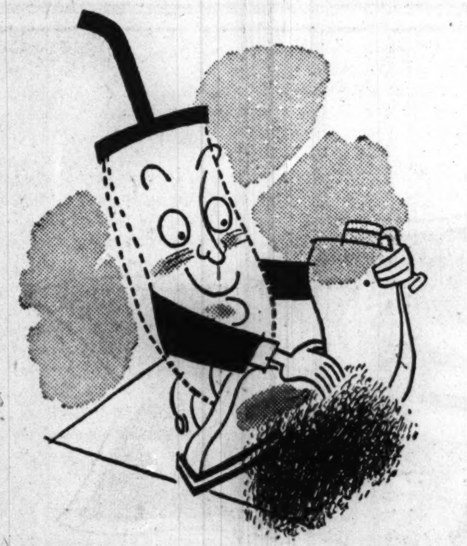
Why I don't act my age

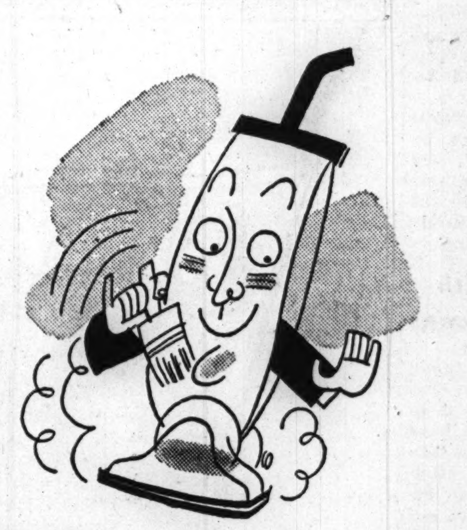
Act my age! Why, I'd be acting like an old worn-out cleaner that's ready for the scrap pile. Instead, I'm young and active, and can clean rugs with the best of 'em.

That's because my owner gives me extra special care. And it's mighty important now during wartime, because materials that usually go into vacuum cleaners are needed for making guns and tanks and planes.

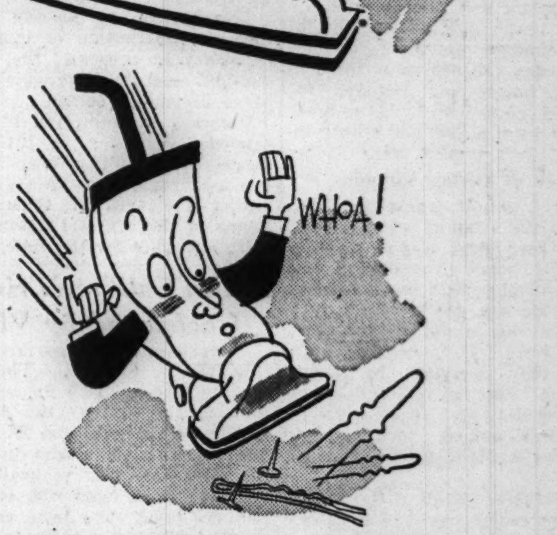
If you ask me, I'd say my boss is wise and patriotic, too. And I suggest that you follow her example. It's really very easy.



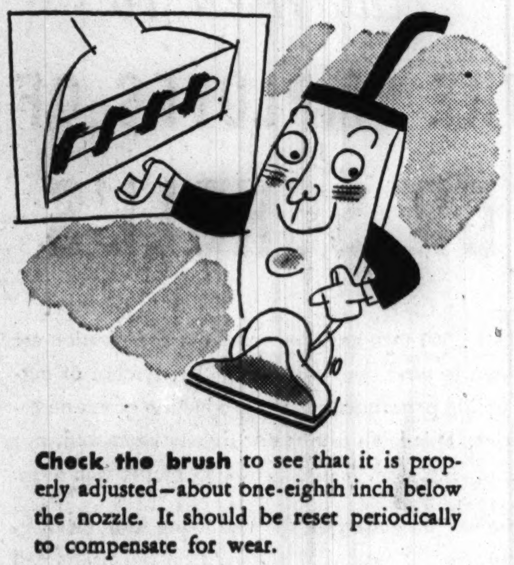
First thing to remember is to empty the dust bag every time you use your vacuum cleaner. You'll be surprised how much better your cleaner works.



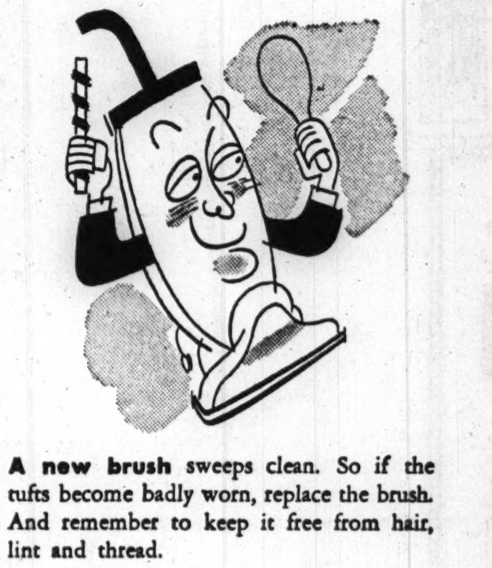
Shake the bag thoroughly to get the dust out of the pores of the cloth. And every month or so brush the bag . . . but don't ever wash it.



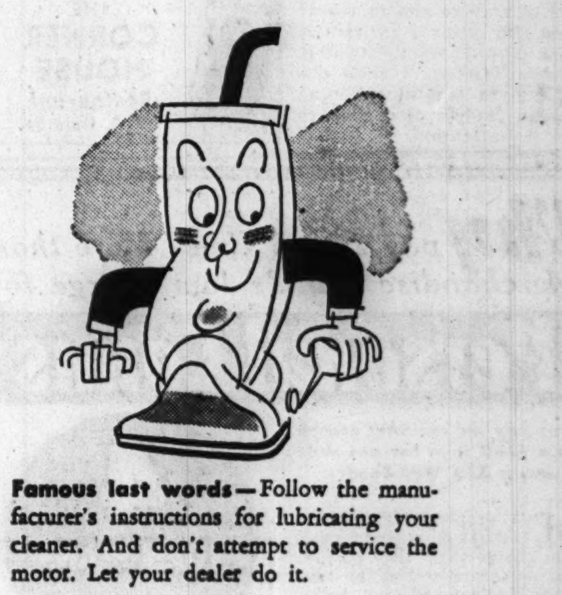
No, no, lady! Don't run your cleaner over pins, tacks, hair pins, coins or other hard objects. Pick them up by hand, and you'll avoid unnecessary repairs.



Check the brush to see that it is properly adjusted—about one-eighth inch below the nozzle. It should be reset periodically to compensate for wear.



A new brush sweeps clean. So if the tufts become badly worn, replace the brush. And remember to keep it free from hair, lint and thread.



Famous last words—Follow the manufacturer's instructions for lubricating your cleaner. And don't attempt to service the motor. Let your dealer do it.

WPB FIGURES U. S. CAN DO WITH LESS OF EVERYTHING

Weiner Would Abolish All Tombstones, Blinds.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—A "bedrock" war time economy, in the tentative judgment of the office of civilian supply, would have no room for new civilian tablecloths, window shades, tombstones, jewelry, amateur cameras or film, curtains, or mechanical pencils.

If compelled to shed all but absolute essentials, the war production board division estimated, civilians could get along on 71.8 per cent of the food, 54.9 per cent of the beverages, and 64 per cent of the clothing, of the volume consumed in 1941. These figures are in terms of 1941 dollars.

Officials of the office of civilian supply—who prepared the report on a confidential basis at the request of James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization—emphasized today that the report is preliminary and is undergoing substantial revision. The revised study will be completed in about a month.

Weiner Figures Long War.

In the original report OCS Director Joseph L. Weiner said it had been prepared on the assumption of a long war, and said the "bedrock" estimates represented the point at which further curtailment would mean a loss instead of a gain for the war—in other words the point below which supplies must not fall. It does not constitute a program of recommendations for curtailment, he said.

Utilities like gas, electricity, water, and telephones could be cut only slightly, OCS decided. Telephones could be reduced to 80 per cent of 1941 usage, based on the decision that four telephones to a city block are necessary. Telegraph, cable, and wireless service could be trimmed 50 per cent, OCS having found that half the wires and cablegrams in normal times are purely social affairs.

Travel Cut in Half.

The rest of the curtailment in household utilities—to 97 per cent of electricity, 83 for gas, and 94 for water—was based on the estimate that considerable equipment would wear out and could not be replaced.

Travel could be cut to 51.6 per cent of all local and intercity movements in 1941, it was estimated. This means that trains, buses, and street cars would have to be increased considerably because automobile transportation would be cut to 43.4 per cent.

Admissions to professional baseball and football contests could decline to 70 per cent, OCS concluded, and admissions to college football could drop to 20 per cent of 1941. The morale and physical fitness benefits of a certain amount of spectator sports were taken into account, but the agency decided that admissions and pari-mutuel recipts at horse and dog race tracks could be cut to 10 per cent.

Medical Service Cut.

Other conclusions of possible cuts:

Admissions to professional hockey games to 50 per cent.

Movie picture admissions to 90 per cent of 1941 and the legitimate theater and opera to 80 per cent.

The services of doctors and dentists to 90 per cent and the services of private duty graduate nurses to 30 per cent.

Funeral and burial expenses to 50 per cent.

Barber and beauty shop services to 60 per cent; baths and masseur service to 10 per cent.

Shoe repairs would have to be stepped up to 125 per cent of 1941 because new leather shoes were put at a bedrock figure of 82 per cent of 1939 purchases.

More Work at Home.

The cleaning, dyeing, altering, and repairs of clothing in commercial shops could decline to 65 per cent of 1941, it was estimated, indicating OCS belief that much of this work could be done at home. Laundry services, however, must be maintained at 100 per cent, the report reckoned.

Other findings of the report based on 1939 consumption, estimated the following minimum civilian consumer requirements:

Women's handbags, 40 per cent; hair brushes, 25; all apparel fabrics, 65; thread, 100; handkerchiefs, 80 [because no paper tissues would be available]; curtains and draperies, none; mops, brooms, and brushes, 70; rugs and carpets, 15; linoleum, 13; blankets and quilts, 75; screening, 56; pillows and cushions, 10; carpet sweepers, lawn mowers, window shades, mechanical refrigerators, sewing machines, washing machines, electric flatirons, and other electrical appliances, all none.

Fruit jars and rings were estimated at 150 per cent because of increased home canning; glassware was put at 28; crockery, at 29; flatware at 8, and wooden ware at 56 per cent.

Spectacle frames were put at 100 per cent and lenses at 130 because of the increasing number of women in industry, greater eyeglass breakage, and requirement of more eye tests.

SENATORS CALL FOR SIMPLER OIL RATIONING RULES

Urge Percentage Plan in Fuel Reduction.

Sen. Francis Maloney.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—A senate investigating committee today recommended simpler fuel oil rationing methods and centralization of controls to eliminate "the present intolerable division of authority."

The special committee, headed by Sen. Francis Maloney [D., Conn.], told the senate little improvement in supply can be expected "during this and following war time winters." It recommended that a straight percentage reduction in fuel oil allotments, based on use during the winter of 1941-'42, replace the present complicated system of determining the number of coupons to be issued to householders.

"The committee believes that the shortage of fuel oil and gasoline has been intensified and suffering increased because of the present intolerable division of authority," the report said.

Power Rests with OPA.

It said that altho Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator, is supposed to have received ultimate authority in an executive order, investigation shows that his controls appear to extend over only the oil industry. It said he has no power to decide oil rationing policies, which remain within the authority of the office of price administration.

The committee suggested placing Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Virginia in a separate rationing area from Atlantic seaboard states south of Virginia.

The report said utilization of additional transportation facilities may convert an east coast deficit of 156,000 barrels a day in consumption over deliveries into an excess of 150,000 barrels a day by next winter, but that there is no way of calculating the possible increase in military demands for oil and gasoline. It said that an increase in military demands for the Pacific might cause a shortage in fuel oil in Oregon and Washington next winter.

Lack of Coördination Criticized.

The committee criticized a "lack of coördination" between the military and civil authorities in scheduling demand for oil and gas lines. It said prices also affect supply in some areas, because it is more profitable to produce and sell gasoline than fuel oil.

It predicted that substantially more petroleum products can be moved by rail and added that it believes more petroleum can be brought to the east coast by tanker without interfering with the war.

The group recommended clarifying the ban on pleasure driving in the east and placing nationwide gasoline rationing on a mileage basis "with due weight given to the availability of rubber to the particular driver and his individual needs."

Melrose Park Man Learns Second Brother Is Prisoner

William Edwards, 1202 Broadway, Melrose Park, said yesterday the war department informed him that his brother, Staff Sergt. Albert T. Edwards, 27 years old, who had been reported missing, is a prisoner of the Japanese in the Philippines. Several weeks ago Edwards was told that a younger brother, Pvt. James, 25, was a prisoner of war. The two served on Bataan with the 192d tank battalion composed of former National Guardsmen from Chicago and western suburbs.

CHAVEZ DEMANDS END OF TUGWELL 'GUINEA PIG' RULE

Finds Puerto Rico Victim of Burocrats' Grip.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Sen. Dennis Chavez [D., N. M.], chairman of the senate subcommittee which has just returned from investigating economic and social conditions in Puerto Rico tonight denounced "guinea pig" experiments and the overabundance of government regulation imposed upon the people of the Caribbean island.

Sen. Dennis Chavez.

Chavez reviewed the activities of the subcommittee of the senate committee on territories and insular affairs while in Puerto Rico. Public hearings were held where representatives of every imaginable group of the population expressed their views on island conditions under Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell, one of the original New Deal brain trusters.

Would Oust Tugwell.

Legislation is pending in congress to terminate Tugwell's tenure of office and provide for a definite four year term. He now serves at the pleasure of the President. The senate territories committee already has approved the legislation.

"For the moment shipping is the problem," said Chavez of economic distress on the island. "The problem can only be met in one way and that is with a clear understanding of Uncle Sam's responsibilities and by approaching the problems of the island with a full knowledge that the people are American citizens and not foreigners; by inculcating American methods and American methods only and not by making guinea pigs of the people of the island thru the application of the half baked ideas of government employés, both federal and insular. . . .

Pay Rollers Abundant.

"There is only one commodity of which there is an abundance and that is government employés. Many are duplicating and doing the same type of work. Petty jealousies among the different government agencies and departments tend to add to the confusion."

Chavez said that if a coördinated effort were made by the various government agencies to increase shipping of supplies to the island people the situation could be ameliorated.

"For the lack of 500 tons per month of needlework material, 125,000 women are out of work," said the Democratic senator. "This naturally leads them into other lines of endeavor. I was told by a prominent clergyman that Christian charity should compel us to avoid the use of the word 'prostitute,' that they were only 'hungry little girls'."

LAME DUCKS.

Former Sen. Harry H. Schwartz of Wyoming, defeated last November for reëlection, is the latest of the lame ducks to come limping to the New Deal barnyard. He draws $10,000 a year in the new post created for him on the railway mediation board. The voters who took pains to get rid of him now have him back, whether they like it or not, and they don't.

Mr. Schwartz will now add his quack to those of the countless other political quacks repudiated by the electorate, but left to waddle around in the burocracy. The list is formidable. Of ex-governors, there are Herbert Lehman of New York, now paid to feed the world; Charles Poletti, his 29 day successor, appointed to a job with duties unknown to him in the war department; M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana, AAA administrator, and now, James V. Allred of Texas, who last year resigned a federal judgeship at Mr. Roosevelt's behest to attempt to unseat Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, and who is to be repaid with appointment to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ex-senators, in addition to Mr. Schwartz, who have come back to Washington to roost are Prentiss Brown of Michigan, OPA director; Josh Lee of Oklahoma, now a $10,000 a year member of the civil aeronautics board; Wall Doxey of Mississippi, sergeant at arms of the senate, and Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, who hasn't landed yet, but is scheduled to turn up shortly with OPA.

Quack representatives now practicing politics without a license from the electorate include Luther Patrick, Alabama, $8,000 a year "specialist" in the highway division of WPB; Maury Maverick, Texas, director of the WPB's governmental division; James A. Shanley, Connecticut, appointed receiver for the Hartford Empire Glass corporation by a Democratic federal judge; R. S. McKeough, Illinois, new regional OPA director; William P. Cole Jr., Maryland, who was appointed to the District Court of Customs in New York City before he had to stand for reëlection; Joseph E. Casey, Massachusetts, a Presidential adviser; Thomas H. Eliot, Massachusetts, OWI representative in London; Jacob E. Davis, Ohio, special assistant to the undersecretary of the navy, and Richard M. Duncan, Missouri, who is being pushed for the new federal judgeship in Missouri, but hasn't landed yet.

It can safely be predicted that this list will be extended in coming weeks. In another month or so there won't be a single New Dealer put out of office by the people in November who hasn't been put back into office by Mr. Roosevelt. The lame ducks are simply collecting, and the President paying off, for past services. While in congress the present lame ducks unquestioningly voted to create scores of new agencies at the President's behest, knowing that when they should be defeated they could claim the reward for their subserviency. The administrative offices they helped create now furnish them a haven at fat pay.

GANDHI AND THE PROCONSULS.

Linlithgow, the king's governor in India, may be an embodiment of all the more understandable vices of the proconsular men and of the imperial system they serve, and also of their uncompromising virtues. He represents law but the wrong law, government but not government by consent. He pronounced judgment on Gandhi by calling the Hindu leader's tender of his life to what he thinks is the welfare of his country, an attempt at blackmail. That phrase has been picked up as a damagingly just verdict.

Gandhi is a histrionic man and not wholly an open book, but the little old patriot has remained poor in the service of India's good as he sees it. He has met the empire head on without arms. He has opposed passively without rancor and without ill will for the men who persistently jail him. If he is entangled in India's age old complexities, almost unbelievably difficult, he has not hesitated to tackle the toughest of them, such as untouchability.

Linlithgow and his caste are honestly incapable of realizing that they are intruders without sanction in India. It would be useless to reason with them, so why do it? They regard their authority as sacramental. They think and act as if heaven had sent them to the land. Their predecessors followed the traders of the East India company whose inspiration did not come from the ten commandments but from 20 per cent dividends. It's our tough luck to have any part in this historic drama. It is unforgivable to hold out hopes when we cannot make good. It will not be forgiven us and should not be. It's only one score that will be paid off by the animosity of deceived peoples.

Nor is it our business to mix in the affairs of an empire encrusted with the habits of three centuries. Dealing with a breed which believes with a clear conscience that it is executing the decrees of divine providence in acquiring and retaining what it wants is too difficult to be undertaken by any sensible people who might do some self-searching themselves. In entering India the English did not set themselves up in a wild Zululand. The culture of India was older than their own.

India, like China, was familiar with conquerors and wars between princes and confederations of states. Various religions had swept over it. The European traders were the most successful invaders and in their own conflicts the English won out. The British have no moral responsibility for a free India. The doctrine of moral responsibility is too dangerous to be applied even in Bechuanaland or Ashanti. The only argument for the occupation of a land is an amoral one. It has no ethics. It is frankly the dispossession of a people who have resources they are incapable of using. That incapacity has been held, as here against the Indians, to invalidate their title. When moral justifications are added the increase is nothing but a wealth of hypocrisy.

India has a right to endure its own misfortunes as a free land, an independent state. It has the right to create these misfortunes if they come in the train of liberty. If turmoil should endanger foreign properties that prospect cannot have prescriptive rights to enforce subjection. British investments in India have been made at the risk of the investors. They are not insured by moral principles. Justice, indeed, requires compensation. Britain could press just claims on a free India and seek redress if its citizens were grossly mistreated. That is different from denying liberty to intelligent subjects who want the freedom promised "everywhere in the world."

The British might have told our revolutionary ancestors that if they insisted on separation they'd fall into civil strife. We did. Neither then nor at any other time would we have canceled our independence to avoid four years of war.

Already a fatality of broken faith, of disillusionment, of reproaches, of anger and poisoned world intercourse has fallen on the future. The persons responsible for the wantonness of promises which cannot be kept should view their responsibility with dread. They have prepared perfidies greater than those of the other war.

The peoples to be deceived will greet their deceivers with a derision, cynicism, and wrath which will last a generation, probably until the next war has been provoked.

THE AMERICANS IN TUNISIA.

Three weeks after the landing in North Africa Mr. Churchill made a very generous and chivalric submission to Mr. Roosevelt. He was speaking to the commons.

"This majestic enterprise," he said, "is under the direction and responsibility of the President of the United States."

The first British army, the Dunkirk army, which returned to the battle front in this expedition, was to serve loyally under American command. At the time the prospects of the expedition which startled the world at war by its successful descent out of the blue, were brilliant. Tunis lay directly ahead and the soft belly of Europe was quivering with a new fear. The British eighth army was a thunderbolt dealing with Rommel and his formidable Afrika-Korps.

In the light of these events Mr. Churchill's retirement to a subordinate position seemed to be all that could be expected of an ally putting victory above all self-interested motives. The renown and the glory were to be Mr. Roosevelt's. What now appears with emphasis in Mr. Churchill's statement is the word "responsibility." Mr. Churchill was the victim of the Dardanelles in the other war and of Dunkirk, Greece, Crete, and Dieppe in this one. He is responsible to parliament. Mr. Roosevelt is responsible to no one. Mr. Churchill took out some accident insurance. The African enterprise was not his. It came out of the White House. He was washing his hands.

Mr. Roosevelt also had something to say of the expedition. In his message to congress Jan. 7 he said: "After months of secret planning and preparation in the utmost detail an enormous amphibious expedition was embarked for North Africa from the United States and the United Kingdom in literally hundreds of ships."

If Mr. Roosevelt were responsible to questions in open congress as Mr. Churchill is to the commons, he might be asked why an expedition to which months of secret planning and preparation in the utmost detail had been given was undertaken a week before the rainy season started. Three more days of dry weather, it is now said, would have given the American and British troops both Tunis and Bizerte. Who failed to study the weather of this region of North Africa in all the months of detailed preparation? The soldiers and their machines were bogged down in the mud. Hitler, who said he would deal some strokes at this threat to the soft belly, was able to throw in a force which has chased the American troops 60 miles into the hills.

These sacrificed troops in their first contact with the Germans have suffered the most humiliating reverse to American arms since the battle of Bull Run. We do not need to be told that it was not the fault of the men and possibly not of their immediate commanders. The mud explanation is clear. Nothing else is. Reporters with the troops have written that the artillery they had was useless against the German tanks, that the American tanks were not equal to the contest and that the German stukas had the air to themselves. It reads as if we had learned nothing since 1939.

Nothing like this happened in the other war when Americans met Germans for the first time. The caliber of the men is not different. These men are the sons of their fathers, who were not chased anywhere at any time by the squareheads. In their day the man in the White House did not have delusions of military grandeur. He had delusions of world leadership but they did not cost the lives of American soldiers.

It is humiliating to see German pictures of American captives being led to internment camps, and we have yet to receive the casualty lists accounted for by that 60 mile retreat in which great stores of material were lost and air fields had to be abandoned. Apologists are throwing the blame on the men by left-handed compliments. They were green and not accustomed to battle. Pershing's men were new to battle but they were not chased 60 miles in their first encounter. The men are all right. There is something very wrong with the Washington conduct of the war and evidence points to the self-conscious commander in chief.

THE MAYOR DROPS A HINT.

[New York Times.]

"In a few hours," came the ingratiating voice of Mayor La Guardia over the radio on Sunday, "the OPA will announce the freezing of another commodity, beginning tomorrow morning. . . . So look to tomorrow morning's paper for the announcement, which may come as a surprise. It will not be food, and in the meantime do not do any unnecessary walking."

The result of this hint was to fill east side shoe stores, open on Sunday, with frantically buying customers eager to beat the gun. This is precisely the result that James F. Byrnes, the director of economic stabilization, sought to avoid by freezing shoe sales prior to rationing.

It will often be necessary for Washington to apprise local officials confidentially in advance of similar actions. These officials can coöperate only by keeping their confidential information confidential. In all such cases it should be left for those in charge at Washington to break the news first. What should we think if a lieutenant colonel broadcast an announcement that the continent would be invaded tomorrow morning at an unexpected point which could not be revealed, but that wise Frenchmen had better move out of Lorient? In matters like rationing it is the duty of local officials to subject themselves to the same discipline as army officers must do in military matters.

Tennessee has repealed its poll tax law, and for the first time since reconstruction days it will not cost anything to be a Republican.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MR. HOLMES' THIRD LIFE.

The depressing effect of income tax scheduling and canned food rationing has caused this column to turn its attention to a happier but not far-distant era when there was only one mastermind in the world, and he was not concerned with government. His name was Sherlock Holmes.

* * *

It seems that the war's severe pressure on the civilian front has failed to distract the sect of Holmesians from their customary worship. Seymour Korman, Tribune correspondent in London, may be knee-deep in the ruins of Christopher Wren's churches, but he takes time to write to a brother in the bonds back home:

"I have been intending to track down the Holmes lodgings on Baker street, but as yet haven't had an opportunity. When I do I'll place a votive offering there on your behalf—probably one of my old slippers, a gallon can of cocaine, and a pup from the offspring of the hound of the Baskervilles."

* * *

Charles Leavelle of THE TRIBUNE's city room, altho furiously writing a book based on Lt. Whittaker's diary of the Rickenbacker castaways, found time to file a protest against a movie-page item which called Sherlock Holmes "the great Scotland Yard detective." He quoted from the Sacred Writings:

"Fancy his having the insolence to confound me with the official detective force!"

This utterance of the master may be found in the adventure of the Speckled Band, when Dr. Grimesby Roylott of Stoke-Moran barged into 221b Baker street and snarled:

"I have heard of you before. You are Holmes, the meddler—Holmes, the busybody—Holmes, the Scotland Yard jack-in-office."

* * *

The mastermind is having his second resurrection, but his rebirth in Hollywood, in such films as "Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon" and "Sherlock Holmes in Washington," is being greeted with jeers by old-line Holmesians. A London movie critic quotes Dr. Watson on this matter:

"I must ruefully admit I have only small hopes that, occupied as he is in Hollywood, he will ever return to solve the cases which, even as I sit here in Baker street, await him: the case of the Dehydrated Onion, the problem of the Vanishing Tire Tread, and the affair of the Missing Orange."

THE CHEERFUL VIEW.

With a choice for burgomaster
Staring us straight in the face
(Each aspirant a forecaster
Of our city's future pace);

With Burton Holmes in glory
Holding forth upon the stage;
(How the color of his story
Our attention doth engage);

With old Gandhi now declining
To indulge the inner man
(E'en tho millions more are pining
Just to smell a sardine can)—

These things set our hearts a-throbbin'
In this land that once was free;
All we need now is a robin,
And we're back to normalcy.

Memories of the Old Apple Bowl.

One source of pleasure on the old farm was the apple barrel which stood in a dark corner of the cellar. Its treasure was stored in reserve for the long winter evenings.

After the evening chores and household tasks had been completed, some one was sent to the basement for a bowl of apples. The bowl was taken to the parlor and placed as conveniently as possible. Now and then cider, or perhaps fudge or popcorn, would be added as a special refreshment, but none of these were as regular as the apples.

The quiet of the winter evening was broken only by the ticking of the clock, or an occasional coal bursting in the stove, or the party ring of the wall phone. A good apple, a good book, and the quiet, stove-heated parlor made as simple and as enjoyable an evening as could be desired.

The old parlor stove is now a radiator; the old chair probably wasn't as comfortable as the new one; the apple no longer is taken from a barrel, but comes from an electric refrigerator. The apple is much the same, however, and often the book is, too, and the combination of the two has a strong hold on me. Now and then the radio destroys the illusion and, of course, when the telephone rings it is always for us, but aside from that the same pleasant enjoyment is experienced just as in days past. Ward Monte.

FROM KING TO DUCE.

Said Benito Muss. to King Victor Emman.:
"Our campaign progresses, according to plan!
We've hid from the British,
According to plan;
They're nervous and skittish,
According to plan;
For when they keep trying
To stop us from flying,
Of anger they're crying,
According to plan!"
Said Victor Emman. to Benito the Muss.:
"You make things sound so hotsy-totsy for us!
You rate all our thanks for your martial task,
But say—just which side are we on, may I ask?"

WHAT IS A PILONIDAL CYST?

EVERY now and then a dimple near the lower end of the spine will point to the presence of a cyst. Such a defect is part of one's self.

Fortunately, it may not exert the slightest influence upon health. In fact, during the examination of recruits, many an applicant learned for the first time that he was the possessor of one of these "pets." The lesions are far more common on men than women.

The word "pilonidal"—meaning "nests of hair"—is applied to the condition. The name arose because the growths are usually lined with epithelial cells resembling skin, from which hair may grow.

But once in a while one of these interlopers will "act up." Pain, accompanied by inflammation and swelling in the neighborhood of the rudimentary tail bone [coccyx] may be complained of. The symptoms vary from a mild throbbing which is scarcely noticeable to intense agony which radiates downward along the thigh. Occasionally the first sign will be a discharge and, on examination, a sizable pocket will be discovered.

Chronic cases may exhibit dull backache. This is increased by exercise, and intermittent puffing is associated with the liberation of puslike material. As a rule, these episodes will recur more frequently should the patient be run down or suffer an incidental infection, such as a sore throat.

The diagnosis is relatively simple. If hair protrudes from the outlet, there need be no question. Sometimes care must be taken not to confuse the disorder with a rectal fistula, a sebaceous cyst, or a fatty tumor. A careful study of the location and the direction taken by the exit canal will point to the true nature of the "gathering."

The best treatment is removal of the entire affected area. We must remember that the surrounding tissue may be diseased, particularly if the sufferer has been running a temperature or if pus has appeared. Before making an incision, some surgeons advocate the introduction of an aniline dye, such as methylene blue, in order to identify the cells involved. In this connection, we must recall that there may be more than one opening.

Then follows skilled dissection, which will eradicate the involved region completely. Sulfanilamide powder may be dusted into the wound and the drug may also be given by mouth to forestall further trouble. The operation requires skill. All portions of the backbone demand due respect.

After healing has begun, the process may be hastened by hot sitz baths, with the level of the water higher than the wound. Apparently heat brings more blood to the vicinity and speeds recovery.

If, for any reason, surgery is out of the question, noninfected pouches may be filled with a solution composed of absolute alcohol, chloroform, glacial acetic acid, and ferric chloride. Many cases have been reported in which the use of this preparation has been successful. At the outset, the "tunnels" are opened widely, to permit free drainage. The mixture is allowed to remain in contact with the cells for from 5 to 15 minutes, and the procedure is repeated every two or three days. Deep X-ray has also been advocated.

FORCASTERS.

L. L. writes: With every change in weather the area around an old appendectomy scar becomes painful. What causes this?

REPLY.

With many, a rheumatic joint acts up as the barometer falls. Corns that are painless most of the time may exhibit the same behavior. The answer lies in a nerve twig which starts to throb as the air grows lighter.

CRUMBLING NAILS.

Mrs. W. writes: What causes the toenail to become powdery when cut?

REPLY.

They are excessively dry and brittle. In addition, a ringworm infection may be present.

SERVANT TAX DODGING.

Flossmoor, Ill., Feb. 18.—Since the announcement that employers of domestic help must report the salaries paid them in order that they should do their share and assume some of the burdens of war, a wholesale tax evasion has started.

The domestic servant resents paying taxes and takes that resentment out on the employer if and when he sends in a report of her income, and since the servant problem is a serious one at this time, few employers are patriotic enough to report the salary at the expense of being left maidless.

I have sent in a report of my maid's wages. She is resentful because every maid she encounters tells her that they will not have to pay taxes because "considerate" employers have not reported their income or else have listed them as nursemaids instead of as housemaids. I have found this to be true by questioning many employers of maids; in fact, I only found one employer who planned on sending in a report and he intended making it "considerate."

CURIOUS.

STUCK BY THE FREEZE.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—I am the manager of a small hotel, capacity 86 units. The owner was very generous with rentals previous to March 1, 1942, as most of his permanent guests were out of work or on WPA. Then came the freeze, and rooms worth $7 a week had to continue being rented at $4.50 or $5.

Wages have since increased and even tho we pay over the union scale we cannot keep maids. They all go to defense plants for higher pay. Every item we purchase has jumped from 20 per cent to 100 per cent. We are forced, however, to give the same service to our guests, many of whom are making from $50 to $80 weekly in defense work.

I ask you: Has the little man a chance to realize on his investment? J. L.

WENDELL WONDERS.

Downers Grove, Ill., Feb. 18.—That ardent New Dealer, Wendell L. Wilkie, is in our midst attempting to discover the reason for his unpopularity in the middle west. Having asked a great many Republicans the same question I find that the consensus is that the gentleman never was a Republican, isn't now, and never will be. The only place where Wendell really rates is in the editorial rooms of the Henry Luce publications. Outside of that his popularity runs from zero to 10 below. It's too bad some friend doesn't tell him the facts of life and advise him to return to the New Deal party where he belongs. R. C. P.

IT MAKES HIM SWEAR

Western Springs, Ill., Feb. 18.—I note in the papers during the last few days that to get the No. 2 ration book either I or my wife is supposed to remember with exactness how much coffee we had on hand on Nov. 28, 1942. If either of us misses the fact we are liable to a $10,000 fine, etc. The only truthful answer that can be given to that question is "I don't know." The registrars ought to be cautioned not to urge people to state how much they think they had, since a guess is not a truthful answer.

I hope that others will also insist on telling the exact truth in answer to this d— f— question. "KNOW NOTHING."

MORALS CAN'T BE LEGISLATED.

Camp Stewart, Ga., Feb. 13.—One of the most welcome events of the day here in Camp Stewart is the arrival of my copy of THE TRIBUNE, which can attribute its dominating position in the newspaper world to news coverage and a courageous, constructive editorial policy.

Your editorial Feb. 9 on the Errol Flynn acquittal expresses the view of the American public. The layman has long since learned something that legislators refuse to concede—that codification of moral conduct is one of life's fanciful dreams. The south tried it for 250 years prior to 1860 only to pay for its folly with a Civil war where the sons of a common people fought to death's end with each other.

The prohibitionists, as suggested in your editorial, taking advantage of a war minded America in World War I, took the tavern off the corner where liquor might be restricted to given areas and put bootleg booze beside the cradle in one home out of every five in America. Ever and anon some legislator, either fearing or aiming to please a holler-than-thou-crusade, tries to regulate sex impulses by putting some inane statute on paper. This waste of time and taxpayers' money can be stopped by a courageous press as exemplified by your editorials.

More power to THE TRIBUNE.

CORP. EDWARD M. BYRD.

Lime Ridge, Wis., Feb. 17.—The undue prominence given the malodorous Errol Flynn trial by many newspapers in the United States is a sad commentary on American journalism. At a time when the freedom of the press is under fire in certain quarters, it is stultifying for publishers to weaken their own cause by pandering to lovers of pornography. Is not this an abuse of freedom? Purveyors of filth are all too numerous today and are plying their unholy trade with impunity. The newspaper, which is a daily visitor in most homes, should be on the side of decency and morality and not ally itself with muckrakers.

CAN'T BUY TEA.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Concerning the statement in your editorial, "The Boston Tea Party in Reverse," that "there has not been anything approaching a tea shortage here," may I say that for the last three months, at least, it has been impossible to purchase tea. Nor have I been able to buy either cocoa or chocolate for the past month.

I marveled that these commodities had not been rationed, as innumerable acquaintances drink nothing but tea.

MARY LOUISE ROOS.

BUFFALO WILL SHUFFLE OFF.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 17.—I am now absolutely certain of the great American earthquake and that it is now very near. As I said it will shake 16 states. It will last a full five minutes. It will be caused by the collapse of a subterranean cavern which is beneath Lake Erie on the Michigan shore line. I estimate this cavern to be some miles across. The resultant tidal wave will damage Buffalo, but the effect will be widespread on peaks and I expect Minneapolis to be damaged. I suppose it will be the greatest quake in American history.

I do not believe that it will strike before March 1, 2, or 4, but there should be some preliminary warning on the 21st of February if only a small quake.

I have predicted each and every quake in this field and often very near the locality and some peculiar feature incidental, except the first one of Dec. 20, 1940, which attracted my attention to same. I immediately perceived the proximity of such a great event and have specialized in this field so that I miss fewer incidents in said field than anywhere else on earth. I have missed none of the quakes in this field over six hours. The cliff that tumbled onto the bus I also predicted with a location in Vermont at Barre. I also predicted the death rate very nearly. I mention this only because I am not dealing in globaloney.

PROTESTS BRING NEW HEARING ON 'INFORMER' BILL

Previous O. K. Rescinded by Senate Group.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Opponents of the administration's so-called "war security bill," which has been denounced as a measure to promote nation-wide snooping, today won a victory when the senate judiciary committee decided unanimously to rescind its prior approval of the bill and subject it to further amendments.

The motion to reconsider the legislation before reporting it to the senate was made by Sen. Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] chairman of the committee. Noting that only 6 members out of 18 on the committee were present when the bill was approved last Monday, 4 to 2, Van Nuys said he thought it only fair for the committee to consider certain objections which have been raised.

Wheeler and Langer Object.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], a member of the committee, last week denounced the bill as "the most dangerous piece of legislation that has been presented for passage in the history of this country." Publication of Wheeler's objections along with those of Senators Kenneth S. Wherry [R., Neb.] and William Langer [R., N. D.], who voted against the bill in committee, brought further opposition to the legislation and was instrumental in forcing reconsideration.

Briefly, the bill as originally approved would provide severe penalties for what may be interpreted as "hostile acts" against the United States government or her allies with intent to aid the enemy. The bill was urgently requested by the justice department on the contention that it was needed to reinforce present weaknesses in the laws regarding sabotage. But opponents contend that the legislation as now written is so broad in its application that it might easily lead to persecution and prosecution of innocent persons.

Provides Death Penalties.

The measure would provide penalties up to death or life imprisonment for committing or attempting to commit "hostile acts." It would also impose penalties up to 10 years' imprisonment, or $10,000 fine, or both, for failure to inform the FBI when some one had knowledge or reason to believe that another was committing such a "hostile act."

Critics denounced this provision as leading to nation-wide snooping and spying, opening the door to false accusations and recriminations. It was also said that the "snooping" provision might apply to newspapers which would be forced to inform on certain unprintable information which might come into their hands.

Another section of the bill interpreting as a "hostile act" the acquiring or obtaining access to data which might be calculated to inform the enemy was objected to as infringing upon freedom of the press and subjecting it to the severe penalties of this proposed law.

Modification Probable.

The snooping section of the bill is to be modified in its application. One suggestion is that it apply only to aliens instead of the "whoever" provision of the present bill. The justice department had protested that treason laws did not cover aliens, so this would satisfy one objection. Other safeguards are intended to be inserted in the bill to prevent honest mistakes or accidents from being punishable under it.

A subcommittee consisting of Senators Harley M. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], acting chairman, Ernest W. McFarland [D., Ariz.], Charles O. Andrews [D., Fla.], John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], and Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.], was instructed to consider these proposed amendments and report back to the full committee next Monday for action. The measure originally was scheduled to be reported to the senate today.

ILLINOIS GROUP FIGHTS FEDERAL CONTROL OF AIR

The Illinois Aeronautics commission will meet at the Union League club at 4 p. m. today to discuss a protest against House Rule 1012, in the national house of representatives which allegedly would increase federal control over aviation to the detriment of states.

"The bill has many admirable aspects," said Ben Regan, commission chairman, "but in my mind it absolutely disregards state rights. There is no reason for this extension of federal control at this time, and I have wired all Illinois congressmen asking that the bill be defeated."

Chairman Regan said House Bill 1012 would give the civil aeronautics authority control over all air space as well as all airports, aircraft, and pilots.

Also, at the meeting today the commission will receive a final report on the disappearance of Ted Rapala who took off Jan. 10 from the American airport and has not since been seen.

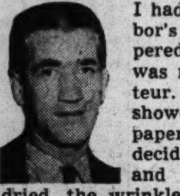
THE QUESTION.

What have you done that you thought was a failure, but turned out to be a success?

WHERE ASKED.

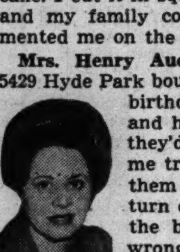
Canal and Washington streets.

THE ANSWERS.

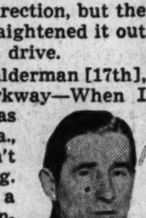


Franklin E. Peters, railroad clerk, 146 Schiller street, Elmhurst—When I had half of the neighbor's living room papered, I concluded it was no job for an amateur. Wet paste blotches showed thru and the paper was wrinkled. I decided to quit but, lo and behold, when it dried, the wrinkles disappeared and my work was beautiful.

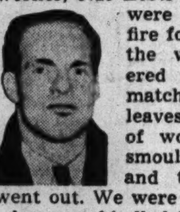
Mrs. William Van Diggelen, housewife, 1035 Touhy avenue, Park Ridge—I tried out a new cookie recipe. When I peeked into the oven, they looked like one of my worst failures. They had all run together and were raising like a cake. I cut it in squares and my family complimented me on the fine cake.



Mrs. Henry Auerbach, housewife, 5429 Hyde Park boulevard—It was my birthday so my husband and his friends thought they'd humor me and let me try to keep up with them in golf. When my turn came, I swung and the ball curved in the wrong direction, but the wind straightened it out and I had the longest drive.



William T. Murphy, alderman [17th], 372 West Normal parkway—When I was 21 years old I was sent to Sioux City, Ia., on my first job. I didn't sleep nights worrying. After one week I got a raise. That gave me confidence and it proved to be a successful beginning.



Louis H. Weller, general office worker, 6729 Leoti avenue—When we were ready to build a fire for our steak fry in the woods we discovered we had only one match. I ignited a few leaves under the sticks of wood, but the fire smouldered a minute and then apparently went out. We were pretty glum until a breeze rekindled it.

Willis E. Gresham, radio technician trainee, 4435 Malden street—My radio technician's course seemed wasted. I had spent a lot of time and money but wasn't able to find a job in which to use it. Then the war started and the demand for men with radio skill was greater than ever. Now I'm making good.

26 U. S., BRITISH FLYERS LOST ON BIG ARMY PLANE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—A four engined army transport plane carrying 26 members of the American and British air forces was lost on the South Atlantic Jan. 18, the war department announced today.

Arthur Mills of Miami, Fla., was known to be dead, and 25 other persons were listed as missing, including the 6 members of the crew, 7 officers and enlisted men of the American army, and 13 members of British air forces. Maj. Mills' body was washed ashore near Natal, Brazil, in a life raft which also contained personal property of several others.

The army had announced previously that two officers in the passenger list were missing, Col. Douglas C. Mackeachie of Medfield, Mass. and Lt. Col. Russell Reed Brunner of Baltimore. Mackeachie was general purchasing agent for the European theater of operations, and formerly director of purchases of the war production board. Sergt. James N. Clauss of Washington, Ind., was a member of the crew.

Jugo-Slavs Back Frontier Claim of Czecho-Slovakia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Restoration of the pre-Munich frontiers of Czecho-Slovakia were agreed upon by another allied nation here today. The Jugo-Slav government in exile sent a note to the Czech government in exile saying it considers the Munich agreement, in which the Sudetenland was ceded to Germany, and "all subsequent territorial changes affecting Czecho-Slovakia as nonexistent." Great Britain has already made such a declaration, as well as the Fighting French.

WORLD IS DIVIDED INTO 7 AREAS FOR OWI PROPAGANDA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—In a wholesale reorganization of its overseas branch, the office of war information divided the world into seven geographical regions or "target areas" and gave a single official sole responsibility for the psychological offensive in each of the groups of countries.

Officials of the branch, which is headed by Playwright Robert Sherwood, predicted increasing effectiveness in this country's education and propaganda effort abroad, declaring they now can "aim with a rifle rather than a shotgun."

Two high officials of the overseas branch resigned as a result of the change. They are Edgar Ansel Mowrer, foreign correspondent who has been a member of OWI's planning board, and William Whitney, chief of OWI's intelligence panel. Mowrer has been at odds with some policies of the branch, and the new reorganization was described as the climax of a series of disputes.

Each to Direct Region.

Each of the seven new regional directors will have charge of every phase of the propaganda and information effort in his region, whether carried on by radio, leaflets, publications, speakers, movies, pamphlets, or posters. The various operating branches of OWI will be reorganized along the same vertical lines.

It was officially disclosed also that Sherwood shortly will make his long-expected visit to North Africa, whence propaganda broadcasts soon will be beamed at the countries of southern Europe.

It was stated also that OWI, at request of soviet officials, already is sending a considerable file of news as well as pictures and movies into Russia, and that an outpost may be established in that country.

Ferdinand Kuhn, former London correspondent of the New York Times and former assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., was placed in charge of the newly created region I., which takes in the United Kingdom and Ireland, Australia, New Zealand, India, and South Africa.

Other Regional Chiefs.

The other regional chiefs are:

Region II.—Percy Winter, who has been in OWI's New York office and is a former European correspondent; France and Belgium, North Africa, Italy, Spain, and Portugal.

Region III.—Douglas Miller, author of "You Can't Do Business with Hitler," and a New York OWI official; Germany, Austria, Holland, Switzerland.

Region IV.—Bjorne Braatoy, formerly in the New York OWI office; Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, and the Baltic states.

Region V.—Robert Parker, who has been head of the Ankara outpost and will hold the new position only until he returns there; Turkey, Greece, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria.

Region VI.—Not yet appointed; Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Syria, and Lebanon.

Region VII.—George Taylor, formerly in OWI's San Francisco office; Japan, China, Indonesia, and the Philippines.

Owen Lattimore, writer on the orient, was designated deputy director of the overseas branch in charge of Pacific operations.

GREEN SALUTES WASHINGTON AS MOLDER OF U. S.

Gov. Dwight H. Green, speaking last night on a broadcast commemorating Brotherhood week, characterized George Washington as "the strong man, the kindred spirit among those humanitarian thinkers who carried out the true concepts of brotherhood by expressing them in the greatest human charter [the Constitution] ever written."

Washington was not an author of our historic documents, Green said, but rather a leader in inspiring men to enunciate and follow them.

Green summarized the war issue as "whether mankind shall live in glorious privileges of brotherhood, or exist shamefully and pitifully in the slavery imposed by intolerant and brutal masters."

The broadcast was sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews.

LOOK WHAT A DOCTOR DID FOR CHICAGOLAND'S MILK . . .

YOURS SINCERELY

Bud Bowman

LET'S START FROM SCRATCH—that's just about where the handling of milk was when Dr. Peck helped to found Bowman back in 1874. Yes, milk was still being dippered and sold out of big, open cans . . . how unsanitary! No wonder the first thing Dr. Peck and his associates did was bottle it. Lucky thing for Chicagoans then and now that Dr. Peck was a doctor. Lucky, too, he saw the importance of fresh, pure milk.

DR. PECK KEPT RIGHT ON doing bigger and better things about milk. Bowman began early to pasteurize milk here, and the good doctor fought so hard for this common-sense health protection that all grade A milk sold in Chicago must now be pasteurized. Dr. Peck figured that all milk should at least be sanitary, even though it couldn't all be Bowman's.

THERE'S A DOCTOR IN THE FRONT OFFICE today, too. He's Dr. D. B. Peck, our president, and under his direction all Bowman Milk is 10 times tested for purity, richness and flavor. As you can imagine, this keeps the largest laboratory staff of any Chicago dairy up to their ears in work. Of course, they're also busy searching for new ways to further improve our handling of Bowman Milk . . . and that's an even tougher job!

JUST TO SHOW HOW SMART our laboratory scientists are—here's how they can be sure Bowman's is always richer milk. They give it the "acid" test which measures exactly how much butterfat is present. That amount, by the way, was higher in Bowman's last year than the average of six leading Chicago brands. Some milk, eh!

BOWMAN MILK TEN TIMES TESTED! YOUR BEST FOOD AT ITS BEST!

DEFER STABBING INQUEST FOR LIE TEST OF MOTHER

William Keane, 19 years old, told a coroner's jury yesterday that he fatally stabbed Theodore Riseberg, 58, also known as Farnum, when the latter tried to beat his mother, Mrs. Margaret Keane, 50, in their home at 668 West 62d street.

The inquest was deferred until March 1 at the request of the police, who said they would subject the mother to a lie detector test. The police said the stories of the son and the mother were contradictory in many details concerning a quarrel preceding the slaying early Sunday.

Riseberg, who had been living in the home of Mrs. Keane, was the assistant manager of a restaurant.

Three trainmen were severely burned when four cars loaded with oil burst into flames after 16 cars oil burst into flames after 16 cars of three freight trains were derailed early yesterday at Matteson. A railroad worker blamed a mixup in switching orders for the wreck. Railroad officials are investigating. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

The fire raged three hours, melting copper trolley wires on adjacent suburban lines. Firemen from Harvey, Flossmoor, Chicago Heights, Homewood, and Olympia fought the fire.

They were aboard a southbound train of 100 freight cars when it collided with an oil tank car from a northbound train which was standing on the adjoining track. This car had been knocked into the path of the southbound train when it was struck by the last car of a third train which was being switched on a spur that connects the Illinois Central right of way with that of the Michigan Central.

Only 11 of 29 aboard reached shore alive. Sixteen of the crew were picked out of the tossing Pacific by a coast guard surf boat and a fishing craft, but seas were running so high they were unable to land for about 24 hours.

Five of the rescued, injured in the capsizing and suffering from exposure in the open coast guard boat, died during the night.

The mine sweeper's commander, Lt. Carl F. Leitz [address unannounced], was among the survivors.

The missing include Ensign William C. Laird of Chicago and Carleton H. Bay, Ottawa Lake, Mich.

OLD HOTEL, ONCE GRANT QUARTERS, IS RAZED BY FIRE

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 22 (AP).—Fire destroyed the historic Halliday hotel here today. The original five story structure was leveled, but a two story annex, built in 1908, was saved. In recent years much of the hotel, which Gen. Ulysses S. Grant used as headquarters in 1861, had been made into two and three room apartments. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Built in 1858 and regarded then as the finest hotel in this area, it first was known as the St. Charles. It became the Halliday in 1881.

During the time Gen. Grant was there in the first year of the Civil war, the hotel was taken over entirely by officers of the Union army. Grant's room overlooked the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. In the basement of the hotel were cells reportedly used for Civil war prisoners.

Romantic News Is Arriving from Faraway Points

BY JUDITH CASS.

WEDDING and engagement announcements arriving from out of town have their share of interest for Chicagoans. When Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr. and their daughter, Miss Judy, leave next week for their Palm Beach home they will be missing the marriage of Mrs. Waller's niece, Miss Elizabeth Anne Huntzinger, by just a few days. Miss Huntzinger, who has visited here from her home in San Marino, Cal., and Lt. Richard Bundy Ensign will be married on Saturday in Miami, Fla. Unfortunately the Wallers were not able to move up their travel reservations in time to be present for the wedding.

Another Chicago aunt of Miss Huntzinger, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, will be going south to visit the Wallers shortly after her return from the west. At present she is at the Biltmore in Phoenix, Ariz., with her daughter, Mrs. Henry L. McIntyre, and the latter's young son, Robin, who will join Capt. McIntyre soon at Fort Sill, Okla. Mrs. Wheeler's son, Robert T. Wheeler, and his wife are spending the winter in Chicago while he interns at St. Luke's hospital preparatory to entering the army medical corps in July as a lieutenant.

Miss Huntzinger, daughter of Mrs. Ada Thatcher Huntzinger of San Marino and of Robert L. Huntzinger of Cincinnati, O., was graduated from Briarcliffe Junior college and from the Bishop School for Girls. Her fiancé, son of Prof. and Mrs. N. E. Ensign of Urbana, Ill., is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

James William Andrews Will Marry Boston Girl.

At a tea on Sunday in Salem, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawson announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan, to Ensign James William Andrews, son of Mrs. J. Roy Andrews and the late Mr. Andrews of Hinsdale. Miss Lawson, a granddaughter of the noted artist, Frank Weston, is a junior at Smith college and a member of the Boston Junior league. Her fiancé, a third generation Chicagoan, was graduated from De Pauw university and from the Harvard school of business administration. Following his indoctrination course at Dartmouth college he was stationed in Newport, R. I., and may stop over in Chicago for a few days next week en route to his new post at Mare Island in San Francisco.

A cable to London, England, informed Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Browne of the birth on Saturday in Passavant hospital of their granddaughter, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Offutt. Mr. Offutt and the former Moyra Browne have been living here since their return from St. Louis six months ago. At present Mr. Offutt is awaiting his call from the army, in which he has enlisted. When he reports for duty his wife and baby may go to Baltimore, Md., to be with his mother, Mrs. Ellwood Offutt.

Navy orders prevented Ensign De Forest P. Davis from coming from St. Louis, Mo., to welcome his new son, born on Feb. 13 in Passavant hospital. The first son of Ensign Davis and the former Lucille Davis has been named for his father. The baby and his sister, Lucille, who is almost 2, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Swift of Boston, Mass.

Finch Alumnae Will See Films of College Today.

Alumnae of Finch Junior college will gather at the Chicago Athletic club at 4:30 o'clock today to see pictures of the college shown by Miss Jean Anderson, assistant to the dean at Finch. Miss Anderson, who will be in Chicago until the end of the week, will tell about the school's new course to train students for reconstruction work in Greece after the war, a project which is sponsored by the Friends of Greece and the American Quakers.

The engagement of Miss Marion Frances Biser to Midshipman Samuel Linthicum Fiske is of interest here because Miss Biser and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frederick Biser of Manhasset, Long Island, formerly lived in Wilmette. Miss Biser attended Goucher college and the Katharine Gibbs school in New York. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Linthicum Fiske of Round Bay, Md., attended the United States Naval Academy Preparatory school in Norfolk, Va., and at present is at the naval academy in Annapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Charles of Rahway, N. J., and Dummerston, Vt., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Wynne, to Cadet Ernest Collier Price, son of Dr. Ernest A. Price of Chicago and the late Mrs. Price. Miss Charles, a graduate of the Vail-Deane School for Girls in Elizabeth, N. J., is a student at Bennington college. Cadet Price, who attended the University of Illinois, will be graduated in June from West Point.

Joyce Harker's Marriage to Walton Wetten Is Told.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Feb. 17 of Miss Joyce Harker, daughter of Dr. Wade C. Harker and the late Dr. Lyla Harker of Oak Park, to Walton Wetten, son of Emil C. Wetten of Barrington. The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock in the Oak Park home of the bride's father and stepmother. Mr. Wetten, a nephew of Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward and of Albert H. Wetten, is connected with the Chicago ordnance department, and he and his bride will live in Delaware place.

The marriage of Miss Mary Jean Peoples, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grover Peoples of Pelham Manor, N. Y., formerly of Oak Park, to Lloyd William Ellison of the coast guard took place on Feb. 20 in the Episcopal Church of the Transfigura-

Army Major and Wife Snapped at Pinehurst

Maj. and Mrs. Augustin S. Hart Jr. snapped at Pinehurst, N. C., with a picturesque red buckboard in the background, won't be attending the famous resort's polo matches any longer. Earlier this month they were transferred from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where the former Margaret Stuart's brother, Capt. R. Douglas Stuart Jr., and his wife were waiting to welcome them. Capt. and Mrs. Stuart have been at Fort Sill for a year. [Pinehurst Photo.]

Dentists Learn New Methods of Anesthesia

Pain, both real and imaginary, was discussed yesterday at the opening of the 79th annual midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society in the Palmer House.

"We have developed techniques in anesthesia to such an extent that we can almost guarantee painless dentistry, with rare exceptions," Dr. Harry Sicher, professor of anatomy at the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, said at a question and answer conference on "Pain."

"However, an imaginary pain is as painful to the patient as real pain. The patient who fears the dentist will suffer more than one who is not afraid."

While Dr. Sicher warned that there is no magic anesthetic to alleviate all pain, demonstrators among the commercial displays at the convention were showing the 6,000 dentists attending the meeting anesthetics which numb simply by being rubbed on the skin.

"You don't even have to let the patient feel the prick of the needle," said one demonstrator, and to prove his point rubbed some of his anesthetic on the lips of a hearer with a doubtful smile. Within three minutes the doubter admitted his lips were numb and "frozen," possibly to the extent that he could not feel the prick of a needle.

Psychological pain also drew attention at the exhibits, which included displays of hypnotic drugs, designed to put the patient at ease before he opens his mouth for the drill.

At the opening session of the dental meeting yesterday morning, Dr. Harry H. Shapiro and Dr. Raymond C. Truex of Columbia university declared that dental procedures have been discovered to relieve deafness in only a limited number of cases. Their essay was awarded a $500 convention prize.

The afternoon was given over to question and answer conferences and at a general session last night a round table discussion was based on "Economic and Social Changes and Their Implications for Medicine and Dentistry."

Featured speaker of the convention will be Paul V. McNutt, war man power commission chairman, speaking at dinner tonight. Dr. C. Willard Camalier, Washington, D. C., also will speak, outlining activities of the war service committee of the American Dental association, of which he is chairman.

The committee yesterday outlined details of the army and navy program for dental schools in which all schools except the Harvard university school of dental medicine will be asked to participate. Students will be chosen by boards established in the various service commands and will enter the schools as privates or seamen. It is planned to graduate 825 dental students every nine months, enroll 982 more, and earmark 1,402 for dental training.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

With more than 50 Negro women office workers arriving in Chicago the end of this month, under the war department's decentralization program, the Y. W. C. A., with the help of the Urban league, has begun the job of rounding up homes for them in Chicago's Negro communities. This, said Mrs. Miette B. Cummings, director of the service department of the Y. W. C. A., has resulted in the expansion of the Y. W. C. A.'s room registry service.

Mrs. Cummings said that to find homes for these workers is quite a problem in the Negro community, where the housing shortage is acute. The war department's decentralization office will delegate a member of its own staff to coöperate in this effort. She will make her headquarters at the South Park way Center Y. W. C. A., 4559 South Park way, and work under the Y. W. C. A.'s service department, following its established procedure of visiting homes in which newcomers may be placed.

The Y. W. C. A. will start with lists made available by the Urban league, by the war department's decentralization office, and by its own surveys. The South Side Community center will also coöperate, according to Horace Caton, its director.

Chicago's 45 day drive for 2,500 WAVES and SPARs began yesterday with a 100 per cent increase in applicants at the enrollment office, room 1175, Board of Trade building. By 3 o'clock yesterday more than 185 young women had come to the office for information and examination, according to Lt. Mary Daily, in charge of WAVES procurement. The secretary of the navy inaugurated the drive by swearing into the WAVES Elizabeth Arthur, Roberta Eggert, and Alva I. Leo of Chicago, and Cheryl Hoerler of Moline. Another early enrollee was Rose Daulton of Newark, Ill. She joined up to aid her brothers, George and James, both in the army. She was a member of the Yorkville, Ill., girls' softball team and a life insurance company employé until her enrollment.

Eleven SPARs, the first enlistees in the coast guard reserve to arrive in the Chicago district for duty, will take over clerical and secretarial jobs in the district office today, the first step in a plan which eventually will replace all men in shore jobs with women. The 11 young women were graduated last week from the Coast Guard Training school at Cedar Falls, Ia.

They arrived yesterday and spent their first day here touring the coast guard station. They also took a ride in a coast guard cutter. Ensign Mary Kennedy, procurement officer in charge of the group, accompanied them.

Louise Cole and Jean Killian, senior members of the Wheaton college rifle team, can't enlist in the army for active service, but they're doing their part by training Wheaton Army Reserve Corps students. Last week the first graduates of their class in riflery reported to Fort Sheridan for active service, called up under the army enlisted reserve corps program. Both girls have qualified for the army E rating in marksmanship. Miss Cole also holds an expert rating with the National Rifle association, and Miss Killian has qualified for its sharpshooting rating. Neither girl had any experience in riflery before entering Wheaton.

Last semester they trained approximately 25 men in the rudiments of marksmanship. During the current semester they will help to train the officers and enlisted men of the Wheaton college cadet training corps, a volunteer pre-induction military training course with a personnel of 200. The WCTC is not officially connected with the army.

Chairmen of 137 Red Cross production units on the north shore have been invited to an anniversary tea to be held from 3 until 5 o'clock today at the north shore production depot, 1109 Chicago avenue, Evanston. The depot marks its first year of operation today, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, who is in charge, said. She also holds the post of vice chairman of production for the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. During the year the depot has taken in 60,000 garments for emergency and army and navy relief and made more than 1,500,000 surgical dressings.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's essential to the safety of the war worker that she have no dangerously loose curls or straggling ends of hair flying about. Those who object to wearing a hair covering might like to consider a handy little "hair retainer."

This is a little comb-like affair but so constructed that the hair is caught securely and without the possibility of becoming loose. It has a spring construction, the teeth bulging toward the center to meet one another in a tight grip. The ends are rounded, making it easy to slip into the hair and eliminating the possibility of scratching the scalp. Dress the hair according to individual style and secure the curls and rolls in place with the tiny combs.

Women who favor an upswept hair-do will appreciate these little helps to a sleek coiffure. They can be tucked in at strategic points about a pompadour and at the back of the head to keep the hair firmly in place.

Another version of the comb has a tiny pin attached to it which may be clipped to the front of a hat band with the teeth of the comb pointing in. This makes the device a sure anchor for any hat, no matter how giddy or small. Once the comb is inserted in the hair it will take an extra strong wind to budge the hat.

Notions counters and some salons carry these gadgets in two sizes; short or long tooth, and in a variety of colors to match almost any shade of hair.

Horowitz Plays Brilliantly as Ever in Concert

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Vladimir Horowitz spent a busy two hours at Orchestra hall last night, sustaining his reputation as the most brilliant of contemporary pianists before a capacity audience which included a stageful of men and one woman in uniform, who were his guests, and taking time at intermission to autograph 100 sets of program notes, which sold for $5,000 in war bonds.

Incredibly, or so it seems to me, it was 15 years ago that the Russian made his début at Orchestra hall. That year he played Rachmaninoff's Third Concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Frederick Stock, and the air still crackles when you think about it. In the intervening years he has built up a vast public, and he has kept that public by getting better with the seasons. At the top you don't stand still. It's too slippery.

The Horowitz of 1943 has lost none of his coruscating splendor, none of that incandescent flame of temperament that sets a concert hall tingling with excitement. But to that fiery brilliance, that vertiginous skill and that resonant richness of tone, he has added the riper fruits of maturity. There is about his playing today a relaxation of mood that has deepened his perception and widened his scope. His technique used to be an end in itself, and a dazzling destination it was; nowadays it is just as dazzling, but it is a means to the end of hearing music.

Last night Horowitz honored Sergei Rachmaninoff by playing the great man's Second Sonata in honor of his 70th year. With the composer's permission, he used his own version, which combines the original work written in 1913 with some of the revisions made in 1931. The result was music in the grand style, full in color, glowing in tonal sweep, demanding and receiving the glory of the grand manner.

Yet this same pianist was able to revive Mendelssohn's Variations sèrieuses with remarkable success, to play three of Domenico Scarlatti's sonatas with fastidious elegance, and to bring to a Chopin group the dexterity, the fluency and the imagination that mesmerize an audience.

My own favorite Scarlatti was the stately Siciliana, which curved from his fingers with a serenity that nudged the urbane, but I couldn't choose from the Chopin. The mazurkas were chiseled in dance time, the waltz was a recurrent wraith of shadowy memory, and both the Polonaise Brillante and the great Polonaise in A flat were prodigious feats of dimensional performance which scorned the merely percussive.

I was unable to stay for encores, but a luckier member of the audience telephoned these for your collection: Debussy's "Serenade for a Doll," Liszt's Paganini Etude, a Brahms waltz and Horowitz's own "Carmen" variations. Of course you already know he returns to Orchestra hall in a second recital March 29.

Dangers of Federal Education Controls Told at Conference

Post-war planning must include education on a regional and local basis, with a minimum of federal control, Louis Wirth of the national resources planning board told 700 delegates at the national conference of the Progressive Education association yesterday in the Morrison hotel. The conference, which opened Sunday and will close today, is being held in coöperation with the Association for Family Living.

"We must not assume that our educational techniques at the present time are good enough to cope with post-war problems," he stated. "What the nation as a whole will do in education after the war will not compensate for what the state and local communities will fail to do. The federal government has been in the educational field for some time because it is necessary to have minimum standards. These minimum standards, however, must be enriched with local, state, and regional provisions. Complete federal control of education could be the 'boogey man' in the future of education."

Broken Dream.

Donal McGrath, 7, son of the late consul of Ireland in Chicago, had already surprised his mother by calmly informing her he would take no more cod liver oil during the war as, "if the stuff were any good it would be rationed." The other day he approached her and asked if she had heard the rumor that Hitler was dead.

"Yes," his mother said, "I did hear that."

"If that's true," Donal said sadly, "it spoils all my plans."

Busybody on the L.

From the Daily Northwestern comes the tale of a student who, studying his German translations for the next day when riding on the L, noticed the lady beside him watching him intently. A little later she moved to a seat behind him and soon was engaged in a frantic conversation with a gentleman whom the student assumed to be her husband.

"You know," she trumpeted, "that boy is reading German! I think it's simply terrible that such things are allowed to go on. He may be picking up some code there."

When the student got off the L he strode up to the lady, pounded his chest carefully, and without a trace of a German accent said: "And I have a swastika tattooed on my chest, too!"

Understatement of the Day.

F. E. Munsch reports the boy at St. Philip's High school who, in an essay on Washington at Valley Forge and MacArthur at Bataan, wrote of "the unrefrigerated foxholes of Bataan."

The Swedes Accept the Irish.

Passersby strolling outside the Svithiod Singing club's clubroom the other night were astonished to hear the strains of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" come rolling out of its Scandinavian sanctum. They were even more astonished to hear, as an encore, a touching rendition of "Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder." The graceful tenor was that of a new member, Chief of Dectectives John L. Sullivan.

Great Man in Huddle.

It happened 10 days ago during a rehearsal of the Chicago symphony orchestra with Sergei Rachmaninoff, the great pianist. During an intermission Rachmaninoff sent for John Weicher, concertmaster, who the following week was to revive the late Dr. Stock's violin concerto in D minor. Weicher found the pianist, a giant of a man, huddled in a corner, his valuable hands in mittens, an electrically heated muff in his lap. Speaking so slowly that a year elapsed after each word, Rachmaninoff began, "You . . . will . . . play . . . the . . . Stock . . . concerto?" Weicher nodded. "How . . . long . . . is . . . it?" Weicher said it lasted 33 minutes. "Too . . . long," Rachmaninoff said glumly. "Is . . . it . . . published?" Weicher said it was. "That . . . is . . . bad. To . . . have . . . music . . . published . . . and . . . no . . . one . . . plays . . . it." Weicher asked when he was going to write a violin concerto. "It . . . is . . . too . . . difficult . . . to . . . write . . . for . . . the . . . violin." A silence ensued; then Rachmaninoff said, "I . . . have . . . a . . . pain . . . in . . . my . . . back. I . . . have . . . had . . . it . . . four . . . hours." "O," Weicher soothed him, "you'll forget it when you go to the piano." "Yes . . ." the great man groaned, "but . . . what . . . will . . . I . . . do . . . between . . . now . . . and . . . when . . . I . . . go . . . to . . . the . . . piano?"

Cotton Lingerie Returns, Early but Glamorous

BY REA SEEGER.

One of the biggest surprises for the shopper is the large showings of new cotton lingerie and negligees, presented weeks earlier than usual. Shrewd shoppers, realizing that the first choice offers more new models [some never play a return engagement], snap at the newest ideas while the snapping is good.

Lovely sheer and surprisingly silky textured nainsook makes some exquisite nightgowns faintly reminiscent of Victorian trousseaux. Beading, lace and eyelet embroidery add to that remembrance. Ruffled bands of the eyelet embroidery make crisp little shoulder bands, edge the demure square cut necklines or contrast the deep vee necklines. Generously long skirts are cut on the bias and fit as smoothly as any gown of satin or silk. Pale pastel tints of pink, blue, and yellow are exceptionally effective, with the white lace trim or the colored net bands and insertions the same shade as the nainsook.

Shorter [and we mean much shorter] cotton gowns are here, causing the unsuspecting shopper a moment or two of shock. Many of them look like extra long hospital bed gowns, but the dismal comparison ends there, for the upper portions look like any other frilly feminine nightgown with decorative yokes, vee necklines, puff sleeves or the widened shoulder straps to serve as cap sleeves. Material is conserved in the length, and many women like these shorter models.

Cotton house coats and negligees teamed with a companion nightgown are easy to look at and exquisitely dainty in white as well as all the pastels. Ribbons, lace, tucks, fagoting, embroidery and all such fine handwork fully appreciated by the most demanding shopper make these very first cottons a welcome change after a "red" winter of woolies and flannelettes.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. James J. O'Connor of Ainslie street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Lucille, to Harry Warner Pierson, son of Harry O. Pierson of Eddy street. Miss O'Connor, a graduate of the Marywood School for Girls, is attending the National College of Education. Her fiancé will enter the army following his graduation next month from Loyola university.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Quinn of South Austin boulevard of the engagement of their oldest daughter, Jean Marie, to Donald P. Hayman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hayman of North Menard avenue. Miss Quinn attended Mundelein college. The wedding is planned for May 8 at St. Catherine's church in Oak Park.

The announcement of Miss Sherry Florence Melton's engagement to Ensign Jack Burton Portnoy, U. S. N. R., is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Eisen of North Whipple street. Miss Melton studied dramatics at the Theodora Irvine school in New York City. Ensign Portnoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mandel Portnoy of West Sheridan road, was graduated from Northwestern University Law school and received his commission at Columbia university.

CHAPTER 30.
BLACKMAIL PAID OFF.

There was a comfortable armchair in the empty room. Florrie felt her way to it and sat down. It was dark, and she had to wait until midnight, but she wasn't at all afraid of going to sleep.

She had plenty of things to think about—a hundred things—a hundred pounds—a fortune. A hundred pounds meant escape from work—security—perhaps marriage to Bert and a rise in life. She saw herself ordering a maid about, shopping handsomely on High street, buying the red three-piece she had seen at Jones's last time she was in, going out Sundays in a nice little car with Bert. Money in the bank, too—money. . . .

She had left the door the least little crack ajar. Presently she came out of her dream. The clock in the hall was striking 12. As her sharp ears caught the sound she slipped out of the room like a shadow, along the passage, down the big staircase, and thru the hall, to the study. She had not gone more eagerly to any of her meetings with Bert. Here—now—in this room, she was to get her hundred pounds.

The light in the hall, which burned all night, saw her to the corner of the passage upon which the study opened. The door was open now, but the room was dark. So she was there first. A cold draught met her on the threshold. Some one must have left the window open. As she hesitated, the door of the morning room opened behind her and the voice which she was expecting said, "Put on the light, Florrie. I've got the money for you."

A hundred pounds! Her hand went eagerly to the switch. For a moment she stood outlined against the sudden light within the room. Then a gloved hand came up and the study poker came crashing down. She slumped forward without a cry. The person who had wielded the poker examined its work and was satisfied. The poker was laid down beside the body. A gloved left hand switched off the light. There was a faint sound of retreating footsteps. After that no sound at all.

Laura woke up in the dark. It was very dark indeed, because, altho one of the windows was open, the black-out curtain hung across it and no light came thru. She did not know what had waked her, but she came up out of sleep with a sense of fear pressing hard upon her and only just escaped. Fear—blind, formless, dreadfully unknown—it hammered at her brain, her heart, her pulses. There was no other sound in the room.

She sat up stiffly in the bed, listening, trying to steady herself, and moment by moment the dark tide ebbed away, leaving her Laura Fane again, in control, instead of a hunted thing without a name driven by a nameless fear.

The relief was great, but her throat was dry and her body shaken. She got out of bed, felt her way to the washstand, and poured a glass of water from the carafe. Its icy coldness made her shiver, but it steadied her. She set the glass back and went to the door, walking barefoot on the carpet, feeling before her with her hands. It was in her mind to turn the key in the lock, altho why she could not have told, because the fear had been in her own mind, in a dream she had forgotten. It had come up with her out of her sleep, and it was gone. Why, then, should it be in her mind to lock the door of her room? She had no answer to this, but all at once she opened the door and looked out.

After the even velvet darkness inside the room, the passage with its one light burning at the far end seemed really bright. She looked to the right, and saw the wide corridor spacious and empty. She looked to the left, and saw Agnes Fane come from the gallery leading to the stairs.

The fear returned. It caught at her heart and held her immovable. She could not have moved for her very life, but she did not know why, except that she was seeing what she was not meant to see; what no one was meant to see. Because Agnes Fane was walking. She was on her feet and walking, unbelievably tall. Her left foot dragged in an ugly limp. It was as if she fought the drag and defied it, for her body remained erect. She came so slowly that, if Laura could have moved, she might have drawn back into the safe darkness of her room and locked the door. Only she could not move. She could only stand and wait while Agnes Fane came on.

As she drew nearer, Laura saw her face like a white mask, her hair still orderly, her pearls about her throat, a loose gown wrapping her, purple or purplish red. Her dark eyes blazed. They came to Laura and rested there. She put a hand to the wall and stood looking down from that great height of hers. When she spoke her voice was low and harsh.

"What are you doing out of bed?"

There was a compulsion on Laura to speak, and to speak the truth. She said: "I was afraid."

Agnes Fane looked at her, not with scorn or anger, but with a cold, alien look. She said:

"What are you afraid of?"

"I don't know."

The look changed a little, and the voice became harsher.

"Go back to bed! and lock your door—both doors! Go back to your bed and stay there! Do you hear?"

Stiffly, Laura obeyed, moved from the threshold, stepped back into the room, leaned upon the door with the flat of her hand until it closed, turned the key in the lock. From the other side of the door there was the sound of a long sighing breath. The dragging step went past.

Laura groped to the bathroom door and locked that, too, groped for the bedside switch and put on the light, got back into bed, and lay there shuddering with cold.

And then, as she looked towards the door, she saw the handle move. Instantly the terror was beating at her heart again. The handle turned quite silently until it could turn no more. Then it stopped. There was the faintest of faint sounds as pressure came upon the lock—hardly a sound at all. Perhaps she had only imagined it.

Laura sat up in bed, a hand on either side of her pressing the mattress down. She watched the door and strained to listen, but she could hear nothing. She kept saying to herself in a horrified inner whisper, "The doors are locked. The bathroom door is locked. This door is locked. Nobody can get in." And then, behind her on the left, there came a tapping on the bathroom door.

She was out of bed and on her feet in a moment. The tapping came again, faint but insistent.

Standing with her hand on the jamb, bending to the crack between it and the door, she said, "Who's there?"

She had never felt so much relief in all her life as she did when Lucy Adams's fretful voice came to her ear.

"Are you awake? Let me in! Why do you lock your door?"

Laura turned the key with a shaking hand. But it was relief that made it shake. All her horrible fear—and then Cousin Lucy.

She opened the door, and Lucy Adams came in in a red flannel dressing gown with the gold chain of her pince-nez pinned to it. She wore a worried expression, and spoke in a whisper.

"It is Agnes—she is ill. Why did you lock your door? I don't approve of it. Suppose there was a fire. Your cousin Agnes is ill, and I could not make her hear. We must get the doctor at once. You must help me."

Laura caught up her green dressing gown and slipped it on.

"What's the matter? Is she very ill?"

Lucy Adams jerked at her pince-nez.

"She has these attacks. They are very alarming. She cannot be left. Perry is with her. I must go down and telephone for the doctor, but I can't do it alone. It's all been such a shock. I can't go down there alone. You must come with me."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Any one who is gullible enough to think that the experts never make egregious errors has only to consider the following hand, which has become something of a classic in New York club circles.

North, dealer.

NORTH
♥ Q J 10 7
♦ A K Q J 6

WEST
♠ 9 6
♥ K 8 5
♦ 10 9 5 4 3 2

EAST
♠ 8 7
♥ 9 6 4 3 2
♦ 7

SOUTH
♠ A K J 10 5 4 3 2
♦ 8
♣ A 9 7

This hand was actually dealt and played in a prominent New York club. The bidding was as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Certainly the contract was extremely conservative, but as it happened, it was not fulfilled. West made the inspired opening lead of a diamond and, with dummy's entry thus prematurely removed, declarer was a bit embarrassed for the best line of play. His decision, after winning the first trick in dummy, was to cash the spade queen and then to try for discards on the high diamonds. Unfortunately, this idea backfired when East promptly ruffed the second lead of diamonds. Declarer could never thereafter dispose of his losing clubs.

I have not yet, however, touched upon the astonishing feature of this deal, which was just this: The North player, the innocent victim, wrote down the North-South hands and submitted them to no fewer than 15 nationally known experts, his question in each case being "How do you play the six spade contract after the diamond opening?" The answer in 12 out of these 15 cases was unbelievable! These 12 experts, following in the footsteps of the benighted declarer, announced that they would cash the spade queen, then attempt to cash diamond tricks!

Only 3 of the 15 experts were sufficiently alert to point out the fantastic stupidity of their colleagues. These three quickly found the key play, which was the simple matter of leading a second high diamond before cashing the spade queen!

Observe the immeasurable superiority of this play. If either defender can ruff the second diamond [declarer's only danger at his small slam contract] declarer overruffs and now can use the spade queen as an entry. If the defender who ruffed originally held only one or two trumps, he will now be void of trumps and in no position to interfere with the cashing of a third diamond.

New auto designs to be years ahead

Scientists predict that automobiles of the post-war period will be nearly 20 years ahead of their normal development. Over-all design will be revolutionized and hundreds of new mechanical and scientific features, developed during the war, will be standard equipment. Good Morning!

Here is drama in the raw—the epochal story of a heroic people who worked and fought as one to defend their city against invasion, unfolding before your eyes thru the medium of news reels.

Mental suffering and physical strain carved lines on the faces and hollowed the bodies of these dauntless defenders of home and ideals, but of fear or shrinking you never see a sign. . . .

When word comes that invasion is imminent, the citizenry digs in. . . . Women quickly learn how to fill men's places in production plants that the latter may work hand in glove with the military. . . . Within the hour, broadly speaking, a peaceful countryside becomes a desolation as homes and fields are razed . . . For the enemy must find no food nor shelter. . . . Snipers and guerrillas take their stands. . . . Roads for trucks and tanks—and even a railroad—are cleared across the lake behind the enemy lines—that food and supplies may be sped into Leningrad, which appears to be a city struck into silence and immobility by an icy hand. . . . No street cars, buses, or automobiles run. . . . Those who have business on the streets—walk. . . . Rations are cut to the bone. . . .

The enemy strikes and the determined, relentless, and ingenious repellment of the Nazis by the Russians is history—history of which you can now be an eyewitness.

"It doesn't seem POSSIBLE!" you keep saying to yourself, as you watch this incredible people outwit the foe at every turn. . . . But it WAS possible!

See you tomorrow.

Musicians' Luncheon.

The Organized Women Musicians will meet at noon today in the Medical and Dental Arts building for luncheon, a lecture on oriental rugs, and a program of East India music by Lillian Poenisch.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

"The Eve of St. Mark," Maxwell Anderson's war play at the Harris theater, announces March 20 as the closing date. At that time the play will have completed a stay of nine weeks in Chicago. A spring tour will follow, with bookings already scheduled for Dayton, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Toledo, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh. Because of yesterday's holiday matinée, there will be no Wednesday afternoon performance of "The Eve of St. Mark" this week.

The cast of "Cry Havoc" arrived in the city yesterday, to spend a week in final rehearsals here before the opening at the Studebaker theater next Monday. In advance of the formal public première, two special preview performances will be given before privately invited audiences of soldiers, sailors, and members of the women's auxiliaries. These will take place on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon.

In addition to Bridget Hart [the ex-burlesque star, Margie Hart, in a new and soberer type of enterprise], the cast includes Flora Campbell, Florence MacMichael, Eugenia Rawls, Maxine Stuart, Pax Walker, Jacqueline Susann, Mary Herriot, Patricia Ironside, Ann Dere, Margaret Phillips, Mary Fletcher, and Bess Winburn. Several of these appeared in the Pacific coast production.

Katharine Cornell's much praised production of "The Three Sisters," by Anton Chekhov, probably will reach Chicago about May 17. Miss Cornell plans to end the Broadway run April 5, and thereafter to set forth on a tour which will include six more easterly cities before it reaches Chicago. The revival, staged by Guthrie McClintic, has a notable cast, including Judith Anderson, Edmund Gwenn, Ruth Gordon, Dennis King, Gertrude Musgrove, Alexander Knox, McKay Morris, Tom Powers, Eric Dressler, and Miss Cornell.

Paul Muni's tour in John Golden's revival of "Counsellor-at-Law," the Elmer Rice play, hangs in the balance. Mr. Muni has not been well, and a number of performances have had to be suspended in New York. Future plans will depend on the state of his health.

Margaret Webster, the celebrated stage director, lectures this morning at 11:30 at Rosary college, River Forest. Her subject is "The Adventure of Acting."

Ruth Chatterton and Ralph Forbes are appearing in "Private Lives" this week at the Davidson theater in Milwaukee. Their Chicago opening takes place at the Erlanger theater Sunday evening.

Looking at Hollywood . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 22.—Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough are having their first taste of our methods. They tried to please everybody by doing the script as fast as they wrote their book, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," but those assisting said, "This will never do! Anybody as rapid as this will throw our writers out of jobs. Slow down, gals!" . . . Pola Negri stopped in town just long enough to phone Astrologer Carol Righter before pushing off for Palm Springs.

On the Go.

Lt. Lew Ayres in town for a week's furlough—also Lt. Billy Bakewell. . . . Ran into Mary Brian at the Mocambo, who told me about her personal appearance in Washington D. C. She'd gotten a reservation a month in advance, her train was late, she arrived at hotel to find her room already gone, with manager saying, "You can't expect us to hold a room an hour and a half." So for the whole week she was shuffled from one hotel to another as guests left the city for a night. . . . Johnny McLain there with Mona Maris. . . . Dorothy Lamour and fiancé. . . . Ann Rutherford wearing a thing on her head that looked as tho it had been put together at the notions counter. I should talk! Charlie Butterworth wanting to borrow a bugle to begin practicing for "This Is the Navy." . . . Soignee Phyllis Brooks. Don't let any one fool you—her real beau is Winston Frost. He's in the South Pacific.

Babies—Just Babies.

David Niven is so proud of his first baby you'd think he'd started that whole stork business. . . . Gloria Vanderbilt Sr. is wearing a lovely watch recently received from her daughter, with this inscribed: "All my love to my darling mother, from Gloria." . . . Lana Turner is in the seclusion of the Arrowhead Springs hotel for the "duration." . . . The Brian Donlevey heiress is named Judith Ann. Is he crowing! Sounds like Niven. . . . Ethel Barrymore's daughter, Ethel Jr., auditions for Metropolitan Opera this month. . . .

Bird's-Eye View.

Ina Claire and Brock Pemberton in town looking over our Hollywood canteen before opening theirs in San Francisco, and quite delighted they were, too. Ina took time out to visit Adrian and order herself lots of new clothes. . . . Deanna Durbin will be glorified by Adrian in her next. . . . He'll probably slay me for telling, but he has three Nubian goats, and come Sunday, when his gardener's away, he puts on his milking coat and takes care of them. . . . Lowell Mellett stopped off to visit me before going back to Washington, and, far from having any criticism about our pictures or picture makers, he had nothing but words of praise about pictures he's seen. Thinks as I do that our movies can do a magnificent job for peace or rather as ambassadors of good will in all countries, and that this year there'll be a greater output of fine pictures than ever before. Those that he's seen, including "The Moon Is Down," "Air Force," "Mission to Moscow," "The Human Comedy," "This Land Is Mine," are not only good, but bordering on greatness.

Short Shorts.

Little Susan Hayward, before taking off for New York, spent much time with Gant Gaiter, who's here talking plays to Gladys George. . . . Since Mimi Chandler signed up for movies, her pappy, Happy, has become traveling salesman. Yes, that man's here again. . . . When Freddie Slack and his band open at the Casa Manana, Fred Astaire, Joan Leslie, and E. H. Griffith will be on hand to give them a cheer. They became friends when Freddie and the boys were doing "The Sky's the Limit."

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Nourishing vegetable soups are going to be important items in war time restricted meals. We can make soup out of any of the inexpensive and easily obtainable vegetables which will be mainstays in our diet before long. Not all of them need to be made with milk, altho "cream" soups supply extra nourishment in the form of calcium, phosphorus, high quality protein, and vitamins.

In view of the fact that milk is expensive and likely to be rationed, we'd better make our cream soups with part milk and part water, or meat and vegetable stock.

Cream of Cauliflower Soup.

[Serves five.]

3 cups cauliflower sections
1 small onion, chopped fine
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
Salt, pepper
5 cups milk and cooking water
3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook cauliflower sections in boiling water to cover until just tender. Drain, saving the cooking water. Chop cauliflower fine. Sauté onion in butter and add flour. Add cooking water and enough milk to make five cups of liquid together. Cook and stir until thickened and smooth. Add chopped cauliflower. Do not boil. Serve piping hot, with the parsley sprinkled on top of each serving. The parsley adds an extra dose of vitamins to the soup.

Peapod and Carrot Soup.

[Serves four.]

Pods from 2 pounds fresh peas
4 green onions, sliced with tops
2 tablespoons butter, margarine, or meat drippings
3 tablespoons flour
Salt, pepper
4 cups cooking water and milk or stock
Salt, pepper
1 cup grated raw carrots

Save the pods next time you have fresh peas. Two pounds of peas will serve four persons at two meals if you use the pods. Cover them with boiling, salted water and cook gently, covered, until tender. It may take 45 minutes to an hour. Press them thru a sieve, saving cooking water and pulp. Sauté sliced green onions in butter and flour and add seasonings. Add cooking water, extending it with milk or stock. Cook until smooth and thickened. Add peapod pulp and grated carrots. Simmer 10 minutes and serve.

Black Bean Soup.

[Serves six.]

2 cups black beans
1 onion, chopped
2 stalks celery, sliced
2 stalks celery, sliced
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts stock or water
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 hard cooked eggs
1 lemon, sliced thin

Wash beans and soak over night. Boil half an hour, drain, and add fresh water or stock, the two quarts in the recipe. Cook celery and onion in fat several minutes and add to beans. Cover and simmer until soft, adding more liquid as needed. Rub thru a sieve. Add seasonings. Serve with garnish of sliced lemon and hard cooked egg. One teaspoon of bitters may be used shortly before serving, if desired.

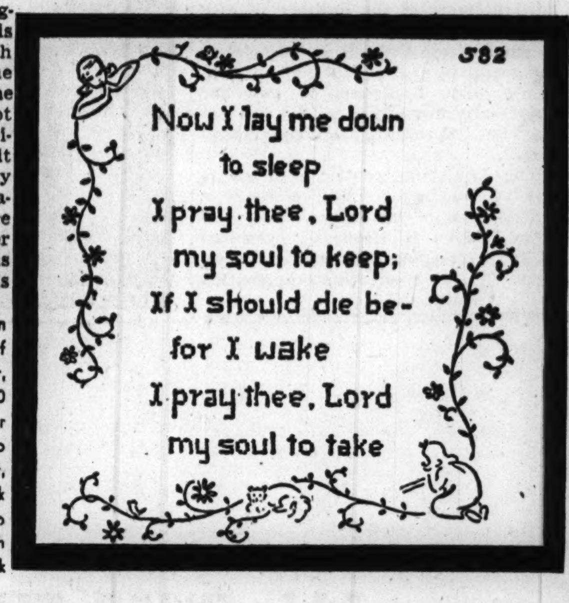
Child's Bedtime Prayer

BY NANCY CABOT.

A thoroly original Easter gift is the cross-stitch sampler of the child's bedtime prayer. It is not difficult to embroider, and, when it is finished, it may be framed in natural wood. The hot iron transfer pattern contains complete details for execution.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the bedtime prayer, No. 582, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.



White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Office Gremlins.

"We have Gremlins in our office too," writes F. G. "They pry off the stamps from rush letters, flip the pages of the day book, disconnect important clients on the telephone and snag [at 4:30 p.m.] my new pair of hose when I have a dinner date."

Colloquially.

Virginia Pennock relates the incident to prove that secretaries, office workers, and school marms have no monopoly on good diction, grammar, etc.

Said the customer next to her at the restaurant counter one recent morning, "This coffee isn't so hot."

The waitress pondered a moment, then arched an eyebrow. "Literally," she asked, "or figuratively?"

Co-workers.

A speaker before a group of business girls asked them to jot down a list of annoyances suffered at the hands of co-workers, then to compare themselves with the list to see whether they are guilty of the same faults.

Topping the list of co-worker annoyances was loud, grimacing chewing. ["Worse since the war," one girl commented, "perhaps because of nervousness, but it doesn't help my nerves to watch it!"]

Interrupting was another grievance—"butting in" when one person in an office is not busy and others are. Appropriating erasers, pencils, and desk equipment was mentioned. Untidiness—throwing things in the direction of the waste basket, leaving files in disorder, and disregarding office routine—were listed. And disturbing mannerisms—giggling, smirking, chattering, head scratching, and coughing—were the bane of many an office existence.

The speaker's point was that none of us is merely a worker; we are all co-workers and as such our rating among our associates is part of our business quotient.

Dis and Data.

A woman, Esther Williams, is working in the yards of the Illinois Central Railroad. She wears blue overalls and for two months has been checking and carding cars, weighing when necessary, and performing all the duties of a "mud hop" on the "4 to 12 trick." Her ambition, she says, is to have the men accept her "as an equal in the work I do." Fresh from the farm, she can drive a mower, milk cows, and "outfarm most of them," she says. . . . Career girls who work late are protesting [via the morning mail] that it is difficult to eat dinner alone in the loop inconspicuously. Maybe some restaurants would do well to reserve a business girls' corner from 6 to 8. . . . My favorite woman of the month is the frazzle-nerved secretary in an office where people come and go like mad. After a hectic day she went home and went to bed. Later that night her husband had a nightmare; she sat bolt upright, tried to waken him and couldn't for the life of her remember his name! . . . The search for the awkwardest, homeliest gangliest, lonesomest man in the United States army has ended. "I nominate myself," writes Jim. "Not complaining, just facing facts."

Abundant Rest Urged to Help Build Up Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

No matter how bright the sun may shine these winter days, it hasn't the health virtue that it has in summer. And besides, if you live in a city, the smoke and fumes in the air block much of the sunlight. Colds are very prevalent in sunless months. Certainly there has been a veritable epidemic of colds. Of the people who have them many are walking around with them, spreading the cold germs.

In this series of articles written to help you find out why your child's school work is poor, I want to add a word on the subject of colds, and of the child who may not be chronically tired, but seems to be having a "tired spell."

Today I want to suggest that during these next two or three months you guard against even occasional excessive fatigue. When you notice your growing child showing signs of more than normal end of the day tiredness, see that he gets in a big whack of extra rest and even some extra food. This builds up resistance to colds and, of course, makes him more fit mentally.

The other suggestion I want to offer is this: Not only for health but for your child's school efficiency, since that is our point this week, bend over backwards in the matter of colds. Never mind the teacher's insistence upon individual attendance records. Never mind competitive class attendance records, which sometimes wrongly cause pressure to be brought to bear on children who may be afraid to be late or absent because of the teacher's or other children's disapproval.

If you child gets up some morning looking wan and listless [you know that look!]; if he has no appetite; if he goes to bed at night with a sniffle and a scratch in his throat, keep him home and even in bed the next day. It may check a cold completely or else make it lighter than it would otherwise be. And it is a protection to the other children.

Or, suppose he comes down hard and suddenly with a cold. Don't let him go back to school until he is well over it. This prevents a relapse, or one of those long drawn out coughs or dragged down spells. After an illness, school work often suffers for weeks because a child in low physical condition is allowed to go back too soon.

SENATORS DEFY F. D. R. DEMANDS FOR JOB CONTROL

Group in Favor of Bill to Check Appointments.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Over President Roosevelt's objections, a bill requiring senate confirmation of federal employés receiving more than $4,500 annually was tentatively approved by a senate judiciary subcommittee today, but in somewhat modified form.

Sen. E. W. McFarland.

The President had expressed "unqualified opposition" to the measure in a letter Saturday to Vice President Wallace, and acting Chairman Ernest W. McFarland [D., Ariz.] said Mr. Roosevelt's views were considered when the committee made tentative changes in the bill today.

Raise Salary Requirement.

The group voted to retain a provision requiring confirmation at the $4,500 level instead of the $3,800 figure suggested by the measure's author, Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.]. It tentatively agreed to write in an amendment proposed by Sen. Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.] which would eliminate the confirmation requirement in the case of technical and engineering employés of the government.

McFarland said the group had under consideration amendments which would waive this requirement for persons who had obtained a civil service rating by 1936 and in cases where merit promotions carried employés beyond the $4,500 figure.

The group agreed to eliminate a section which would end the tenure of all higher paid employés on June 30 and require confirmation before they could continue in their jobs. This same provision would have given these employés four year terms of office instead of their present indefinite period of employment.

Keeps Jobs Check.

Streamlined with all of these changes, the measure nevertheless retained the definite check on personnel appointments which President Roosevelt said presupposed "congressional responsibility for the operations of executive agencies."

Chairman Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] said the full judiciary committee would consider the measure at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. He said he thought the revised bill probably would be approved by a slender majority, despite strong administration opposition.

The senate itself appeared to be closely divided on the question of whether it should take upon itself the task of passing on so many appointments and majority leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky said he had no idea whether the measure would pass or not.

To Revive Old Bill.

At the same time, senators forecast revival of vetoed legislation prescribing administrative procedure for government agencies.

Chairman Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.] said a subcommittee which held lengthy hearings on the administrative bill in the last session of congress would go to work soon on an attempt to draft a compromise measure which would impose standardized regulations on government departments.

"That's the way to control any abuses which arise in the bureaus and agencies," Hatch told reporters. "I don't think you can correct abuses by requiring senate confirmation of 30,000 executive employés. The way to stop these abuses is to provide for speedy court review of administrative decisions and rulings."

J. H. writes: "I expect to be drafted very soon. My mother, who lives in another state, is a widow with four children under 16 years of age. She is now receiving financial assistance from the government agency known as Aid to Dependent Children. The allowance is very small, and I have previously been obligated to add to it. It amounted to about $30 a month. If I applied for benefits, will the amount of such allowance be deducted from her monthly A. D. C. check?"

ANSWER: Since each state makes its own rulings on Aid to Dependent Children cases, it is difficult to advise you. If your mother were a resident of this state, I understand that any amount contributed by you would be deducted, unless the amount you previously contributed was considered at the time her budget was made up. I believe it would be best to have your mother consult her case worker or write to the department of public welfare of the state in which she resides.

Mrs. H. H. writes: "My husband was transferred to the enlisted reserve for six months because of my health. My physician has now informed me that I will never be able to work again due to my condition, which has not improved. Can you tell me what we can do, since I have no family or friends to assist me? Also when my husband was transferred and returned home, he received some money which he had already paid as his share of a family allowance for me. That money was returned to him, but we did not receive the government contribution."

ANSWER: Army officials suggest that your husband contact the commander of the last camp at which he was stationed and provide a certified statement from your physician testifying as to the state of your health and requesting an extension of his present reserve status. If necessary, the Military and Naval Welfare service of the American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue, will assist him in making that application.

As long as your husband is not in active service, you will not be eligible for a family allowance. If the money which he paid in for your family allowance has been returned to him, it seems likely that his application has been canceled until such time as he returns to active duty.

LOUISIANA HOUSE MEMBERS JOIN IN OPPOSING ALLRED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 [Special].—Louisiana house members tonight denounced President Roosevelt's nomination of James V. Allred of Texas to be a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals as an attempt to pay a political debt at the expense of Louisiana's claims to representation on the court.

The protest, which was contained in a statement signed by the entire delegation, also assailed the choice of Allred as amounting to a promotion to a man who resigned from the bench to make a political campaign. Allred, who was governor of Texas from 1935 to 1939, quit a $10,000 a year life job as a federal district judge to make an unsuccessful run with administration backing against Sen. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.] last fall.

The Louisiana representatives asserted it is "not conducive to the best interests of the nation" to give a judge a furlough from the judiciary to run for political office. The circuit judgeship is a life job paying $12,000 a year. Louisiana is now the only state among six in the 5th circuit not represented on the circuit bench.

The Louisiana protest will go to the senate judiciary committee, which already has received a wire from Ledoux R. Provosty, president of the Louisiana Bar association expressing the association's opposition to the nomination.

MRS. BROOKS SAYS SHE'LL SUE FOR DIVORCE IN RENO

Reno, Nev., Feb. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Gertrude Ackerly Brooks, wife of United States Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], will seek a Reno divorce, she announced here today thru her attorney, Thomas F. Ryan.

The typed announcement handed to reporters by Ryan said:

"I plan to institute suit for divorce against my husband, Sen. Wayland Brooks, at an early date.

"We have entered into an agreement covering financial and property matters, the details of which I prefer not to make public.

"Needless to say, is is a matter of regret that due to the demand of public service upon his time it is impossible to continue our marriage. I am happy to add, however, that our parting is attended by sincere feelings of mutual friendship, respect, and loyalty."

Ryan said Mrs. Brooks arrived in Reno last night.

Sen. and Mrs. Brooks were married Aug. 26, 1920, and have one child, Russel, 18 years old.

Small Amount of Service Men's Mail on Burned Car

The announcement was in answer to a large number of telephone calls. Most of the mail was parcel post and printed matter en route to New England.

WHAT! ONLY ONE ATTRACTIVE LITTLE BAG?

Thank you, Mrs. Jones, for your patriotic forethought . . .

Car space is so limited, we certainly do appreciate the thoughtfulness of passengers who carry just as little luggage as they can.

Awake to the traffic strain, and anxious to help, many people are traveling with less baggage today—taking only what they'll surely need. Best of all, they're carrying less—checking in the baggage car all parcels and luggage not needed en route. This takes thoughtfulness—for it means breaking old habits.

Passenger traffic doubled last year. Our load will increase still more this year. So the Santa Fe will be more grateful than ever for your cooperation in 1943.

HEAVY BOYS FIGHT TONIGHT IN GOLDEN GLOVES

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

IF INDIANA university's basketball team has balance, there's a reason. . . . All five of the starting lineup this season have enjoyed the distinction of being high point man for at least one game. . . . That goes for Ralph Hamilton, Irving Swanson, John Logan, Dick Wittenbraker, and Ward Williams. . . . Bob Saggau, former half back and sprinter at Notre Dame, is piloting a dive bomber in the Pacific. . . . Buddy Parker, the Chicago Cardinals' blocking back, has resumed his job in the Consolidated Aircraft plant in Grand Prairie, Tex., since the army and navy have rejected him for active service. . . . Joe Farrell, Blackhawk press agent, who has been around the world several times and once was stone broke in Shanghai, has been homesick this winter for his new home town, Rockford, Mich., selected by Joe a couple of years ago as site of his summer residence. . . . Those who have wondered about this newborn nostalgia have just found the reason. . . . Joe is a member of the volunteer fire department and has missed two dandy fires this winter. . . . The first Illinois state high school basketball tournament was organized by Lewis Omer, then director of the Oak Park Y. M. C. A. in 1908. . . . Thirteen teams were invited to compete. . . . Last year 917 started the tournament series. . . . Joe Hatten, sensational pitching prospect who was headed for the majors via Montreal when the war broke out, is compiling an amazing record with the Oakland Naval Air Base team. . . . Since joining the service he has won 21 games, lost one, pitched one no-hit, no-run game, three one hitters, 44 consecutive scoreless innings, and 243 strikeouts in 193 innings. . . . Man o' War is expecting nine equine blessed events this spring. . . .

Red Lucas, 41, former Red and Pirate curver, is getting in shape at his Nashville home. . . . He thinks the man power shortage may result in his big league comeback effort. . . . Maj. Ed Scott, who led the Flying Fortress attack on Rabaul, is the same Ed Scott who played half back at Mississippi State in the late '30s. . . . Jack Drees, sportscaster, who broadcast college football games for W-G-N last season, is a naval lieutenant [j. g.] at Camp Schuyler, New York. . . . The tariff the French Lick hotel will charge members of the Cubs and White Sox spring training parties includes the price of a daily sulphur bath, a tough break for those who cling to the idea that Saturday night is the only time to soak. . . . Ten per cent of the gross receipts of the Ohio State-Illinois football game at Cleveland—$11,347.22—has been turned over to the army and navy relief funds. . . . Clark Shaughnessy never has seen the University of Pittsburgh play football. . . . George [Skeeter] Dickey, former White Sox catcher, is an instructor in an antiaircraft school at Great Lakes. . . . He recently was erroneously reported stationed on an island near Alaska. . . . Fred Schott, heavyweight member of the Cleveland Plain Dealer Golden Gloves team, which is competing in the current tournament at Chicago Stadium, was an all around star at Akron, O., North High school.

Changing Rooms.

I shall be merely changing rooms,
When I go up to die;
I'll pause a moment on the stair
To smile and say, "Good-by."

I hope when I shall go, to leave
The door closed not too tight,
So in the darkness you may see
A stream of radiant light.

And then to linger long enough
To hear a loved one say:
"There is no darkness over there;
It's just as light as day."

A Chicago mother announces with pride
That her son is a baker in camp;
She boasts that the pastries and pies he makes
Now rate him a definite champ.

And it comes out exactly right."

But in days to come consider his wife,

When he says, "Hon, it's swell but it's not like the cakes
That I used to bake for my mother."

HOOSIERS BEAT GOPHERS, 40-28, IN HOME FINAL

Maroons Lose 38th Straight Game.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 22 [Special].—The Indiana university basketball team won its 18th game of the season and 11th of 12 played in the Big Ten conference by defeating Minnesota, 40 to 28, here tonight. The Hoosiers' offense was slowed down by the failure of Ralph Hamilton to get a basket for the first time this year. Hamilton got three free throws before he left the game in the last five minutes with an injured ankle.

Despite the absence of Ward Williams, sophomore center, who played only three minutes in the first half, Indiana was in front 20 to 14 at the intermission. After Bill Lind and Dick Burk of Minnesota had cut the lead to three points at 21 to 18, Williams returned and the Hoosiers pulled away again.

The 40 points scored tonight enabled the Indiana five to beat the university scoring record for the regular season play. The Hoosiers now have 994 points in 19 contests, nine points more than the 1942 outfit scored in 21 games. Lineup:

Chicago's Maroons led for the first thirty seconds in their Big Ten cellar battle, but Iowa's Hawkeyes, paced by Capt. Ben Trickey, then moved ahead and broke their own seven game losing streak by whipping the Chicago quintet 62 to 34, in the Midway fieldhouse last night. The Maroons remained at the bottom of the Big Ten, their losing streak in Western conference games stretched to 38 games. Trickey took scoring honors with 21 points.

Chicago scored first on Hank Ellman's looping basket, but then the Hawkeyes held the Maroons scoreless for eight minutes while they piled up 17 points. Lineups:

MUTUEL HANDLE IS UP $60,000 AT OAKLAWN PARK

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 22 (AP).—Through Bound, a fleet 3 year old with a knack of breaking on top and staying there, bore the red and green silks of Mrs. A. R. Smith to a three length victory today in the ninth annual renewal of the $1,500 Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin handicap at Oaklawn Park. The handicap featured the opening day program of Hot Springs' 30 day racing season.

The mutuel handle and attendance today dispelled all doubts that war time transportation problems would be a factor in the operation of Oaklawn this year. A paid crowd of 5,959 persons and many pass holders contributed to a mutuel handle of $195,149 compared to the opening day handle of $136,165 last year when there was a paid attendance of 5,248.

N. U. FIVE WHIPS BADGERS, 56-54

Wildcats Triumph in Overtime.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 22 [Special].—Northwestern strengthened its grip on third place in the Big Ten basketball race by defeating Wisconsin, 56 to 54, in overtime tonight. The score at the end of regulation time was 48-all.

Otto Graham, Bud Hasse, Russ Wendland, and Bobby Jake scored in that order for Northwestern in the extra time, while Ray Patterson's heroic efforts accounted for all of the Badgers' points.

The Badgers had the game virtually won during regular playing time, but a mental lapse cost them victory. They had put on a second half rally to come from behind and lead with less than a half minute to play, but lost the ball by shooting instead of keeping control.

16TH TOURNEY OF CHAMPIONS OPENS WITH FURIOUS BATTLES

Jackie Graves Wins; Leroy Jackson of Cleveland Loses.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, a show which maintains the most brilliant pace and the most highly entertaining level of variety in all amateur sport—opened last night in the Stadium with a traditionally sensational salvo of punches. From early evening until nearly midnight, fighters of the four lighter weights performed.

Tonight the bigger fellows box. Contenders in the 147, 160, 175, and heavyweight classes will launch their campaigns—and there's every prospect that they'll keep things moving just as fast as the little lads did last night.

Dalton Wins Two Fights.

Only one of Chicago's four lighter representatives survived. This was Tim Dalton, 135 pound city champion. Tim did some heroic slugging to turn back two formidable foes. After whipping Joe D'Amico of Milwaukee in a first round engagement, Dalton turned back Leonard Patton of Gary in a hard hitting second round encounter.

The only team to put over a clean sweep was Camp Grant. Led by Al Noto, former Golden Gloves champion from Chicago, the soldiers sent all four of their lighter fighters on to Wednesday's quarter-finals. Noto's comrades were Gene Roberts, Herb Mashino and Clinton Hirata. Noto and Roberts each won two bouts and their teammates advanced on only one victory after drawing first round byes.

Graves Better than Ever.

The fans who gathered in the Stadium watched veterans vie with youngsters who were making their first appearance in the big show. They saw Jackie Graves, Minneapolis featherweight, start out staunchly in quest of another title. Graves, who took the 118 pound championship last year, hammered out a bitterly contested decision over Manuel Ortego of Fort Worth—a team which year after year sends particularly powerful representation into the Tournament of Chmampions.

Graves, in whipping Ortego decisively, showed that his ring generalship has matured to the point of genius in the course of the year. Ortego was unable at any stage of the fight to solve the Minneapolis boy's southpaw style.

The competition was so tough that Leroy Jackson, national A. A. U. champion from Cleveland, was whipped in a first round battle. He lost a decision to Frank Montoya of the Fort Worth squad, who is a soldier from Fort Bliss.

32 Survivors Listed.

At the close of the evening's fighting eight boys in each of the four lighter classes still were in the running for championships.

They follow:

112 pounds—Al Noto, Camp Grant; Spider Shoek, Fort Wayne; Jose Andreas, Fort Worth; Pat Simeri, Gary; Major Jones, Kansas City; Matt Hammond, Minneapolis; Barry Darby, Oklahoma City, and Joe Martinez, Omaha.

118 pounds—Gene Roberts, Camp Grant; Ike La Soya, Cedar Rapids; Vergil Zakhi, Fort Wayne; Pat Sheehy, Minneapolis; Murphy Tate, Nashville; Jeep O'Neal, Oklahoma City; Ralph Pollett, Streator, and William Sitzman of Sioux City, Ia.

126 pounds—Herb Mashino, Camp Grant; Tony Janiro, Cleveland; Tony Caminitti, Columbus; Bob Crosley, Fort Wayne; Joe Luciana, Memphis; Jackie Graves, Minneapolis; John Giansante, Nashville; and Arthur Emmerson, Richmond, Ind.

135 POUNDS—Clinton Hirata, Camp Grant; Chuck Hunter, Cleveland; Levi Southall, Kansas City; Roger Welter, Cedar Rapids; Hubert Gray, Fort Worth; Charles Scott, Richmond, Ind.; Tim Dalton, Chicago, and Dick Haley, Columbus, O.

JAP AND CHINESE WORK AS TEAM

Toy Seconds Mashino in Golden Gloves.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A Jap landed in Chicago last night, reënforced by a Chinese.

No, folks, everything is O. K. The Japanese in question is Herbie Mashino, son of Japanese-born parents, and himself a native of good old Kansas City, Missouri, U. S. A., and his second in one of the most convincing fights of the first night of the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions was Georgie Toy, an old Golden Glover himself and a native of good old Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

And if you're getting too curious, consider that both Herbie and Georgie are army sergeants, stationed at Camp Grant out Rockford way for the nonce and both itching to get down to business elsewhere. Maybe this situation is the answer to Golden Gloves warfare, a Chinese-American boy tutoring a Japanese-American kid, and both of them doing a grand job.

Toy Is Former A. A. U. Champion.

Herbie is a real American, attending the Oklahoma military academy in Claremore, Okla., and then going on to two years at Centenary [La.] college. He won the flyweight title in the Oklahoma A. A. U. But his coach, Sergt. Toy, did far better than that. He took part in the 1940 Golden Gloves tourney as a member of the Cleveland Plain Dealer team, made a good showing, and then went on to win the National A. A. U. lightweight championship in San Francisco.

Victim of the Mashino barrage was Jimmy Pryor of Gary, who fought a willing fight until he ran into the double-barrelled fire sent at him by Herbie.

Boys' Town, most famous juvenile community in the world, will be represented tonight when the heavier guns begin firing in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in Chicago Stadium. The standard bearer of the Nebraska school will be Clarence Adams, a Negro welterweight who had two reasons for fighting his way to Chicago. One, of course, was to win a Golden Glove. The other was to visit his mother, who lives here.

Seventeen year old Adams is not only a handy youth at boxing, but he also can tote a football, as witnessed by his feat of last fall when he ran 65 yards for a touchdown as a half back on the Boys' Town team which visited Springfield, O.

The four boys who will represent the Kansas City, Mo., Star's team tonight are all service men. They include Heavyweight Tom Irwin of Shreveport, La.; Light Heavyweight Willis Applegate of New Jersey; Hy Bronstein of New York City's Bronx, and Tony Ancona, the Detroit youth who figured in the Golden Gloves championship picture before, winning the featherweight crown in 1939 and the lightweight honors of 1940. Irwin's brother, Harry, was a Golden

HAWKS TO OPEN 3 GAME TRIP IN BOSTON TONIGHT

Chicagoans Set Sights for Third Place.

The Chicago Blackhawks left yesterday on a three game road trip which may determine whether they are to get into the National Hockey league playoffs. Tonight they face the Bruins in Boston, Thursday they meet the Rangers in New York, and Saturday they encounter the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

Boston has won three games from the Hawks in Boston Garden, while the Hawks have captured an equal number from the Bruins in Chicago. They also have played 4 to 4 ties in each city.

Doug Bentley of the Hawks gained on Boston's Bill Cowley, league leading scorer, last week. Cowley has 22 goals and 41 assists for 63 points, while Bentley, whose 27 goals are high for the circuit, also has 30 assists for 57 points. Max Bentley is third with 56 points. Leading scorers:

Heavier Boys Box Tonight in Golden Gloves

set up in the center of the arena. With action going on simultaneously in both of these, there was never a break in the entertainment thruout the evening. Two rings again will be used tonight.

The Tournament of Champions will reach its conclusion tomorrow night when fighters of all weights will take part in third round and quarter-final matches. This will reduce the original field of 200 boxers to 32—4 in each weight class. These boys will return on March 5 for the semi-finals and finals in the Stadium.

Those who attend tonight's show will see three boys who have won Golden Gloves championships in previous years. These are Tony Ancona, Morris Corona, and Tom Attra.

Puts Robinson on Floor.

Ancona, who won the lightweight title in 1940 when he was a member of the Detroit squad, is with the Kansas City team this year. He's in the cavalry now and is stationed at Fort Riley, Kas. In addition to winning his Golden Gloves championship, Ancona performed very well on the Intercity team but it was his misfortune to have Ray Robinson representing New York in that weight class. As it was, Tony had Robinson on the floor once but in the end the sensational New York fighter prevailed. Tony has put on a bit more weight and is now competing in the welterweight class.

Corona also has moved into the 147 pound division after taking the lightweight title last season. With these two veterans shooting for the same championship, there's every prospect that the battle in this division will be one of the most closely fought in the entire tournament.

Chicago fans expect to have plenty to cheer about when the four heavier representatives of this city go into action. Followers of the local team are expecting great work from Bill Johnson, Savoy A. C. middleweight who knocked out Bill Berskovich of Navy Pier in one of the most sensational bouts ever waged for the city title.

WOMEN'S TENPIN CLASSIC DRAWS 1,714 TEAMS

The season's largest bowling tournament, the 15th annual American Women's classic, is to open Saturday at two Chicago recreation centers for a run that will continue thru April 4. The entry this year totals 22,249 in team, singles, doubles, and special events. The team entry alone is 1,714.

Participation will be limited to bowlers living within a radius of 300 miles of Chicago, thereby bringing in women from Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, and Iowa, as well as Illinois. All teams will shoot at Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway, while competition in doubles, singles, and special events is scheduled at Congress Recreation center, 31 East Congress street.

Jap-Chinese Team Wins in Golden Gloves

Gloves qualifier out of Shreveport a couple of years ago.

Fans may miss Bobby Burns, who won the 1942 Golden Gloves welterweight championship as a member of the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette team, but Ken Hershey, Burns' successor, will try hard to make them forget the champion when he goes into action in the Stadium tonight. Burns is in the navy and stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Tony Janiro, the Cleveland 16 year old who has the face of a choir boy and a punch with the kick of a mule, won the 23d straight fight of his career last night in whipping the talented Proctor Heinhold of Oklahoma City.

Nick Scialaba, winner of the 1931 bantamweight Golden Gloves championship, served as a second during last night's bouts.

Wabash IRON HORSE Gets More Power for VICTORY

WABASH and other railroads are carrying a tremendous volume of freight and passenger traffic. This splendid, patriotic job is being done with fewer locomotives. How? Wabash, for example, remodeled many of its "iron horses" during the lean 30's, giving them more power and stamina to do more work today. That was foresight... a real Service for Victory!

That Extra Something!

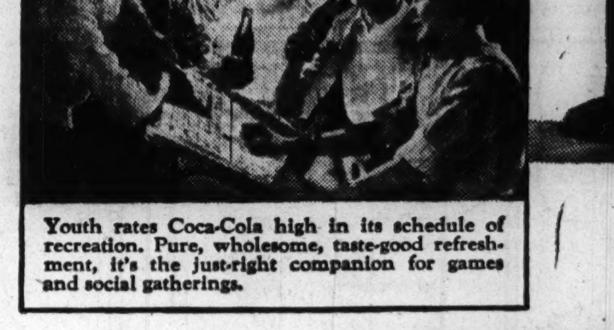
...You can spot it every time

A game has to possess an extra something to have such widespread popularity as bowling. That's true of a soft drink. Coca-Cola had to be good to become the best-liked soft drink on earth.

Choicest ingredients and a finished art in its making produce in Coca-Cola a drink that stands apart. Notice how you never tire of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its taste never fails to please. And Coca-Cola more than quenches thirst. It adds refreshment. Makes any rest-pause, the pause that refreshes. Enjoy it whenever you can.

* * *

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Both mean the same thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".



Youth rates Coca-Cola high in its schedule of recreation. Pure, wholesome, taste-good refreshment, it's the just-right companion for games and social gatherings.

The best is always the better buy!

HOG PRICES GAIN DESPITE RISE IN FARM SHIPPING

Demand Outstrips Market Supply.

Farm shipments of hogs to most of the large packing centers increased yesterday, but the demand was larger than supplies. Prices rose 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds to new 24 year highs for February.

Best young hogs reached $15.80, highest since October, 1920, and the highest for a February since 1919. Prices were higher for February in only two years on record, 1918 and 1919. They reached $17.70 in 1918 and $18.15 in 1919. The record peak of $23.60 was paid in July, 1919.

Receipts Gain 10,000.

Twenty major markets received 106,000 hogs, 10,000 more than a week ago and 27,000 more than a year ago. Arrivals in Chicago were 20,500, compared with 16,745 last Monday and 14,487 a year ago.

Farmers also shipped more cattle, raising the 20 market total to 76,000, against 72,000 a week ago, and 65,000 the corresponding day last year. Best grades of steers, yearlings, and heifers were firm at the highest price levels of the year, but weakness developed in others. Top steers sold at $17 and the bulk from $14.50 to $16, some of the latter showing reductions of 15 to 25 cents.

Lambs Steady or Lower.

Lambs were steady to 25 cents lower, mostly from $15.50 to $16.50.

METROPOLITAN ISSUES 2 BILLION MORE INSURANCE

More than 2 billions in new paid for life insurance was issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in 1942, and the company's assets climbed almost to 6 billion dollars the company disclosed yesterday in its annual business statement.

With the issuance of $2,051,013,903 in paid for life insurance, not including insurance revived or increased, the total in force at the end of 1942 established a new record of $26,867,676,154. This insurance was held by nearly 30 million policy holders in the United States and Canada. The net gain in insurance in force was $1,434,450,006. Assets increased $346,868,381 in 1942 to $5,994,915,577 as of Dec. 31.

BOND SALE PLANS PUSHED DESPITE DEBT HIKE DELAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau said today he will proceed with plans to raise 13 billion dollars in a new victory loan drive this spring in the expectation that congress will act promptly on legislation increasing the national debt limit to 210 billion from the existing limit of 125 billion.

The legislation has been approved by the house ways and means committee with a rider modifying President Roosevelt's executive order limiting salaries.

The treasury reported the public debt was $113,160,159,954 Feb. 19. This amount did not include $4,290,592,118 in guaranteed obligations not subject to the debt ceiling.

"I never worry about the debt limit," Morgenthau told a press conference.

PRICE-MINUS NEW WRINKLE IN SHIP BUILDING AWARDS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—"Price-minus," a new wrinkle in war contracts, has been put in operation by the maritime commission to encourage economy in shipbuilding. The plan is designed to increase the builder's profits for keeping costs below estimates.

Here, in general, is how "price-minus" works:

The commission fixes a price for each ship based on its own estimates of labor, material, and other costs, and allows the builder a fee, about 3 per cent.

When the actual cost falls below the estimate, plus the fee, the builder is allowed to keep one-half the difference. The other half is returned to the commission.

More Synthetic Rubber to Appear in 'War' Lines

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Synthetic rubber within two or three months will begin replacing the small quantities of natural rubber permitted in hot water bottles, ice bags, and similar "war" line rubber drug sundries. The office of the rubber director reported today that the result will be a definite improvement in many cases because of the stronger resistance of some synthetics to acids, medicines, oils, and greases.

Metal Use Cut to Minimum in Big Plane Plant

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Lusty cheers of construction workmen yesterday signaled completion of the framework for the mammoth Chicago area assembly plant to be operated by the Douglas Aircraft corporation. Bedecked with flags, the last of many 150 foot wooden trusses—largest in the world—was swung into place by cranes and bolted by workmen, hastening the day when C-54 army transports begin rolling toward the fighting fronts.

The plant, designed and built by the Austin company under supervision of the United States army engineers, is making ingenious use of wood in the conservation of steel and other critical materials for more urgent war purposes.

Albert S. Low, vice president and chief engineer of the Austin company, told reporters on a tour of the plant and its auxiliary buildings that the use of 27 million board feet of lumber in construction will save about 30,000 tons of steel, copper, and aluminum for building ships, planes, and tanks.

Columns Are Laminated.

The most striking utilization of wood is in the 150 foot trusses, combined with laminated wood columns and joined with metal connectors in recently developed ways that equalize the stress and permit wider spans than were considered possible a few years ago.

Overhead conveyor systems will be suspended later as part of the straight line production method of turning out the large transport and cargo ships. The structural frame of the main building alone saved 20,000 tons of steel. Asbestos siding instead of masonry resulted in substantial savings in man power and expense.

Other savings resulted from the use of pressed wood reflectors in the plant's fluorescent lighting system, a synthetic white enamel surface avoiding the use of porcelain enameled steel with no loss in lighting efficiency.

Uses Fiber, Plastic Pipes.

Fiber downspouts, asbestos and plastic pipe, wooden manhole covers, and nonmetallic ventilating ducts and heater and radiator housings also answered the government's request to save critical metals.

The Austin company has a current construction pay roll of 8,100, including the structural steel workers who had to become accustomed to handling wood. The peak pay roll was 8,500.

A substantial portion of the plant area—farm land a few months ago—has already been turned over to Douglas, which recently announced that production of C-54 transports was under way at the plant.

SCRAP UNIT HEAD SAYS WPB BARS ITS COLLECTION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP).—B. C. Moise, president of War Materials, Inc., a 500 million dollar federal corporation organized last year to collect 5 million tons of iron and steel scrap, tonight charged Donald M. Nelson and the war production board with "progressively blocking" its objectives from the day of its creation.

Moise, in a five-page statement to be considered tomorrow by his board of directors, asserted his organization has been given only about 140,000 tons of recovery projects and has collected only 8,522 tons so far.

Moise, a former executive of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, said at a press conference that a "series of directives and orders from Washington," had "completely strangled" WMI activities.

Three More Chicagoland Plants to Get 'E' Award

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Army-navy production awards for efficiency in producing war materials have been awarded 33 additional industrial establishments, the war department announced today. Among them are Continental Motors corporation, Muskegon plant, Muskegon, Mich.; Standard Forging corporation, East Chicago plant, East Chicago, Ind., and Willamette Hyster company, Peoria plant, Peoria, Ill.

TAX DELINQUENTS.

What are the penalties for not filing the income tax return on time? What are the penalties for tax evasion? How can the government check up on a taxpayer? R. K.

Answer: Failure to file the 1942 income tax return on or before March 15, 1943, will result in a fine unless the commissioner of internal revenue finds the failure due to reasonable cause and not because of willful neglect. It is possible for the taxpayer to obtain an extension of time for filing by applying to the local collector of internal revenue. Ignorance of the law is not considered a reasonable cause for delinquency in filing tax returns.

The careless and negligent person who files late is liable to a penalty of 5 per cent of the amount of his tax if he is not more than 30 days late, with an additional 5 per cent for each subsequent 30 day period or fraction thereof. The aggregate fine is limited to 25 per cent.

Failure to file a return, or an understatement of the amount due for income tax, produces a "deficiency." The penalty for such a deficiency may be the 5 per cent negligence fine or a 50 per cent civil penalty, and possibly severe criminal penalties.

In case of a deficiency due to fraud with intent to evade the tax the 50 per cent penalty applies to the total amount of the deficiency. If there is also a fraudulent failure to file a return there is an added 25 per cent penalty, making a 75 per cent total.

In addition to civil penalties the taxpayer may be prosecuted in court and if found guilty will find himself subject to heavy additional penalties. The taxpayer who willfully fails to make a return is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. A willful attempt to evade or defeat the tax is a felony and is punishable by a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per year must be paid on any deficiency from the date prescribed for payment of the tax to the date on which the deficiency is assessed.

The government has many ways for checking up on taxpayers. For example, there are the "information at source" reports made by employers, tenants, and others. Moreover, the bureau of internal revenue gets many "tips" on persons suspected of tax evasion.

REVENUES RISE BUT UTILITY HAS LOWER PROFITS

Public Service Gain Goes for Taxes.

Increased power requirements of war industries lifted power output and revenues of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois in 1942 higher than in any previous year, the company's annual report disclosed yesterday. However, the revenue gain was more than offset by increased operating expenses and taxes, resulting in lower net income for the year.

Total operating revenues increased 6.1 per cent to $50,717,685 in 1942 from $47,808,996 the preceding year, while profits slumped to $3,237,447 from $4,376,421. Of last year's total revenues, electric revenues amounted to 76.6 per cent and gas revenue 23 per cent.

The company's total tax bill increased to $9,318.784 last year from $7,630,854 a year ago. Federal income taxes declined to $1,998,000 from $2,146,200 in 1941, but excess profits taxes increased to $2,798,100 from $1,128,400.

Demand Less than Expected.

The report said that altho power requirements of war industries increased, 1942 demands did not reach anticipated levels. It added that there was a lessening in commercial and nonwar industrial activity.

Net sales totaling $36,348,337, the highest in the company's history, boosted net income of the Chicago Mail Order company 47.9 per cent in 1942. Net earnings were $592,557, or $1.71 a common share, in the year ended Jan. 1, 1943, compared with $400,402, or $1.16 a share, the preceding year. Instalment sales declined 36.8 per cent to $3,244,360. Taxes were more than doubled to $1,495,906 from $353,019 in 1941.

The J. I. Case company, Racine, Wis., designer, manufacturer, and distributor of farm machinery since 1842, closed its 100th year of operation in 1942 with approximately 75 per cent of its factory operation devoted to war production, President Leon R. Clausen told stockholders.

Case Profit Declines.

Clausen said that altho the volume of war production was large, it was not relatively important as a source of net income during the 1942 fiscal year. Profits for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 decreased to $3,482,919, compared with $4,263,233 the preceding fiscal year.

American Woolen company in its annual report said that "altho the government contracts awarded to this company were at fair and reasonable prices based on competitive bidding, or at prices fixed by the procurement officers themselves, the government took the position that under the renegotiation statute it was entitled to part of the company's profits because the large volume of war business has made it possible for the company to reduce its unit costs and thereby to realize greater profits than would have been realized on a normal volume."

For 1942 the amount to be refunded, the report added, would be $9,150,000. Net profit for the year was $4,823,830 after a 2 million dollar provision for a special contingency reserve, against a net of $6,943,886 for 1941. Sales were $196,031,461, compared with $145,749,428.

Big Business Has Hold on War Boards, Sen. Stewart Charges

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Asserting there is evidence of an "unwholesome intimacy" between federal war agencies and "big business" interests, Sen. Tom Stewart [D., Tenn.] asked the senate today to "uproot the predatory, the irresponsible and the obstructive in this burocracy."

He urged that the small business committee, of which he is a member, be authorized to check the business and professional background of all government employés drawing $4,500 or more annually "and of every dollar-a-year man connected with the government in any way whatsoever."

Fears End of Democracy.

Stewart said the "deepening conviction" grew on him that "we are in the grip of a reactionary change, which, if unchecked, will make any excesses of the New Deal pale into insignificance in the backward length to which it may go—lengths which could conceivably bring extermination of traditional democracy in this country."

He said he referred to representatives of big business with the "know-how to throttle everybody and everything" that stand in their way "and I don't exempt the national interests of this country or the success of our arms in this war."

Stewart referred to testimony before his committee that the WPB was continuing construction of a 38 million dollar armor plate plant for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, United States Steel subsidiary, at Gary, Ind.—where there was "traffic congestion" and "labor shortage"—when there were many virtually idle small plants "crying for armor plate construction" and when a group of independents operating as the standard steel pool demonstrated ability to surpass the big companies in production.

Raps Tire Use of Rayon.

The Tennessean said an agriculture subcommittee developed that a WPB advisory committee was insisting upon substitution of rayon for cotton in army tires when tests proved cotton as good or better and that adoption of the recommendation would reduce cotton markets and cripple small tire manufacturers.

He said the WPB committee was made up of two men from the Goodrich Rubber company, two from Firestone, one from General Tire and Rubber company, three from Goodyear, one from United States Rubber, two from the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and Capt. J. J. Robson, United States army ordnance, formerly with Firestone.

Four Chicago firms have been awarded army engineer construction contracts amounting to between $100,000 and $500,000 each, the Illinois Manufacturers' association announced yesterday. The firms are Fire Protection company, Industrial Erectors, Inc., Simpson Construction company, and Welso Construction company.

RAIL AND TRUCK LINK IMMINENT, SAYS EASTMAN

Viewed as Warning to Operators.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—Wider coördination of railroad and motor transport "cannot long be delayed," Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, asserted tonight.

Eastman's statement was interpreted as formal notice to railroad and trucking interests that unless they reach an early agreement ODT will issue a coördination plan of its own.

In the last several months, Eastman said, ODT has offered various proposals as "targets of discussion," and these have been under fire from all quarters. He said he believed much could be done to decrease long haul truck operations and intra-terminal and short haul rail operations during the emergency.

Keeps Sight of Post-War Shift.

The ODT director said his principal concern was that the rail-truck coordination plan safeguard the rights of railroads and truck operators so they can resume normal operations after the war.

One ODT suggestion was that truck hauls of merchandise freight be limited to 300 miles, with an additional 25-mile allowance to reach a terminal, and that railroads not be allowed to make short hauls of merchandise freight. The limit suggested for railroads was 50 miles for less-than-carload shipments, and 100 miles for carload shipments.

Some Movements "Unbalanced."

Eastman said studies by ODT had shown some instances of rail and truck movements "unbalanced in opposite directions."

He used Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., about 400 miles apart, as an example. The rail traffic of wheat and other commodities from the twin cities to Chicago is heavy, while there is a considerable flow of empty cars in the opposite direction. Trucks, on the other hand, carry finished products from Chicago to the twin cities and return largely empty.

MONEY
for Income Taxes
$25 for 30 Days Costs Only 75c
Higher taxes and larger pay roll deductions may make it difficult for you to meet the March 15 deadline this year. If so, get the cash you need from Commonwealth. By repaying in monthly instalments tailored to your individual needs, you are relieved of the burden and inconvenience caused by large lump sum payments, like taxes. The cost is based on a monthly rate of 3% on balances of $150 or less and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150, and is, as illustrated above, quite moderate for short-term loans. Get any amount from $10 to $300.
FREE INCOME TAX BOOKLET: Written especially for the taxpayer in the low and medium income brackets, this pamphlet suggests numerous ways to reduce your taxes. It may save you money. For your copy, call in person at any Commonwealth office.
